REVIVAL REACHES GREAT CLIMAX AT CENTRAL CHURCH

Eleven Hundred People Witness A Most Impressive Sight

YOUNG PEOPLE PLEDGE SELVES

Services At The Methodist Church Will Continue Through Thursday

The greatest service ever held in Central Methodist church, according to many of the oldest members who were eyewitnesses, took place last night. The entire building was filled to its capacity except the Sunday school gallery on the left side. Nearly six hundred people were counted in the spaces outside of the main auditorium. The aisles in the auditorium were filled with chairs including the space up to the altar. Nearly eleven hundred people witnessed one of the greatest sights ever seen by human eye in Florence, when at the close of the preacher's appeal and while Mr. Collins sang softly and feelingly the beautiful words: "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go," thirty-one of the choicest young men and women of Florence came, one by one, and stood around the altar of the church offering themselves to Jesus Christ to go wherever He might lead them in the way of service. Among them were some who will go to the ends of the earth as missionaries, others to preach, and others to work wherever God may appoint them.

This service was without any visible excitement or emotion. Though the great Sunday night congregation was one such as any preacher of experience naturally dreads, yet there was the strange, subtle silence of expectancy such as only an atmosphere surcharged by the presence and power of the Holy Spirit could produce. The preacher, Rev. J. W. Speake, seemed gripped by the Holy Spirit. From the text "Who knoweth whether such a time as this" he drove home the call of God for service to every heart. He showed the opportunity and privilege of Esther in the time of her people's need and how she responded. He pictured the world today, its progress, its achievements, its epochal movements, its perils, its problems, its marvelous possibilities. He showed that the measure of a man's responsibility in this hour is the measure of the world's need and his duty for service. He showed that men were living in the greatest hour of the world's history up to this time. How the door of opportunity was swinging wide open by the Divine hand. How that the curse of God would rest upon any man who dared to appropriate to himself the wondrous benefits that had been secured to him by the blood, and toll, and sacrifice of others and who did nothing to contribute to its sum-total of progress and to the future of its needs. "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the Kingdom for such a time as this?"

Upon the basis of this appeal the great congregation was asked to stand. The preacher then called the young men and women of Florence, who realized the wondrous threshold of opportunity upon which they stood, and who were willing to respond to it as Esther did when she said "I will go, and if I perish, I perish," to come forward and stand around the altar in the presence of the assembled people of Florence and offer themselves to God for any service into which He might call them.

At this point by request of Mr. Speake, Mr. Collins began to sing softly the responsive words "I'll go where you want me to go." The first to come was a young lady who offered herself for the mission fields. After a little others came. One by one still others came. Slowly, silently but steadily the line was extended until thirty-one of the choicest young men and women of Florence stood around the altar. Practically speaking, it is said that the first gun fired at Bunker Hill was heard around the world. It was fired in behalf of the freedom of men. This service last night was without sound of trumpet or gun, but its influence shall be felt and the harvest of it shall be gathered perhaps from the four corners of the world.

The morning service was rich in blessings to the great congregation attending. The afternoon service for children was one of the most impressive and fruitful services of the kind ever held. Rev. J. W. Speake will long be remembered for his part in these services. He was at his best and freely spent himself. The meeting will continue through Thursday night. Every body is urged to come and share the blessings that God is pouring out upon this meeting.

BOOTLEGGERS LIST OF OFFICIAL CUSTOMERS

Washington, March 12.—Prohibition officials themselves must take whatever action appears necessary in connection with the discovery in a recent bootleg raid here of a list of army, navy and marine corps officers. After a preliminary inquiry it was indicated that various departments would not act. They regard each case as a personal matter between the man named and the prohibition authorities.

TWENTY CASES OF MEASLES HAVE BEEN REPORTED IN CITY

HEALTH DEPARTMENT TAKING EVERY PRECAUTION TO PREVENT EPIDEMIC

HAVE BEEN CONFINED TO A FEW FAMILIES

SMALL NUMBER OF CASES OF DIPHTHERIA ALSO REPORTED TO COMMISSIONER

There have been 20 cases of measles in Florence during the past few weeks, according to the chart that has been prepared in the office of the city health commissioner. Ten of these cases have recovered and the quarantine lifted, while the other ten are still confined. As yet there is no epidemic of the malady in the city, all of the cases being confined to a very few families, and the health department believes that it has it under control and that if proper precautions are taken there will probably not be a general spread over the city as is so often the case when a contagious disease breaks out.

Most of the cases so far have been confined to the families in which they have first appeared, in several instances all of the members of the family who are not immune coming down with measles. As soon as a case was reported to the health department, the health commissioner placed a strict quarantine over it and outsiders were not permitted to come in contact with the patients or the non-immune contacts. According to the health commissioner proper precaution taken on the part of those who have the disease, or non-immunes who have come in contact with it not to come in contact with outsiders will prevent it from spreading throughout the city. People who have not had the measles should be very careful to keep away from those who have it or have been exposed to it.

There are also a small number of cases of diphtheria in the city, according to the health department but as yet there is no indication of a general spread, and a great precaution is being taken to keep it confined to the few isolated cases where it first appeared.

COLUMBIA POSTOFFICE CASE IS NOW BEING TRIED FEDERAL COURT

GOVERNMENT SUING CONSTRUCTION COMPANY FOR $31,000 AND INTEREST

SECOND TIME THE CASE BEEN TRIED

DEFENDANT ALLEGES THE GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBLE FAILURE TO COMPLETE

The retrial of the case of the United States government against William H. Maxwell, original contractor for building the new postoffice in Columbia, and his bondsmen, the Globe Indemnity company, was taken up in Federal court here this morning and is expected to continue for one or more days before the case is completed. This is the second time the case is being tried, the first time resulting in a mistrial.

The contract for building the postoffice was let to Maxwell and his work commenced on it in the early part of 1917. In 1920, not yet having completed the work the government took the contract out of his hands and awarded it to another concern which completed the structure. The government is suing the bondsmen for $31,000 and interest, the difference between the bid in the original contract and the cost of having the building completed by the concern which replaced the work.

The defendant, in his answer alleges that the reason the work was not completed was because of conditions brought about by the government itself and that the government had no right to take the contract away. The defense alleges that shortly after starting the work in 1917 the government began the construction of a number of army cantonments near Columbia, urging as a patriotic duty that all workers should work on these buildings; that the government took upon itself to pay much higher wages than the defendant was paying for labor; that the government extended the day's labor to more than eight hours, paying time and a half for overtime and double time for Sunday. This, the defense alleges, took away the laborers on their project. Another defense is that the government assumed priority on all building materials, thereby making it impossible for the defendant to secure the necessary building material to complete the work, and that the priority of the government on all coal shipments prevented the sub-contractors from furnishing the defendant with the materials they had contracted to furnish him.

Appearing for William H. Maxwell is Christie Benet, of Columbia; F. G. Thompson and F. A. W. Ireland are attorneys for the Globe Indemnity company.

MARTIAL LAW AND SEVERE PENALTIES FOR RECKLINGHAUSEN

KILLING OF FRENCH OFFICERS REGARDED AS MOST SERIOUS RUHR INCIDENT

SLAYERS REPORTED STILL AT LARGE

RENEWED RESISTANCE AMONG THE GERMANS IS INDICATED BY DISPATCHES

Recklinghausen, Mar. 12.—Eight Germans are dead as a result of clashes with French troops in various parts of Recklinghausen district. One French soldier and three Germans were wounded in a riot at Dortmund. Martial law has been declared in the entire Recklinghausen district.

Duesseldorf, May 12.—Recklinghausen district today faced severe penalties for what is possibly the most serious incident of the Ruhr occupation, the killing of Lieut. Coltin and Major Joly, director Buer railroad station. French officials indicate that Buer will be put under martial law and fined a hundred million marks. The slayers of the two officers are still at large.

Indications of renewed active resistance among German individuals were reported by the French intelligence officers during the past week. Several German secret organizations with headquarters here are said to have been formed to oppose the French in every way possible. One of these is known as "The Young Germans." Several of its leaders have been arrested. Most of the members are declared by the French to be young miners or factory workers. The mines in the Recklinghausen district, three of which are state monopolies in operation, but with the production greatly reduced. Although figures are not available the French say that a limited number of miners go down the shaft daily but work only three hours, spending the remainder of their time playing cards or in other amusements, notwithstanding they are receiving full pay. The sending of the men to the mines is said to have been adopted in order to keep them off the streets.

Several persons have been arrested in Bochum in connection with the discovery of a box of hand grenades in the German prison.

Greenville, March 12.—Cliff Hawkins, young white man of this county and alleged slayer of William Morgan and Josie Traiz, died in the county jail last Friday morning at 6:05 o'clock from natural causes and not from neglect of jailor or physicians, according to a verdict reached here today by a coroner's jury called to hold an inquest.

The inquest was held at a local undertaking parlor and Dr. A. Eugene Brown and Dr. C. W. Stone, who attended the prisoner and county officers were called to testify. LEGISLATORS HOPE TO CLOSE SESSION END OF THIS WEEK

LEGISLATURE LONGEST STATE HAS HAD SINCE RECONSTRUCTION PERIOD

SENATE WILL GET FINANCE BILL TONIGHT

COMMODITIES AND SALES TAX MEASURES WILL HAVE THE RIGHT OF WAY

Columbia, March 12.—The longest legislature South Carolina has had since Reconstruction Days is the one now in session, and at 8:50 tonight it starts its tenth week, with varied prospects as to final adjournment. Some members predict that the session will end this week, others expect it to run longer. One member of the senate, here today, stated that he expected to see the session last to the middle of April. W. W. Gibson, clerk of the house, an authority on legislative matters, predicts that the session will run to March 24, which is the end of next week. The major sentiment, however, favors adjournment this week.

The legislature of 1922 lasted for sixty-one days. If this year's session lasts through this week only it will have extended 68 days. This is one of the longest legislative sessions the state has ever known, excepting the Reconstruction days and the years of the Civil war.

There was a time, until early years of the present century, when the legislature met before Christmas, beginning the last Tuesday in November and ending just before Christmas. There was then, no running overtime. Since the time was changed the sessions have been getting longer and longer. The task of tax reform in this year causing the lengthy period of deliberation.

The finance committee will probably report the appropriation bill to the Senate Monday night. Bills providing taxes on commodities and sales taxes on transfers of stock and bonds are to have right of way in the senate.

In the house are the bills providing for the $60,000,000 road program, and the $12,000,000 bond issue for educational institutions are among the important matters yet to be disposed of, as is the bill, already passed the senate providing for change in the penitentiary control, with a board of five, named by the governor, this board to name the superintendent.

There are several bills on the house calendar providing for state revenues but as these are of small importance compared with the larger measures such as the appropriation bill and the commodities sales tax bill, their chances of passage are slim. The commodities tax is now proposed on tobacco, soft drinks and tea. At amendment is to be proposed, to tax sales of all commodities.

Two outstanding measures of importance that have passed the present legislature are the "head tax bill" and the "calcium arsenate bill." The latter has been signed by the governor and takes effect immediately. It provides for sale to the farmers at cost, through the state warehouse commission of calcium arsenate and other insecticides.

BANKS OF THE STATE TO THE FARMERS AID

MORE THAN 100 SIGN AGREEMENT WITH COTTON GROWERS ASSOCIATION

Columbia, March 12.—Over one hundred South Carolina banks have already signed a cooperative agreement with the South Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association to the effect that they will permit members of the association placing crop liens with them to sell their cotton through the association this fall without protest on their part. Officials of the association express the belief that fully 95 per cent of the banks will sign the agreement, copies of which have been sent to every one in the state.

Over 100 new contracts were signed in Laurens County in a whirlwind campaign conducted in that county on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Committees of farmers and business men canvassed the non-members in the county and an opportunity was given every farmer to join. The one hundred new contracts represented over 3,000 bales of cotton.
