THE LINDBERGHS LEAVE COUNTRY

Kidnap Threats Cause Pair To Go To England. Also Dissatisfied With Attitude Taken By Governor Hoffman of New Jersey Toward Hauptmann.

New York, Dec. 23.—The Charles A. Lindberghs—the Flying Colonel, his wife, and their small son, Jon—have left America to establish a home in England.

An increased number of threats and a growing dread of kidnapers, it was stated by persons close to them, were responsible in part for their decision, which was also influenced by activity in behalf of the convicted kidnaper and murderer of their first-born.

To a friend recently Colonel Lindbergh expressed himself as greatly dissatisfied with the attitude of Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, who has interviewed Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his death cell and has expressed the conviction that there are doubts about the case in the minds of many persons which should be cleared up.

The friend said Colonel Lindbergh told him he felt he could cope with the criminals in the United States and with the question of publicity, but when the governor became active in the Hauptmann case Colonel Lindbergh, who attended Hauptmann's trial daily, decided to leave the country.

Just a few hours after news of the Lindbergh's departure became known, Hauptmann—the man whose conviction Lindbergh believes solved the mystery of his small son's death—filed with the New Jersey board of pardons an appeal for clemency. Hauptmann is under sentence to die the week of January 13.

In the British Isles, friends explained, the three-year-old Jon Lindbergh will have a chance for a normal youth, without the constant menace of another such tragedy as robbed the Lindberghs of the curly-haired Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., for whose death in 1932 Hauptmann has been sentenced to death.

They will retain American citizenship but plan to live in England an indefinite time, perhaps permanently. They left last Saturday midnight from New York on the steamship American Importer, a freighter of 7,600 tons with few facilities for passengers.

Colonel Lindbergh's work as technical advisor to Pan-American Airways, officials of that company said today, will be continued, despite his residence abroad.

During all the recent developments in Hauptmann's case, including the visit to the death cell by the New Jersey governor, Lindbergh had persistently declined to comment. His testimony at Flemington, delivered calmly in a tense courtroom, was that the voice of the extortionist to whom $50,000 ransom money was paid in a Bronx, N. Y., cemetery was "the voice of Hauptmann."

Colonel Lindbergh is known to hold the opinion that there is greater respect for law and order in England than in his native country where his own experience with kidnapers has been so tragic.

Ever since the birth of Jon, in August, 1932, six months after the kidnaping of the first born child, it has been necessary to provide bodyguards for the infant and to surround his movements with utmost secrecy.

Since coming into world prominence after his New York-to-Paris flight in 1927, the formerly unknown "Slim" Lindbergh, air mail pilot, has constantly sought for a return of some semblance of the anonymity that was previously his.

Unlike most other celebrated figures of his day, Lindbergh has attempted to avoid public notice. The kidnap-murder of his child was a tragedy that lifted his name again into black headlines and made it once more a matter of daily conversation throughout the country.

Since the days of kidnaping the Lindberghs have made their home at Englewood, N. J., with Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, widow of the late Dwight Morrow. The summers have been spent at the Lindberghs' island in Maine.

No Comment Trenton, N. J., Dec. 23.—William Conklin, press aide to Governor Harold G. Hoffman, said the governor had directed the statement that he had no comment to make on the reports that his activities in the Hauptmann case had influenced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his decision to leave the country and establish a residence in England.

Farm Demonstration Notes

C. B. Cannon, County Agent

Irish Potato Allotment

Official information received from Washington states that all farmers or persons producing Irish potatoes for sale, regardless of the amount, must apply for an allotment or otherwise will be required to pay the taxes upon the potatoes when sold. All potatoes produced or sold in 1936 must carry exemption stamps or taxes be paid on same. In the potato act no rental or parity payments will be made.

Blanks have been received and farmers may apply at the county agent's office bringing with them the farm history. This information should be the number of acres planted, the yield, and amount sold in the years 1932 through 1935. It is suggested that farmers have evidence as to the amount sold. The closing date for applying is January 5th.

Irish potatoes produced in 1935 may be sold without carrying any stamps. Sweet potatoes do not come under this act.

A person may produce all the potatoes he wishes for home use. It is only necessary to make application for an allotment for those farmers who sell Irish potatoes.

OVER THE HILLS

They took of the Christmas treasures Little gifts that would cheer the heart, And carried them out to the lonely ones

Who live to themselves apart. The holly tree glowed its brightest—The room took a cheerier tone, Where the old folks live, where the poor folks live, Though in kindly care, so alone!

Hope fled from their pensive faces When life failed them, but somehow tonight, Midst the carols and trancing brightness, The faded eyes caught a new light. And worn withered hands were uplifted, And quivering voices upraised:

"For this home, O Lord, and the Christmas joy, The Christ Child's name be praised!"

Name McKissick University Head

Dean of School of Journalism Elected To Succeed Baker. Newspaper Man For 25 Years.

Columbia, Dec. 20.—The board of trustees of the University of South Carolina Friday elected J. Rion McKissick, dean of the school of journalism, president to succeed Dr. L. T. Baker.

Dr. Baker, it was explained, accepted the presidency in 1931 with the understanding that he would serve only until the board could select successor. His present term expires in July, 1936.

McKissick was elected at a called meeting of the trustees after the election was deferred at the regular meeting earlier this month.

Dr. Baker was made vice-president and dean of the faculty.

Dean McKissick studied law at Harvard but for the past 25 years has been a newspaper man, beginning as a reporter and for a time editing his own daily newspaper.

He is recognized as a lecturer on history and has been associated with educational endeavor for a number of years, first as a lecturer on South Carolina history at Furman university and as a trustee of Greenville Woman's college, and then as dean of the school of journalism at the state university.

He was born at Union, in 1884, the son of Isaac Going McKissick and Sarah Foster McKissick, members of prominent South Carolina families.

He attended the South Carolina college, now the university, being graduated in 1905. He studied law at Harvard university from 1906 through 1909, when he entered the newspaper field.

He served successively as reporter, assistant editor and chief editorial writer of The Richmond Times-Dispatch before going to Greenville in 1914, where he practiced law until 1916. He was code commissioner in 1916 and 1917. He meanwhile became editor of The Greenville News in 1916 and served at that post until 1919, when he became owner and editor of The Greenville Piedmont, which he directed until 1926.

Dean McKissick was a member of the state Democratic executive committee in 1922.

He is a member of the State Teachers' association, the American History association, the South Carolina Historical society and past president of the South Carolina Press association. He is a member of the Baptist church.

P. C. SENIORS DECIDE THAT WAR IS AN ART

Is war an art or a science? The senior class of the Presbyterian college unit of the R.O.T.C. heard a debate on that subject last Thursday.

H. M. Wilson of Brooklyn, N. Y., upheld war as an art, while Colin Hudson of Greenville, debated that it is a science.

Women Who Have Pains Try CARDUI Next Time!

On account of poor nourishment, many women suffer functional pains at certain times, and it is for these that Cardui is offered on the record of the safe relief it has brought and the good it has done in helping to overcome the cause of womanly discomfort. Mrs. Cole Young, of Leesville, La., writes: "I was suffering with irregular... I had quite a lot of pain which made me nervous. I took Cardui and found it helped me in every way, making me regular and stopping the pain. This quieted my nerves, making my health much better." If Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

THE HIGHWAY TRUCE

The highway conference between the legislative committee and Governor Johnston resulted in: Order from Governor Johnston for immediate withdrawal of troops from highway department. Opinion of committee that it was general assembly's duty to enact temporary legislation, effective for not more than 60 days, for naming some impartial persons to take charge of road department's affairs pending conclusion of litigation now in progress that no members of highways commission nor members of board of managers named by governor to be placed in charge during the temporary operation. Temporary setup of highway department as proposed to the legislature: Duties of chief highway commissioner and highway commission be devolved, for 60 days, on chief highway engineer, J. S. Williamson, and O. P. Bourke, treasurer of commission. Chief highway engineer to enter into bond. It further provides that the comptroller general, A. J. Beattie; the state treasurer, E. P. Miller, and the secretary of the sinking fund commission, F. C. Robinson, shall act as a supervisory highway board. Legal status of present highway commission and chief commissioner not to be altered by this temporary setup, nor highway laws to be suspended beyond the 60-day period.
