HAVE YOU PICKED A LEMON?

English Writer Not Altogether Complimentary in His Remarks on Martial Happiness.

Arnold Bennett, the famous English novelist, talks about how men feel when they are engaged or married. They realize that they have married human beings instead of divine goddesses. Bennett says:

"The process of reasoning is not scientific, and inevitably it must bring disillusion, which means complications. The disillusion is precipitated by the universal instinct to over-estimate that which one desires and to under-estimate that which one has got. See the young husband as he watches his newly acquired wife enter a friend's drawing room. His anxiety, which he often inadequately conceals, is touching. Aforetime, the entrance of that same young woman into a drawing room never caused him the slightest apprehension. On the contrary, it filled him with delight and thanksgivings. Then, her imperfections, if she had any, somehow constituted a perfection. If she was tactless, her silences were beautifully expressive. If she grabbed the streamer of chatter was delicious. If she was awkward, a secret grace was in her awkwardness. But now that he has got her, the vain fellow is intensely afraid lest she may fall to prove to the world the excellence of his taste."—Woman's Home Companion.

PICTURES LIFE AS HORROR

Writer's Description of Existence in the Trenches Gives Vivid Impression of War.

Once we knew it as "No Man's Land," but now we call it "The Garden of Sleep." Winter gave it the first name and summer the latter, and each in its season was true and appropriate. A novice in war, I saw it first on a winter's day; one of those dreary November afternoons that seem now almost like a bad dream, a gray lowering sky, a damp, penetrating cold, a never ending, bone-rattling drizzle, and everywhere mud, mud, mud. Mud! Even the very word looks ugly in print, and, oh God, how we hated the very sound of it! Was there, we wondered, anything left in the world but mud? Was the world being overwhelmed by an oncoming tide of mud? Had we ever known an existence free from it?

Mad questions, perhaps, but there were times when men of strong brains asked themselves such things in all seriousness. We lived like rats in mud, and rats alone lived with us. All other decent animals would have scorned an existence under such conditions, and it was left for the highest and the lowest of the animal race to dwell together.

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

The Case of Blakelock.

It is to be wished that the pathos of the artist Blakelock, and his pathetic delight when returned recently through the Blakelock fund to a rural studio and sanitarium, might be the means of awakening a new interest in the urgent subject of the after-care of the insane. There are thousands of men in this section alone who are like Blakelock in being sane in most directions, and not dangerously abnormal in any, who have been confined and irksomely guarded for years, and whose treatment not only adds to their suffering, but robs them of hope of recovery. In all too many states every insane patient is kept to an indoor life, closely housed with the violent, the depraved, or the diseased, and stigmatized as a pauper. Only the genius of Blakelock saved him, after seventeen years, from being looked upon to the last as a social refuse. He will now live under close, but not irritating, supervision for six months. The out-treatment of nearly all the curable and mildly insane, under scientific supervision, might be arranged for upon a similar plan. New York, her hospitals intolerably overcrowded, is already taking steps towards such an arrangement; the release of patients on parole is permitted, and the state has four or five after-care agents. But New York leads, and it is depressing to think of conditions in states where progress is so slow that the counties are still chief guardians of the insane.—New York Evening Post.

PREPARE FOR BOLL WEEVIL SAYS GOV.

SHADOW OF APPROACHING PEST HAS ALREADY BEEN CAST OVER THE STATE.

DISPATCHES FROM COLUMBIA

Doings and Happenings That Mark the Progress of South Carolina People, Gathered Around the State Capitol.

That the shadow of the approaching boll weevil has already been cast over South Carolina and the dread pest will arrive within another year and within three years will overrun the state was the prediction made by Governor Richard I. Manning on his return from a tour of the boll weevil stricken territory of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. The governor says the farmers and business men of South Carolina must prepare for the weevil or else dire ruin and disaster may result.

Those who shut their ears to the warning voice brought from the farmers of the Mississippi valley may reap the whirlwind and where today they are living in ease and plenty with good lands and good cotton crops they may find themselves with no cotton, their lands worth less than nothing, their labor gone and ruin staring them in the face if they do not prepare.

"Prepare! Prepare!" declares the governor of South Carolina fresh from a personal trip through those sections of the cotton belt which have been ravaged by the boll weevil. Here is an instance of what the boll weevil means:

In the parish of West Feliciana, Louisiana—a parish being a county—1904 there was produced 22,497 bales of cotton. Three years after the boll weevil invaded that county in 1910 only 31 bales of cotton were raised in the whole county. Governor Manning visited that stricken spot and saw the conditions himself.

In the Parish of East Feliciana, Louisiana, in 1904 35,000 bales of cotton were grown. This same county last year after the coming of the weevil raised only 2,830 bales of cotton.

Governor Manning and the commission to inspect the boll weevil territory first stopped at New Orleans, where they were met and entertained by the business men. There they studied the credit side of the conditions brought about by the ravages of the boll weevil in the cotton districts.

The governor talked with John M. Parker, the vice presidential nominee on the Bull Moose ticket, and a prominent business man of that city. From New Orleans the governor and his party went to Baton Rouge where they met the farmers and business men and talked with them of the boll weevil conditions. The governor and his commission visited the territory where the weevil has wrought its worst and interviewed the farmers and their wives, the merchants and bankers and gathered first hand information about how to meet the conditions which arise with the coming of the weevil.

The governor found that co-operation between farmers merchants and bankers enabled the people to adjust themselves to the new conditions and save the country from ruin. The merchants there, as here, had made advances on cotton but the weevils ruined cotton. They called in the farmers and told them they would co-operate and either sink or swim together. They made advances and the farmers bought hogs, cattle, put in food crops such as potatoes, beans, etc., increased their grain crops and made the cattle business their principal industry.

By patronizing the creameries they soon got a good steady income from milk. As a result while the volume of business is smaller it is all cash, the credit system is a thing of the past. Lands which decreased in value when the weevil first came under the new conditions are climbing back to their original prices and the people are thriving on diversified and intensive farming.

Louisiana, which has grown 1,031,000 bales of cotton dropped down last year to 245,000 bales in one year but this year will probably raise 400,000 bales. The weevil's ravages are the worst in three years and after that they do not seem to do as much damage but they are always present, once they arrive they cannot be gotten rid of. They lay their eggs in the cotton squares and eat out the bolls. No cotton blooms are seen after August and the wet years are the ones in which the weevils get in their worst work.

In one weevil ravaged county in Dynamite for Road Building. E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture, has invited every county supervisor in the state to witness the demonstration of the use of dynamite as a stump excavator and canal digger to be given in connection with the rehabilitation of the old state road from Columbia to Charleston. In his survey of the work to be done on the road the United States engineers found that there were thousands of stumps to be removed and two main canals to be dug for the drainage of principal swamps.

Farm Loan Bodies Co-operate. A letter has been addressed to the members of the state farm loan associations of this state by E. J. Watson, commissioner of agriculture, asking them to have representatives here October 25, at which time the national farm loan board is to be in Columbia to hear a presentation of reasons why Columbia should be selected as the location for one of the regional farm loan banks, 12 of which are to be established in the United States. Nearly 200 of these associations have been formed in the state.

Mississippi the governor found that the farmers had turned to the cattle industry and two creameries were paying at the rate of $18,000 a month, the milk furnishing the one steady source of income for the farmers.

"Everywhere the people advise us to keep cool and by no means let our labor get away from us when the weevil comes," said the governor. He advises the farmers to prepare this fall for the coming of the weevil by economizing, increasing their grain planting, plant more foodstuffs, get some hogs and cows, plant clovers wherever possible, and should encourage the creameries wherever established and patronize the packing plant in Orangeburg. He advises them to plant soy beans and velvet beans. The cotton seed oil mills furnish a ready market for the soy beans, which extract the oil from them, while the velvet beans are great soil builders and make fine feeding for stock.

"Above all, hold your labor," is the governor's advice. He does not want the people to become panicky but insists that they must prepare for the changed conditions of disaster might befall them.

Governor Manning picked some of the boll weevils out of the cotton bolls in Louisiana and brought them back with him in alcohol. He plans to make speeches to the farmers over the state on this subject and will have something to say on it in his message to the general assembly.

Catawba County Defeated.

Catawba county project was defeated when the supreme court on banc, by a vote of nine to six, upheld an adverse decision below, based on the act to prevent the formation of ill-shaped counties. Rock Hill was to have been the county seat. The territory was to have been portions of York, Chester and Fairfield counties.

The act was sustained and the injunction affirmed by which Judge Moore forebade further proceedings under the governor's order for a survey.

The style of the case was: "Septimus Massey et al. petitioners, respondents, vs. J. L. Green et al. as commissioners, respondents and appellants." Eugene B. Gary, chief justice, wrote the ruling opinion, in which R. C. Watts, associate justice, concurred with the circuit judges: R. W. Meminger, John S. Wilson, H. E. Rice, I. W. Bowman, T. J. Mauldin, Mendel L. Smith, James E. Puerfili. A dissenting opinion by T. B. Frasier, associate justice, was concurred in by D. E. Hydrick, associate justice, and the following circuit judges: George E. Prince, S. W. G. Shipp, T. E. Sease, Frank E. Gray.

Sell Less Tobacco in September.

The monthly report on sales of tobacco in the markets of this state for the month of September has been issued by the department of agriculture.

The quantity marketed was less than half a million pounds, the smallest in any year since the tobacco sales records have been kept by the department, this being due to the fact that the bulk of the crop was early and was harvested and marketed during the month of August.

The comparative figures for the month of September are attached to the report, and show a decrease for the month of 2,752,987 pounds and a decrease in values of $853,312.50, but the average price per pound was exactly double what it was last year. In a few days the entire centennial report will be available, and the showing as to financial results from this year's crop will be an excellent one.

AROUND THE STATE HOUSE.

M. C. Butler has been appointed magistrate at Loris, vice J. E. Prince, deceased.

T. C. Montgomery of Spartanburg was appointed commissioner for state and county elections in Spartanburg county, vice J. H. Carlisle, declined.

M. Rutledge Rivers of Charleston was appointed by Gov. Manning to membership on the state board of education vice Arthur Young of Charleston, resigned.

John D. Wood of Greer has been made a member of the highway commission of Greenville county, vice J. Thomas Arnold, resigned.

The state board of education met last Friday.

The crowning of the queen of the second annual South Carolina Harvest Jubilee will take place at 8:30 p. m., on the north porch of the capitol Monday night, October 23. Governor Manning will proclaim the young lady who is elected as queen of the Harvest Jubilee for 1916 and bid her reign begin.

Cotton ginning for South Carolina as reported by the bureau of the census, amounts to 259,522 bales to September 25 of this year. The figures compare with 258,947 for the same period last year.

The secretary of state has issued a commission to the Beaufort Farm Product Company with a capital of $1,000. The petitioners are: F. H. Christensen and J. L. Butler.

Reading for a Boy.

We wish we could get the boys to read "In Tune With the Infinite," Lubbock's "Pleasures of Life," Drummond's "Natural Law in the Spiritual World," Wagner's "The Simple Life," Serviss' "Astronomy With an Opera Glass," and similar books, all of which could be read in the time that a boy usually fritters away. It needn't take away a moment of the time devoted to fun and play, though it might divide time with the usual branches of study.

We speak of the above books because they tend to awaken one's divine energies and make one's life nobler and happier. The greatest part of a lad is his spirit. With that, impulses, aspirations and tendencies are created. Without it, his life becomes negative and vague. These books in places may be a little difficult to appreciate, but a boy can get some flavor from them that will be a decided benefit to him. It is the way to acquire diligence, purpose, insight into the meaning of things, the love of duty, the grand heights of self-reliance, traits and qualities that glorify a boy.

The fact is the boy's spirit is misused at home and school because it is not fed on the food that strengthens it. It cyphers and parses and refuses to admit to its heart, courtesy, courage, work, aspiration, reverence and other divinities that are knocking to get in. The reading of these books will change all that and actually put a boy in tune with the infinite.—Ohio State Journal.

Shortening Bird Season.

Pennsylvania is the latest of the states to take up the question of shorter open seasons on game birds, and good reasons for curbing the activities of hunters are presented in a statement of the game commission now being sent to individuals and sporting associations.

Birds are being exterminated under the present laws, and the remedy proposed is in restricting the season to one month and changing the date until the birds are full grown and better able to take care of themselves.

What particular hardship would there be in ordering a close season for two, three or five years and then seeing that the law is rigidly enforced? Quail and other game birds need more protection than the existing laws have given them, and if all the states would agree upon an adequate program of conservation the country would be benefited by the saving of the food products now destroyed by insects.—Providence Journal.

"Cabinet Timber." With a single exception, every member of President Wilson's cabinet began life as a boy in some small country town. Making the best use of early opportunities, they developed their talents by study, steadily working their way through school, and in most cases through college toward the broader experience in the affairs of life which ultimately fitted them to become "cabinet timber." Their example should be an inspiration to those who, being born and raised in the small country town, are likely to consider their surroundings as unfavorable. If a youth has ambition and energy, he will surely find the gate of opportunity open. In no part of the world have there been finer illustrations of the development of self-reliance, prudence, concentration, and those other traits of character than in the country town or village.—Christian Herald.

HOW TO MAKE COFFEE

By the greatest coffee merchants in the world

With pictures of three wives and what their husbands say of their coffee

There has been a great deal written and said about making coffee, and wherever you go, each woman thinks her way is best. Yet we all know how much coffee varies; good one meal—bad the next—often so bad you simply can't drink it.

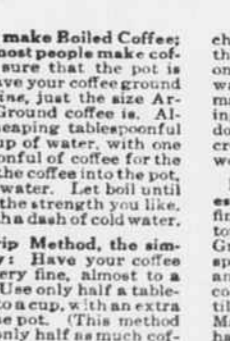

Don't be discouraged if you are not getting coffee as fine as you would like to have. Don't be satisfied to drink coffee which is "just medium." A million other women make coffee their husbands brag about, and it is so easy for you to do it.

Instead of coffee which you only put up with because you can't get the kind you would like to have, you can get coffee which every member of your family will enjoy, coffee which every visitor will praise, coffee which you yourself couldn't do without.

How to make Boiled Coffee: This is the way most people make coffee. Be sure that the pot is clean. Have your coffee ground medium fine, just the size Arbuckle's Ground coffee is. Allow one heaping tablespoonful to each cup of water, with one extra spoonful of coffee for the pot. Put the coffee in the pot, add cold water. Let boil until it is just the strength you like. Settle with a dash of cold water.

The Drip Method, the simplest way: Have your coffee ground very fine, almost to a powder. Use only half a tablespoonful to a cup of water. Put the coffee in the pot, with an extra spoonful of coffee for the pot. Put the coffee in the pot, add cold water. Let boil until it is just the strength you like. Settle with a dash of cold water.

Percolator coffee—the surest method: Use a medium fine ground coffee for percolators, just the size Arbuckle's Ground coffee is. Allow a tablespoonful to each cup of coffee and one extra; let the water percolate up through the coffee until it is just the right strength. Making coffee this way, you can have it just as mild or strong as you like, and you can rely on its being good every time.

Mrs. Jones boils her coffee

Mrs. Smith makes drip coffee

Mrs. Green never uses anything but a percolator

To get these results, the coffee itself must be right and must always be the same

Things you should watch out for

The coffee itself: There are hundreds of varieties of coffee grown. The coffee itself must be put up by men who know coffee. Arbuckle's Coffee is. It is put up by Arbuckle Bros., the greatest coffee merchants in the world. They can give you the value in coffee which no one else can afford to give.

Clean and fresh: No matter how good coffee itself is, if it isn't well taken care of, it makes a poor drink. Arbuckle's Coffee is put up in sealed, dust-proof packages, carefully wrapped to protect it from moisture, dirt, and other things. It arrives in your kitchen strong, full of flavor.

Always the same: Arbuckle's Coffee is the biggest selling coffee in the United States. Did you ever stop to think what this means? To think how good a coffee must be to be the biggest seller in the United States? From the moment it was put on the market, it was a success. Today, it is used in over a million homes in the United States.

Beautiful Gifts: We share our profits with you by giving you useful and beautiful premiums for signatures saved from Arbuckle's packages. We buy premiums for over a million users of Arbuckle's Coffee. If you can send in a certain number of such packages, you can get a beautiful gift. In every package of Arbuckle's Coffee there is a circular showing our premiums. Be sure to get it and see how quickly and easily you can get what you want without any cost.
