NEWS PARAGRAPHS

FROM WASHINGTON

(By Special News Correspondent)

Washington, D. C., March 20—The President has returned to the city from his fishing, boating and golfing trip to Florida. A great many Washingtonians regret that he did not find time to commute the sentence of the half-witted boy, McHenry, under the death sentence here. The heart-broken mother had walked to Washington from a distance to ask this of the President, but he had just left for Florida. From all accounts Mr. Harding had a delightful time, freed from the cares of State—his arduous daily grind. He was the guest, on a palatial houseboat, of a young Washingtonian who was famous a few years ago for his wild driving—a veritable road burner. His late father's will created a "spendthrift trust," but the heir has found blow-holes in it. One of his friends recently lost $60,000 worth of choice liquors by thieves, but the supplies on the houseboat are said to be intact except where shrinkage was due to "natural causes." Perhaps a hatch was left open. Dangerous waters for an orthodox Baptist, down Havana-way.

The latest gossip about the President records him as being the possessor of fifty pairs of trousers, including flog knickers. Enough to equip a centipede. Is it any wonder the National Association of Tailors was so loud in his praises? A few more such customers and they could cut a melon. Unfortunately, conditions in the country generally are so bad that many a fellow would be in a sad predicament if the pressing-iron should happen to be too hot.

Every time the Republicans carry an election in Maine they loudly announce that Maine is the finest political barometer in the land—that "as Maine goes, so goes the country." Of course Maine is as reliably Republican as Georgia is Democratic. Every one expects Maine to go Republican, and when Democrats carry elections up there it has a deep significance. Four cities in the State have elected mayors this month and all four of them were Democrats. The smallest majority (150) was in Saco, but the Democrats got six of the seven wards. In Bath the majority was four to one. Republican leaders don't talk about it, but if four cities in Georgia were to go Republican the country would be informed that it indicated a huge Republican landslide. And it would.

There will be no bonus legislation. While enjoying the scenery from the houseboat in Florida the President found means to bring Speaker Gillet to his view; as a result the Speaker will not aid his Republican brethren to put the bill through the House. The Senate leaders announce that they will take no action on it until after the fall elections. They plan to let the needy veterans wait until the leaders can see what effect the bonus situation will have on the voters; the President would be glad to see a number of recalcitrant Republican Congressmen defeated. He is sure he could better control a small Republican majority than the present unwieldy and miscellaneous collection, made up in some measure of grotesque political accidents and misfits from districts usually represented by seasoned Democratic Congressmen of long service and proved ability.

Though the President shows more backbone in standing against the soldiers' bonus than he was supposed to possess, he yields readily to the demands of the ship-owners who also desire a bonus. But they are rich and powerful and can reach his ear. The Wall Street Journal daily reflects the desires of the big corporations and the few dozens of men who are all-powerful in big business. It says: "There is no way of passing a soldiers' bonus, and if there were a way the bonus should not be paid. In any form it constitutes the rawest bribe ever offered to the voters, while it prostitutes patriotic service to the level of the meanest panhandler. But President Harding's program for building up a merchant marine will appeal as sound to all but the demagogue. The money used to subsidize shipping would be in the nature of a national defense." The President accurately reflects the mind of Wall Street. It is still true, as when Israel roamed the valley of the Jordan, that "the ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib."

The Newberry case will not down: Townsend of Michigan and Frelinghuysen of New Jersey are both opposed for renomination on the ground that they voted to establish the principle that a man could bribe the electorate and unblushingly admit it and then sit in the Senate, posing as the equal of men honestly chosen in the manner provided by the law. If these Senators who voted for Newberry—accessories after the fact—should escape defeat in the primaries their chance to get by the general election will be exceedingly slender, for all good people of all parties will unite to rebuke them from their contempt for the proprieties and their abasement of the Senate of the United States. The seating of Newberry was the most damaging blow that has been struck at the root of our system of government within a generation; to find worse examples one must go back to the purchase of the Presidency by Mark Hanna in 1896 and the theft of it from Tilden in 1876.

Hylan, New York's Democratic mayor, must be a pretty good sort of mayor, after all. The Republican State Senate has voted to increase his salary from $15,000 to $25,000.

This administration has completed its first year; the President says that it's great accomplishments "speak for themselves." If they do, their voice remains unheard by the great majority of the people, who are practically agreed that it has been a year of wasted and misspent time, and that the people who voted Harding into the White House have not even "had a run for their money." To hear the voice of these wonderful but unlisted accomplishments, the ear of the public would have to be equipped with Mr. Edison's new invention, which is said to be so capable of multiplying sound that it can hear a molecule when it turns over for another nap. The President may have thought

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which gripped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive.

the list of achievements so tedious that he had no time to enumerate every great blessing flowing forth to gladden the happy and prosperous toilers who make the welkin ring with their shouts of approval as they cast their sweaty caps in air. Or could it be that the list is like the short and simple annals of the poor and would remind the public that the administration has been trying to dip away with a teaspoon the ocean of our difficulties?

What is the answer? Here it is—here is the list of accomplishments completed to date:

1. The appropriation of twenty million dollars from the grain corporation's funds (profits made off the wheat growers) to relieve starving in a section of Russia, while starving at home is overlooked.
 2. The passage of the maternity bill with most of the good features left out.
 3. A good roads bill.
 4. The Alaska bill, turning over all of Alaska's resources to the Secretary of the Interior, so he can reward the friends of the Administration to his heart's content.
 5. Buying a Senate seat for Newberry at $200,000 per.
- To list the failures would require columns. The tariff bill is dead-locked; the re-apportionment bill failed in the House because the Republican caucus could not agree on it. The soldier-bonus bill has been dead-locked repeatedly and no prophet is so bold as to predict the outcome. But the ship-bonus (in this case the money would go to the rich and powerful ship-owners) is being energetically pushed by the President. (It all de-
