len Jeter, Fant Jones and William Oates, Jr. Kenneth Large, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Large, served as junior groomsmen.

The bride was attended by Mrs. L. E. Avery as matron of honor. She wore a gown of Nile green taffeta, fashioned with low neckline, tightly fitted bodice, long full skirt with bustle effect in the back. She wore matching taffeta mitts and carried a nosegay of talisman roses tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Miss Leila Pursley, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Misses Frances Sullivan, Betty Owen, Dorothy Steele and Celeste Orr. Frances Ann Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Robinson, was junior bridesmaid. All wore Nile green taffeta gowns identical that of the matron of honor. Miss Pursley carried a nosegay of talisman roses like that of the matron of honor. Other attendants carried nosegays of yellow roses tied with talisman ribbons.

The bride was lovely in ivory satin styled with small collar, long sleeves ending in calla points over the hands and closely fitted skirt. Tiny satin covered buttons were used from the neckline to the waist. The skirt ended in a lengthy train. Her full length veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of simulated pearls—and orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and showered with satin ribbon and tuberoses.

Mrs. W. L. Oates wore light blue crepe with a corsage of yellow baby orchids. Mrs. J. K. Large wore a royal blue crepe with yellow baby orchids and Mrs. Claud Hoyle of Blacksburg wore a black crepe dress with a lavender orchid. Mrs. Hipp wore an aqua taffeta gown with a lavender orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Oates, Mr. and Mrs. Large and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle entertained at a reception after the ceremony at the Oates home on East Main street.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy D. Summer greeted guests at the door. The wedding party, hosts and hostesses and Mr. and Mrs. Hipp formed the receiving line.

Mrs. R. W. Cranford and Mrs. Ben Pursley and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Robinson invited guests into the dining room. The table was overlaid with an imported Madeira cut-work cloth and centered with an exquisite arrangement of pink snapdragons, pink roses and narcissi. Silver candelabra held lighted tapers.

Assisting with serving green and white block ice cream, individual cake squares and nuts were Miss Jean Douglas of Walterboro; Miss Wylene McLurkin of Chester; Miss Mary Conway Kennedy of Camden, Ala. and Miss Edith Spencer. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kennedy entertained in the dining room.

In the gift room were Miss Cammie Roddey and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Proctor. At the bride's book was Miss Susan Norwood McKeown.

Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pursley.

For traveling the bride changed to a spring suit of light weight beige gabardine with small feather trimmed hat and other accessories of brown. At her shoulder she pinned the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Hipp is a graduate of Rock Hill high school. She was graduated from Winthrop College in January with bachelor of arts degree in chemistry. When she returns from her wedding trip she will assume a position in the main laboratory at the Celriver plant of the Celanese Corporation in America.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irby Shell Hipp of this city. He is a graduate of the Clinton high school. He served during the recent war in the U. S. Marine corps for four years. After his return from the service he attended Presbyterian College. He is associated with the Celriver plant of the Celanese Corporation in America.

The young couple will make their home in Rock Hill.

HOUSE AND HOME

A bowl of steaming hot cereal is an excellent food that sticks to the ribs on chilly mornings. For a flavorsome treat, try cooking farina in apricot whole fruit nectar.

Bread that has become somewhat dry and old can be given "oven fresh" appeal by leaving it in its own wrapper and then heating it in a slow oven 300 degrees for five to 10 minutes. If the bread is very dry, sprinkle it with a little water first, then heat in the same fashion.

Hot sage biscuits are a good combination with pork pie, made, of course, from shreds of the leftover roast. To make the biscuits, add one-half teaspoon sage to your biscuit recipe.

Try spiced peach halves on greens next time you serve lamb or ham. Fill the centers of the fruit with whipped cream cheese seasoned with horseradish. Sprinkle with paprika.

When you're cooking prunes, use pineapple juice in place of water if you want to add delicious flavor to this dried fruit.

If you want to serve a real, old-fashioned treat with pork chops, give the family buttered turnips.

Here's an idea for a deviled ham loaf, made with leftover meat: grind the ham, mix with egg and bread crumbs and seasonings such as prepared mustard, horseradish, diced onion, tabasco and catchup. Serve the slices of baked loaf with a spoonful of cold sour cream.

Split pea soup can be made more flavorful and tempting if you add a few slices of sausages to it before serving.

REMEMBERING NAMES

DO YOU have difficulty in remembering names? The average person does, yet you can without too much effort eliminate this handicap from your makeup.

Hugh H. George of Columbus, O., tells how he made a big sale of materials because he had conquered this failing. A man with the difficult German name of Heinrich Schwantzganz was about to build a house. Naturally, every dealer around wanted to sell him the materials for his house. Mr. Schwantzganz was a good business man and he meant to get more than one bid for his business. When Mr. George asked to see the plans of his house, with a view to bidding, he obligingly brought them to Mr. George's office, accompanied by his wife.

When the couple walked in the office, Mr. George arose and with outstretched hand said, "I am glad to see you, Mr. Schwantzganz." At that, Mr. Schwantzganz looked surprised and turned to his wife: "Mamma, listen, Mamma, tree weeks ago this young man met me but once and he knows my name already still. Thank you very much, young man. How you remember so hard a name? My name's hard to remember."

"Not for me, Mr. Schwantzganz, for my father taught me years ago that fool's names and faces pass like dry leaves in a breeze, but the name and face of a person of character and distinction remain in one's memory."

"Dat's right, young man, dat's right. Your father must have been a very schmart man."

Suddenly a warm feeling for this man suffused Mr. George. He liked him. Genuine, honest—and he had referred to him twice as a "young man." Flattering, for Mr. George was past 40!

He opened the plans to study them, but Mr. Schwantzganz pushed them aside. "I like you, young man," he said. "You are a schmart man. I want that you should supply the best of everything for the house. I pay you one thousand dollars now and when the materials come, I pay you immediately C. O. D. That is all right?"

Mr. George entered into the building of that house with enthusiasm, he wanted everything to be right for Mr. Schwantzganz, and the sale totaled something like seven thousand dollars.

Yes, learn to remember names, It will forever stand you in good stead.

Thurmond In Favor Of Local Option

Columbia, Feb. 22.—Governor J. Strom Thurmond indicated today that he would sign any bills calculated to reduce liquor consumption and gambling.

"I'll sign a local option (on liquor sales) bill if it is passed by the legislature," he told a news conference.

Asked for comment on an expected bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting, Thurmond replied that he was opposed to "gambling in any form."

Thurmond also said he believed liquor consumption would be reduced if liquor advertising were prohibited.

A bill to ban liquor advertising from publications circulated in this state is before the house.

The governor declared that he "favored anything" that would result in less drinking.

He said he believed law enforcement problems increased in localities where liquor was sold.

He condemned all kinds of gambling as "a terrible habit."

"The man who gambles wants something for nothing," he said. "He is a parasite."
