Dillon, S. C., October 28, 1920.

As soon as clothes began to cost more the cost of cleaning and pressing old suits went up.

NEEDED BANKING REFORM.

The high call rate for loans in New York City is said to be an effective method of circumventing the Federal Reserve Act which seeks to distribute money evenly in all sections of the country.

Money is coaxed to New York on the expectation of high profits to the detriment of other sections of the country and to the undisputed detriment of legitimate industry. The result affects virtually everyone; and though persons in Dillon may think the New York call rate is something entirely foreign to their interests, they might become interested in knowing that the high rate exacted by a committee of brokers whose word is law in the banking world has much to do with the market of Liberty and Victory bonds, as well as a other kinds of bonds owned here.

It is time that the exercise of too great financial power by a few men were curtailed in this country.

WAGES COMING DOWN.

The workman, the laborer, the domestic and all other classes of wage-earners have shared in the "so-called" prosperity of the past three years and there is not going to be much grumbling on their part when the time comes to lower wages. When the cost of living is cut in half the wage earner will not object when the employer announces a cut of 50 per cent. in wages.

The cut in some lines will be smaller than in others. Before the war some wage earners were not getting enough and others were getting too much. The readjustment which is bound to come in a short while will bring these two closer together, and for once in the history of the world the wage earners in all lines of industry will be on a pretty equal basis.

No one ever expected wages to remain so high as they are in some industries and still expect prices to take a slump to pre-war levels. All along workmen have been advised to save their money while they had a chance to earn beyond the average of their jobs. Some of them did so, but it must be admitted that a large proportion have been spending money about as fast as they got it.

They were told that the best thing to do with a cheap dollar was to save as many of them as possible for the days when the dollar got dear, but mental intoxication at the receipt of more cheap dollars than they ever dreamed of possessing caused reckless extravagance in buying. This in itself was one of the main factors forcing the price of commodities up to higher levels.

The brick mason who formerly received $5 for ten hours work lost his balance when he found he could earn $12 in eight hours. The carpenter who imagined himself lucky when he could earn $3 in ten hours had visions when found his services were in demand at $10 for eight hours.

The wages of brick-layers and carpenters and other skilled workmen may not go back to pre-war levels but there is a general trend to reduce wages in all lines, and the law of supply and demand operates against the workmen as well as against the manufacturer and producer.

DON'T LOSE YOUR NERVE.

In times like these a man should keep his poise. The slump of 22 cents a pound or over $100 a bale in the price of cotton is a jar to the nerves of the man who has much at stake, but nothing is to be gained by losing your nerve. It is the strong man who acts with cool deliberation in critical moments.

The late Jacob Schiff, head of the big banking house which backed the Northern Pacific railroad venture with millions of his own and other people's money, was at an orphanage he had founded playing with children when several of his associates rushed up to him and told him that strong opposing interests had cornered Northern Pacific and his gigantic scheme was about to collapse. His reply was, "Be calm, be calm; they can't steal the railroad," and resumed his play. He won out.

There are lots of us who won't make as much as we expected to make, there are many who won't make anything and a few here and there probably who will come out in debt, but the world can't steal this cotton crop. It is in the hands of the producer, and in order to make ends meet he may have to sell a portion of it below the cost of production, but if he breaks even in the wind-up he will not be any poorer than he was at the beginning of the year.

Our advice to the man who feels blue and dispirited is to gather his cotton as rapidly as possible, have it ginned and put it in a warehouse. If you have pressing debts sell just enough to ease the pressure and keep the balance. But don't get excited and lose your head.

The man who makes an honest effort to gather his crop will find men willing to back him again next year, but the man who loses his nerve and lays down on the job will have to do his own financing if he tries to farm again. The world loves a fighter, even if he fights a losing fight, and this is a time that calls for all the fighting spirit and all the reserve strength a man has.

But above all, don't lose your poise. Don't lose your nerve.

DRAWS $300 FINE.

Colored Man Displays Pistol at Fair Grounds and Pays Heavy Fine.

A colored man with a long dangerous looking pistol ran amuck at the Fair Grounds Friday night and created some excitement among the throng of sight-seers until taken in charge by officers. The man was drinking, and following an argument with a show man over some change drew a long gun and shoved it in the show man's face. An officer grabbed the negro and disarmed him. He spent the night in the lock-up and next day paid $300 into the town treasury.

There was another mix-up between an officer and a white man in which blows were exchanged, but no one was hurt. With the exception of these incidents Fair week passed off quietly.

PASS FOR A SLAVE.

Copy of Pass Issued to a Slave to Visit Relatives in 1861.

Lumberton Robesonian.

During the days of slavery it was necessary for a darkey to secure a pass from his master when he visited relatives in other counties or states. A copy of one of the passes was on exhibition at the colored county fair last week. The pass reads:

"Sandy is on his way to visit his wife at Col. G. B. Smitheron's, near Melonville, in Orange county, Florida, by permission, to return in two weeks, or thereabouts. The conductor, Mr. Bills, Mr. Ives or Mr. Ellinger of the steamer Bavosa will oblige me by passing him to and fro."

"Near Lake City."
"April 10th, 1861."

"HOW WELL YOU LOOK"

When Your Blood is Rich and Red People Notice Your Good Health

PEPTO-MANGAN BUILD HEALTH

Pale Face, Dull Eyes, Drooping Shoulders, Result From Clogged Blood.

If your blood is in bad shape it shows up in your looks and feeling. When your blood is rich with red corpuscles, your color is better — your lips are red, eyes wide open and bright; your good feeling shows in your actions.

Common sense will tell you that if weak, thin blood makes you look lifeless, it lowers your vitality. If your vitality is low you have little power to resist disease germs. Men, women and children with rich, red blood are able to fight off the germs which bring severe illness.

When you feel run down and weak with no appetite and no ambition, take Pepto-Mangan for a while. It is a great blood building tonic. You should begin to feel better within a few days.

Pepto-Mangan is put up in both liquid and tablet form. Take either kind you prefer, because they have the same medicinal value. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan — "Gude's". The full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," should be on the package.—advertisement.
