LLOYD GEORGE MAY COME TO UNITED STATES

London, July 11.—Premier Lloyd George may visit the United States to attend some of the meetings, at least, in connection with President Harding's proposed conference, according to the Daily Mail.

This is conditional on affairs at home as the premier could hardly leave until the Irish question has been settled. The Mail suggests that all technical work could be done by experts, leaving the ultimate moulding of an almost complete agreement to a final conference, at which President Harding and the premiers of the other powers would be present, in the late fall of this year or early next year.

London, July 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Lloyd George in a lengthy statement to the House of Commons today gave a full and frank explanation of the steps leading to the proposed conference for the discussion of armaments. The first principle of the British policy, he declared, was friendly co-operation with the United States.

"We are all convinced," said the prime minister, "that upon this, more than any single factor, depends the peace and well being of the world."

The initiative of President Harding with respect to an international conference on the limitation of armament had been received with the utmost pleasure by Great Britain, said Mr. Lloyd George, and he added that he spoke for the empire as a whole.

At the same time Great Britain desired to maintain close friendship and cooperation with Japan, which harmonized the influences of the two great Asiatic powers and constituted an essential safeguard to the well being of the British empire and the peace of the East. The "open door" in China was another aim of the government, together with opportunities for peaceful progress and development of the Chinese.

Both Great Britain and Japan desired that the Anglo-Japanese alliance brought into complete harmony with the covenant of the league of nations. Note to this effect has been given to the league. The latter statement developed the fact that Lord Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese ambassador at London, had signed on July 7 a new joint note to the league of nations in which, after reference to the previous joint note, in 1920, it is set forth that:

The British and Japanese governments hereby notify the league that pending further action they are agreed that if any situation arises while the Anglo-Japanese agreement remains in force, in which procedure prescribed by the terms of the agreement is inconsistent with procedure prescribed by the covenant of the league of nations, then the procedure prescribed by said covenant shall be adopted and shall prevail over that prescribed by the agreement.

There were only two members present of the distinguished visitors' gallery during the prime minister's statement—the American ambassador, Mr. Harvey, and the Chinese minister, Dr. Wellington Koo, Baron Hayashi was not present.

John Ward, Independent Labor, asked if the premier of China would be treated as a "sovereign power." The premier, looking at Dr. Koo, replied that China would be treated as "what she is—an independent."
