Boll Weevil Control Urged By Clemson

Clemson, May 8.—Boll weevil control, certification of planting seed, and getting gins ready for the fall season are stressed in the semi-monthly Cotton letter issued this week by the Clemson Extension Service. Three extension specialists, L. M. Sparks, Jr., cotton insect and disease specialist; H. G. Boylston, cotton improvement specialist, and S. A. Williams, cotton ginning specialist, have timely statements in the letter on the above problems.

In regard to boll weevil control, Mr. Sparks says:

"Despite the cold, wet winter we still have plenty of live boll weevils with us—2710 weevils per acre compared with 2904 in 1947. Let's kill them and other cotton insects this year with poisons. Buy your poisons and dusters now.

A small farmer with 5 to 10 acres of cotton can use a rotary hand duster. Twenty to 30-acre cotton farmers need a two-row mule-drawn duster or two-row tractor-drawn duster. Larger acreages call for tractor dusters or airplane dusting.

If you plan to use the 3-5-40 (BHC-DDT-Sulfur) dust do not forget to buy either chlorinated camphene or Chlordane (which is to be used at the farmer's own risk) to be used during migration time. BHC does not give lasting protection against weevils at this time."

Truce Order Brings Peace To Jerusalem

Jerusalem, May 8.—A cease fire, agreed to by Arabs and Jews, protected Jerusalem and its shrines today for the first time in five months. It went into effect at noon and not a shot was heard in the first hour. The arrangement was a temporary one designed to prevent hostilities until a permanent Jerusalem truce can be negotiated.

The Jewish agency said it had learned that talks for a permanent truce in the Holy City will begin tomorrow. The Jews are demanding free access from Jewish Tel Aviv to the wailing wall in Jerusalem's old walled area and the deportation of foreign Arab fighters from the Holy City.
