REACHES RIPE OLD AGE.

Late Charles Haselden, a frail and delicate in childhood, dies at Age of 88 Years.

Charles Haselden, the oldest man in all this section, died at his home near here Tuesday, July 16th. He was born November 23rd, 1829, being 88 years, 7 months, and 23 days old at the time of his death. Considering the fact that he was frail and delicate from childhood, his long life was remarkable. It is a tradition of the family and the community that when a child, he was so frail and delicate that his parents had no hope of ever rearing him, and when he was a school boy at Old Pine Hill the boys and girls of that time thought he would never reach manhood, yet although the oldest of a large family, he survived the youngest of the family by 19 years, and of the 75 boys and girls who attended Pine Hill school with him in the 40's only two survive—Mrs. Mary Watson LeGette of Latta, now in her 91st year and the venerable John C. Bass of Latta, who is 84 years of age.

The secret of Mr. Haselden's life was that all his life knowing his weakness and frailty, he scrupulously conformed to the laws of health. Remarkably neat in person, he was abstemious and temperate in eating and drinking. Knowing his limitations, he avoided everything that would impair his health and only partook of those things that agreed with his frail constitution. He lived and died on the plantation on which he was born, rarely leaving his home and mixing with his fellowmen, and could always be found at home, seven days in every week. Though such a homebody, he loved for his friends and neighbors to visit him, and always dispensed a wholesouled and generous hospitality, and was kind and considerate to all—rich and poor, white and black. Early in life he united with the Methodist church and held his membership first at Old Union, then at Ebenezer and then at Union, and in his last years, at the Methodist church here. Though not active in church work, he always paid cheerfully and promptly all demands the church made on him.

The funeral services were conducted on Wednesday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. J. R. Sojourner, at the Haselden cemetery near his home, where generations of Godbolds, Ellerbes, Haseldens and many others lie buried.

Mr. Haselden reared a large family of 9 children all of whom reached man's and woman's estate. His wife, Mrs. Julia Ellerbe Haselden, and his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Fore, and son, Thos. E. Haselden, preceded him to the grave. The living children are:

C. E. Haselden, James W. Haselden, Guy E. Haselden, Mrs. J. W. Harris, and Miss Mary Haselden of Sellers, Lon Haselden of Latta, and Sam Haselden of near Palatka, Florida.

The death of Mr. Haselden is to me particularly sad and forcibly brings to my mind how swiftly the sands of life are falling, for of all the men and women of this community who were leaders and workers of this section when I as a young man settled here 48 years ago, only Capt. W. B. Evans, Tracy R. Fore, Mrs. Cherry Watson, Mrs. Mary E. Berry, Mrs. T. R. Fore and Mrs. Harriet Berry are left, and all long past their three score and ten. The list of those who have gone before is a long one. Henry Berry, Capt. James DuPree, John Mace, John M. Mace, Capt. Wm. S. Ellerbe, Col. E. B. Ellerbe, Thos. Fore, James G. Haselden, Samuel, William and Matthew Watson, E. J. Moody, John H. Moody, Willis, Hardy, Alfred and William Finklea and Gewood, Ellhu and James Berry have long since passed over the river of death.

YOU MUST WORK OR FIGHT.

Local Exemption Board Carrying Out Provost Marshal General's Order.

The day of the idler is over. You must work or fight. That is the order of the Provost Marshal General, and the Local Exemption Board is preparing to put the order into effect.

The county will be divided into school districts and the school trustees will be required to furnish the board with the names of all persons, black or white, who are not performing a full week's work. The man who works one day and idles away the other, or who is in the habit of loafing a day out of each week, will come within the "fight or work" rule. All such persons, regardless of who they are, will be placed in Class 1 and sent to the army.

The government has issued this rule because there are so many persons idling away their time while there is so much work to do. The rule went into effect July 1st, and the Local Board hopes to have the names of all idlers in the county by August 1st.

If you haven't a job for six days in the week you had better get one.

Register Your Birth.

The allotment in money, for each child, from the United States Government under the draft act, will not be paid unless a birth certificate is produced as proof of birth.

GAS SCARCE IN IRELAND.

Few Are the Cars That Honk in the Emerald Isle.

Dublin, May 30—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Gasoline is the most strictly rationed article in Ireland today. The use of automobiles for private purposes is hedged about with the most rigid restrictions, and elderly women are prosecuted if they go shopping in motor cars.

Under these strict regulations regarding the use of gasoline, one of the perpetual mysteries is how the Sinn Feiners are able to get apparently as much as they like without leave or license from the petrol commissioners. In a recent raid for arms on a castle at Baroncourt, the Sinn Feiners arrived in 20 motor cars, all abundantly supplied with gasoline. The rural police are constantly reporting the confiscation of gasoline from cars which are being operated without proper permits.

According to insiders in Dublin, this is to be explained by the fact that considerable quantities of gasoline have been washed ashore along the Irish coast from torpedoed ships, usually in cans, barrels, or large drums. Legally, all such finds are the property of the state, but the state seldom gets it, for the rewards paid to honest fishermen who turn over such treasure to the government are insignificant, while the fisherman who picks up a drum or two of petrol out of the Atlantic, perhaps at some personal risk, can always dispose of his find surreptitiously at a large price.

Too Bad He Couldn't March.

United States Senator Howard Sutherland of West Virginia, tells a story about a mountain youth who visited a recruiting office in the senator's state for the purpose of enlisting in the regular army. The examining physician found the young man as sound as a dollar, but that he had flat feet.

"I'm sorry," said the physician, "but I'll have to turn you down. You've flat feet."

The mountaineer looked sorrowful. "No way for me to get in then?" he inquired.

"I guess not. With those flat feet of yours you wouldn't be able to march even five miles."

The youth from the mountains studied a moment. Finally he said: "I'll tell you why I hate this so darned bad. You see, I walked nigh on to one hundred and fifteen miles over the mountains to get here, and gosh, how I hate to walk back."—Everybody's Magazine.
