FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS. All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance nowadays in our public schools and seminaries.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality,—often it is never recovered.

Having a Pic-nic.

There is something particularly enjoyable about going to a Pic-Nic. The very word Pic-Nic brings pleasant anticipations of a good time. The idea of going out to the woods and fields or down by some brook or lake, with luncheon to be served on the grass and under the trees, has a peculiar fascination. The fresh air and exercise contribute to give a hearty appetite to all and everything at luncheon seems far better than the finest course dinner that a French chef ever served. Wooden dishes supplant Dresden china, and paper boxes silver trays, when the "good things to eat" are spread upon the ground.

Pic-Nics are never complete without the sandwiches, sweet white bread with a generous layer of meat between. Libby's Having a Pic-nic.

HE present general movement for better roads and the prospect of national aid in road building have MOK greatly stimulated the study of the best methods of road building.

While to the general public the idea of building permanent roads is to use broken stone after the system first employed by John McAdam, about the year 1785, other methods should be carefully studied in order to build the best and most durable roads at the lowest cost.

It seems a remarkable fact in view of the great improvements in everything connected with modern life, that we are still building our roads the same way they were built over 100 years ago. This resulted from the universal introduction of the railroad, which caused the improvement of our common roads to be sadly neglected, as well as advancement in the art of building them.

A great obstacle in the way of building durable roads of crushed stone is found in the lack of suitable stone in most localities where good road stone is found. In New York State, for instance, where road building has been very active in recent years, stone has been shipped over 300 miles in some instances in order to obtain stone of good quality.

The lack of good road material has caused careful study of various methods of road building by experts, with the result that for general use a modification of the old stone wheel track or tramway roads, which have been in constant use for over 100 years without material wear or cost, has been highly commended. The old tramway roads could only be built at reasonable cost in a few localities having suitable stone, but by substituting paving brick for the stone slabs, this superior form of road can be cheaply built in every locality.

In fact, even in the favored localities, where good road stone is abundant, the use of these brick wheel tracks considerably decreases the first cost of roads, while they practically do away with all regair expenses, as well as the dust and mud, and at the same time enable three or four times the load to be handled with the same team force.

This improved method of road building has been adopted by a number of localities and the cost has been found to be from $1200 to $2500 a mile, according to the relative cost of materials, labor, etc, while the average cost of crushed stone roads has been about $9000 a mile in New York, where the greatest amount of road building has recently been done.

A section of this brick track road in the United States Department of Agriculture grounds during the last four seasons shows no material wear, and has been uniformly free from dust, mud and ruts during that time, while an adjacent section of crushed stone road has been nearly ruined during the same time, partly by the washing of

For hilly roads these brick wheel tracks are especially adapted, as by depressing the tracks below the adjacert road surface the water is sucssfully carried down the hills on them without the use of the objectionable water breaks, besides enabling three times the grade to be used without disadvantage.

Government road officials recommend that long term convicts be employed in penitentiaries in making the brick, cement, etc., for these roads, and short term convicts be used in making the roads, to the moral and physical betterment of the convicts. and claim that in this way the building of these superior and most durable of roads should cost but $800 to $1200 a mile in many localities. This makes an interesting comparison with the cost of $9000 a mile in New York State for crushed stone roads, some of which have been nearly ruined by two or three years of use, while wheel tracks similar to the brick tracks, built of stone, near Albany, N. Y., in 1833, at a cost of $1500 a mile, show very little wear in more than seventy years of constant and heavy traffic.

If convicts were thus employed in such penitentiaries as Sing Sing, New York, for instance, where the best of brick clays could be delivered at very low cost by boat, and from which the brick, etc., could be cheaply shipped by boat to nearly every point along the proposed New York and Chicago road. that road could probably be built for less than one-fifth of the cost of building it of crushed stone, have three times the smoothness and more than ten times the durability of a crushed stone road, and at the same time be nearly dustless and mudless.

Brick made at Sing Sing could also be cheaply delivered at all points in New York State, and also be shipped to all points along Lake Erie by boat, thus enabling the greater part of the proposed New York and Chicago road to be built by this superior system. and at a cost so low as to be insignificant when compared with its substantial and lasting benefits.-Waynesboro (Pa.) Herald.
