

SOCIETY

(Continued from page three)

Mountville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress of white taffeta was similar to that of the bride and she carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The groomsmen were Irby Chandler, of this city, cousin of the groom, C. G. Hardigree of Hartwell, Ga., cousin of the bride, M. M. Wood of Greer, Reagan Rowe of Charlotte, N. C., and Charles Pitts of this city. Virgil B. Simpson, of this city, was his brother's best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, L. Troy Watts, was lovely in her wedding dress of bridal satin fashioned with a marquise yoke, and scalloped bertha embroidered in seed pearls and sequins, the full skirt ending in a cathedral train. The full length veil of illusion was caught to her hair with a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and showered with ribbon and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Watts, mother of the bride, wore aqua with a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Simpson, mother of the groom, was gowned in teal blue with an orchid corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The three-tiered wedding cake was cut and served with lime sherbet and punch.

During the evening the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For going away, the bride chose a light toast suit with brown blouse, natural straw hat and lizard bag and shoes.

Mrs. Simpson is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Troy Watts of Mountville, and a graduate of Mountville high school. She attended Lander college for two years, taking a course in business science, and holds a secretarial position with W. G. King & Sons.

Mr. Simpson, the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Simpson, is a graduate of Clinton high school. After serving in the navy air corps during the war he returned to Clemson college to complete his education. He will be a member of the senior class the coming session.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson will be at the home of his parents for the summer months.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mrs. Foster Hardigree, Miss Mary K. Sheats and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Hardigree, Winder, Ga.; Reagan Rowe, Charlotte, N. C.; Marion Wood, Greer, and Miss Marjorie Jones, Blacksburg.

Johnson-Cobb Rehearsal Party

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests on Friday evening at the Lydia community center following the rehearsal for the Johnson-Cobb wedding.

From the bride's table which was lovely with a center arrangement of Queen Anne's lace and blue hydrangea a refreshment course was served buffet style. Later in the evening a number of contests, games and dancing were enjoyed.

Bouquets of roses, with arrangements of snapdragons and Admiral Byrd daisies, were attractive throughout the club rooms.

The bride and groom were presented by the hosts and hostesses with a gift as a remembrance of the occasion.

Reid-Davidson Rites of Interest

Laurens, June 15.—Of wide social prominence is the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. Mace Frank Reid announce the marriage of their daughter, Alice Joyce, to Lawrence Holland Davidson on Saturday, June 11, Laurens, South Carolina.

The wedding was solemnized at 7 o'clock in the evening at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. P. L. Bauknight, pastor of Broad Street Methodist church, Clinton. Members of the two families and a few close friends attended the ceremony.

The bride wore a dress of heather rose crepe with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will reside at 500 South Broad street, Clinton.

Mr. Davidson, the son of Mrs. W. H. (Lula Finney) Davidson and the late Mr. Davidson, is a veteran of World War II. He is engaged in business in Clinton.

Boazman-Boozer Rites at Chappells

In a lovely ceremony in the Baptist church at Saluda on the evening of June 4, Miss Frances Earle Boazman became the bride of James Scott Boozer.

At the same time Miss Jane Christine Boazman became the bride of Robert Benjamin Able.

Miss Frances Boazman was given in marriage by her father, Joe J. Boazman, brother of the bride.

The bride attended Anderson college and graduated from the South Carolina Baptist hospital school for nurses in Columbia, and served in the navy nurse's corps during World War II. Recently she has been a private nurse in Columbia.

Mr. Boozer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Boozer of Chappells. He was graduated from Clemson college and served in the air force. He is a member of the Clinton high school faculty. The young couple will make their home here.

Plans Announced For Godfrey-Gault Wedding Tuesday

Miss Joy Godfrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Blakely Godfrey, will be married to Calhoun Folk Gault on Tuesday, June 21, at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian church. The bride-elect has announced those taking part in the wedding.

The bride-elect, who will be given in marriage by her father, has chosen for her maid of honor Miss Inez Young, of this city, and for her matron of honor Mrs. Watts Davis of Parkersburg, W. Va. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. M. G. Gault, Jr., of Greenville, Mrs. Harry Hicklin of Richburg, Miss Frances Baisley of Reidsville, N. C., and Miss Anne Owens, Miss Virginia Gray and Miss Barrie Jean Wingard of this city.

Georgia Young, of this city, will be junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Gault will have as his best man his father, M. G. Gault, of Bamberg, formerly of Greenville. Marvin Gault, Jr., will serve as a groomsman, as will Marvin Bettis, Hamlet Johnson, Malcolm Erwin, Jr., and Sanford Howie, Jr., all of Greenville, Reese Young of Clinton, and Joe Keith of Columbus, Ga.

Frank Godfrey, Jr., of Columbia, will be junior groomsman.

Dr. William Redd Turner, pastor of the bride, will officiate at the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. M. Dick of Raleigh, N. C. Musicians will include Miss Mary Kent Wysor, of this city, soloist; Miss Betty Asbill, of Raleigh, N. C., soloist; Miss Mary Ann Ashe, of Charlotte, violinist; and Mrs. J. F. Jacobs, of this city, organist.

Social compliments paid the couple during the week of their marriage will include a luncheon for the bride's attendants Monday given by Miss Wingard; the wedding breakfast on Tuesday by Mrs. E. H. Wilkes of this city, and Mrs. J. M. Dick of Raleigh, at the home of Mrs. Wilkes; a buffet supper for the bridal party and out-of-town guests in the late afternoon by Mrs. Jacobs; and the rehearsal party by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Young.

Miss Godfrey and Mr. Gault have been extensively entertained since the announcement of their betrothal.

Miss Esther Johnson Weds James E. Cobb In Home Ceremony

Miss Esther Louise Johnson became the bride of James Edward Cobb in a pretty pink wedding taking place at the home of the bride Saturday afternoon, June 11, at 3 o'clock.

The Rev. J. H. Walker, of Piedmont, former pastor of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony. An improvised altar with white background was arranged in the sun parlor. Marking the setting were floor baskets of pink gladioli and carnations flanked by seven-branched candelabra holding pink candles. Pink roses were used on the piano in the ceremony room.

As a prelude Miss Frances Cobb, sister of the groom, played "Traumerel" and Miss Jerry Galloway sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." "Clair de Lune" was rendered as little Brenda Cobb, niece of the groom, and little Cecelia McLendon lighted the candles. They were pink dotted swiss with corsages of white carnations. The traditional wedding marches were used and during the ceremony "Seal Us, O Holy Spirit" was softly played.

The bride and groom entered together unattended. For her wedding the bride chose a summer suit in pink with white accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of the flowers-of-love.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was given. In the living room the pink motif was observed in a lovely reflected mantel arrangement of gladioli and hydrangea.

The dining table was covered with a handwork linen cloth and centered with the three-tiered wedding cake iced in pink and topped with a miniature bride and groom. At diagonal ends were crystal candelabra holding pink lighted tapers and bouquets of pink carnations were caught at each corner. A crystal bowl of carnations interspersed with candles adorned the buffet. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Mrs. Carl Johnson and Miss Mary Johnson. Sandwiches, cake, punch, nuts and mints in the chosen color note were served.

During the afternoon the couple left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination.

The bride, the daughter of Mrs. William Ernest Johnson and the late Mr. Johnson, attended the schools of Clinton and Columbia college. At the time of her marriage she was employed in the Lydia Mills office.

The groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Cobb, of Blacksburg, formerly of this city, attended the city schools and was graduated June 6 from the University of South Carolina in engineering. He is a navy veteran of World War II. Mr. Cobb is connected with the American Bridge company, and after July 3 they will make their home in Gary, Indiana.

Out-of-town guests here for the rites were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Galloway, Miss Jerry Galloway, Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Cobb and children, Joanna; Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Walker, Piedmont, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Cobb, Misses Frances and Virginia Cobb, and Paul Cobb, Blacksburg; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sharp, Jr., Greensboro, N. C.; Richard L. Johnson, Miss Patricia Dove, Elmira, N. Y.; Miss Ann Hendrix; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson, Greenville.

Lovely Church Ceremony Unites Miss Doris Baldwin And Marion Milam

Of widespread social interest were the lovely rites uniting Miss Doris Baldwin and Marion E. Milam, taking place Saturday evening, June 11, at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. William Redd Turner, pastor, performed the ceremony. A program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. J. F. Jacobs, organist, Miss Kent Wysor and William P. Jacobs, III, soloists. Organ selections were "Medley of Old Love Songs," "Oh Perfect Love," "Ave Maria," "Traumerel," "Bridal March" (Wagner) and Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Mr. Jacobs sang "I Love Thee" and Miss Wysor sang "O Promise Me" and "Perfect Love." "To A Wild Rose" was softly played during the ceremony.

Usher groomsmen were Harry E. Baldwin, Thomas E. Baldwin, brothers of the bride, Allen Draughon, brother-in-law of the bride, Major Archie Sam Adair, of Greenville, brother-in-law of the groom, Ben Thraillkill and Bruce Templeton of Laurens. They wore boutonniers of doubleton carnations.

Floral baskets of white gladioli, pom-pom chrysanthemums and tube roses with seven branched candelabra on the altar made a beautiful setting for the vows. On the rostrum were arrangements of the same flowers with three seven-branched candelabra. A tracery of greenery with chrysanthemums and lighted tapers adorned the choir railing and floral arrangements with candles were repeated on the organ. In each window were three lighted tapers with flowers and fern. Bows of white satin ribbon marked the family pews.

The matron of honor, Mrs. C. E. King, sister of the bride, and maid of honor Miss Kathrine Dicus wore blue. The bridesmaids: Mrs. Allen Draughon, Mrs. H. E. Baldwin, sister and sister-in-law of the bride were gowned in pink; Mrs. T. E. Baldwin, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Archie Sam Adair, sister of the groom wore yellow; Mrs. Alex Cruickshanks, Jr. and Miss Evelyn Milam, sister of the groom wore aqua. Their dresses of dotted marquisette were fashioned with bateau neckline, cap sleeves and hoop skirts. They carried carnations centered with an orchid.

The groom had as his best man his brother, James Y. Milam, Jr., of Laurens.

The brunette bride, given in marriage by her brother, W. C. Baldwin, was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin, fashioned with a high round neck, full gathered skirt extending in a train. Her full length veil of bridal illusion was caught to her hair with a coronet embossed with seed pearls. Her bouquet was of pink and white orchids centered with a large white orchid.

Mrs. W. C. Baldwin, mother of the bride wore blue with an orchid corsage. Mrs. J. Y. Milam of Laurens, mother of the groom was gowned in aqua with an orchid corsage.

Many out-of-town friends and relatives from Laurens, Newberry, Spartanburg, Due West and Hodges were here for the rites.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride for the wedding guests.

Mrs. Walter A. Johnson greeted the guests and Mrs. J. F. Jacobs presented them to the receiving line composed of the bride's mother, the groom's parents, the bride and groom and the wedding party.

Mrs. B. F. Wingard and Mrs. W. G. King, Sr., directed the guests into the gift room where Mrs. George Taylor and Mrs. E. H. Hall received. Entertaining in the gift room were Mrs. Bill Shields and Mrs. James Y. Milam, Jr., of Laurens.

Admiral Byrd daisies with Queen Anne's lace decorated the reception room. Floral arrangements for the hall were in red and a pink color note was attractive in the gift room. Mrs. Pringle Copeland and Mrs. Horace Payne invited the guests into the dining room where cake, nuts, punch and mints were served. Serving were Miss Barrie Jean Wingard, Miss Mary Jean Knight of Belton, Miss Jean Harris, Miss Sue Halfacre, Newberry, Mrs. Alec Crawford, Joanna, Miss Dorothy Hodges, Hodges, Mrs. William Johnson, Miss Elise Halfacre, Newberry, Mrs. Gary Lehn, Mrs. H. M. Halfacre, Newberry and Mrs. J. C. Daniel, Hodges, Mrs. Reese Young, Mrs. S. M. Warner, Mrs. J. R. McIlwain and Mrs. G. A. McIlwain of Due West entertained in the dining room.

Bridal white and green was effective in the dining room and porch. The three tiered wedding cake encircled with gardenias centered the table and on the lower corners were three-branched silver candelabra holding white tapers, while bouquets of gardenias showered with ribbon were caught at the upper corners.

Mrs. Earl Workman and Mrs. Frank Miller invited the guests on the porch for punch. Serving and entertaining here were Miss Agnes Davis, Mrs. Ella Dunlap Nance, Mrs. R. W. Boland, Mrs. Grady Chandler, Miss Irene Hipp and Miss Irene Workman, Mrs. David Trice of Fayetteville, N. C. Mrs. Thomas F. Hollis and Mrs. L. C. McCarthy of Columbia presided over the bride's register.

Mrs. Hal Baldwin and Mrs. Jack Anderson bade the guests goodbye. Others assisting were Mrs. S. C. Dunlap, Mrs. D. E. Halfacre of Newberry and Mrs. J. H. Hodges, of Hodges. During the evening the bride and groom left for a wedding trip. For traveling the bride chose an oyster white summer suit with luggage accessories and alligator shoes and bag. She wore the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Mrs. Milam is the attractive daughter of Mrs. W. C. Baldwin and the late Mr. Baldwin of this city. She attended Winthrop college and was graduated from Presbyterian college where she was a member of Alpha Psi Delta sorority. Since graduation she has held a secretarial position with Baldwin Motor Co.

Mr. Milam is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Milam of Laurens. He is a graduate of Laurens High School and attended the University of South Carolina. After serving two years in the Pacific theater of war he received his discharge from the Marine Corps in 1945. He was then made Certified Officer of War Assets Administration in Greenville. Since that time he has been associated with Maxwell Brothers & Kinard in Laurens where the couple will make their home after their return from a wedding trip.

Bridal Dessert For Miss Doris Baldwin

Among the many charming compliments which have been paid Miss Doris Baldwin prior to her wedding was the bridal dessert given Friday afternoon by Mrs. B. F. Wingard and daughter, Miss Barrie Jean Wingard.

In the living room red roses were arranged with magnolia, and the mantel banked in magnolia was adorned with pink gladioli and blue hydrangea. Yellow lilies with blue hydrangea in a milk glass compote were effective on a console table.

For refreshments, guests were invited into the dining room where bride's slipper molds of ice cream, decorated wedding ring cakes and punch were served, in keeping with a pink, green and white motif. At diagonal ends of the lace-covered table were crystal epergnes holding green and white candles, gardenias and feverfew. On the buffet and server were white gladioli in modernistic design.

Each guest wrote their favorite dessert recipe and the hostess presented the honoree with a dessert file.

Greenville Parties For Clinton Bride-Elect

Miss Joy Godfrey was complimented on Friday when her cousin Miss Mary Etta Henry entertained with a luncheon at the Poinsett Hotel in Greenville.

A silver bowl of gardenias surrounded by a ruff of white tulke centered the bridal table. From this white ribboned streamers fanned out to the individual place setting marked by miniature brides. A three course luncheon was served.

Guests in addition to the hostess and guest of honor were Mrs. Ansel B. Godfrey, Mrs. John T. Young, Miss Inez and Georgia Young of this city, Mrs. Watts Davis of Parkersburg, W. Va. Mrs. John C. Henry, Mrs. Marvin Gault, Jr. and Miss Ruth Rutledge of Greenville.

The bride-elect was remembered with a gift of crystal.

That afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Rutledge was hostess at her home on Byrd Boulevard for a drop-in.

From a beautifully appointed tea table in the dining room sandwiches, punch and cookies were served. About twenty-five guests including several Clinton friends of the honoree called. The hostess gift to Miss Godfrey on this occasion was crystal.

Watts-Simpson Rehearsal Party

Tuesday evening after the rehearsal for the Watts-Simpson wedding G. H. Watts, uncle of the bride, entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the home of the bride's parents.

In the receiving rooms pink magnolia, gladioli and tinted Queen Anne's lace were lovely in decoration. The refreshment table in the dining room was appointed in pink and centered with a bride's bouquet of gardenias. Crystal candelabra holding lighted pink tapers complimented the setting. A salad course, assorted dainties and individual decorated cakes carrying out the chosen color motif were served buffet style.

Blackwelders Feted By Penney Employees

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Blackwelder who will be leaving soon to make their home in Sanford, Fla., were entertained on Friday evening at Roddy's Restaurant by the employees of the J. C. Penney Co.

Covers were laid for 13 at the supper table which was adorned with bowls of snapdragons and fern at either end. Mrs. Blackwelder's place was designated by a corsage of white carnations and Mr. Blackwelder was presented a boutonniere and a gift of cuff links and tie holder.

Mrs. Blalock Honors Miss Joy Godfrey

Enjoyable among parties honoring Miss Joy Godfrey, who will be married June 21, was the dessert bridge given by Mrs. Francis Blalock Thursday afternoon.

Daisies, larkspur and feverfew combined in a bouquet and a coffee table arrangement of pink roses and blue hydrangeas decorated the living room. Adorning the dining room table was a handsome bowl of bronze snapdragons and Admiral Byrd daisies while tiger lilies were used in the den and on the porch.

Four tables were appointed for refreshments and a sweet course and nuts were served with lime punch. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. John W. Finney, Jr., and Mrs. J. B. Arnold. At the conclusion of the progressions, awards were presented Mrs. B. F. Wingard and Mrs. Allen Draughon. Floating prize went to Miss Myra Adair. The hostess' gift to Miss Godfrey was china in her wedding-pattern. Miss Doris Baldwin and Miss Gloria Owens, also brides-elect, were remembered with gifts.

Joint Hostesses Honor Bride-Elect

On Thursday at one o'clock a luncheon was given for Miss Joy

Godfrey by Misses Faye Pitts and Virginia Gray at the R. G. Murphy home.

Covers were laid for twelve at the attractively appointed table. Centering the table was a nosegay fashioned of pink roses and white feverfew around which were arranged miniature nosegays. These were attached to the bridal place cards and were presented to the guests to wear as corsages.

The pink rose motif was followed throughout in the three course luncheon.

The hostesses gift to Miss Godfrey was a Dresden ramkin.

The Boiling Point

A SHORT-SHORT STORY
By VERA TARPLEY

"I WE HAVE to live in your mother's home for the next two years, I won't be responsible for what happens to our marriage!" Almost immediately Linda regretted making such an open-faced threat.

Bert smiled at his pretty wife a little sadly. He was getting used to ultimatum. "Don't you think you're getting just a little dramatic about the whole thing? It isn't a perfect solution, I know that, but it seems to be the only one at hand right now. If we persist in eating while I finish medical school, we're going to have to take advantage of Mother's generosity."

Bert didn't shut his eyes for several hours after they had gone to bed that night.

"Generosity!" her eyes flashed. "Bert, when I married you, you were a mama's boy and you admitted it. It wasn't easy for me—watching you run to her for advice about our personal affairs. But I held on tight until you snapped out of it—and I was wonderfully grateful, darling." She nestled comfortably on his lap and began rumpling his hair. "I only want you to stand on your own two feet, is that too much to ask?"

Bert didn't shut his eyes for several hours after they had gone to bed that night. What can a man think of himself when he has to face the stark fact that he can't provide for his wife and child?

And there was Mother Bradley, alone in a large, comfortable house. She was confused and hurt when he had tried to explain why Linda refused to accept her offer of a home until Bert was through school.

"But it would solve everything, Bert," she had said that afternoon. "I never have liked rattling around in this big house by myself. You look terribly tired, dear. Medical school is hard enough without worrying yourself to death about money matters. Besides, it was all Linda's idea in the first place that you should go back to school."

"And Bert, tell Linda she can be certain I wouldn't think of meddling in your affairs. Of course, she'll have to do her share of the housework."

"Just how will you two manage that, Mother? I mean, there are bound to be differences coming up, and—"

"Well naturally, Bert, it's still my home. I know Linda is very capable and efficient. She's made that clear on a number of occasions, but you couldn't expect me to let a young girl lord it over me in my own home, now could you?"

Bert groaned inwardly. "Linda wouldn't try to lord it over anyone, Mother. She's not like that."

Mrs. Bradley laughed graciously. "Of course not, Bert, you're in love with her, and that's as it should be. Of course, I do think she tries to dominate you—from love, of course."

"Not that I mind—she's your wife, she should come first with you. Your father clung to his mother long after we were married, and believe me, I would never allow Linda to suffer as I did. But—but why—?" Bert was stupefied. His mother had broken off into painful sobbing.

"Why doesn't she ever let me see Bobby? There must be dozens of times when she goes shopping when she could leave him with me. I'd be glad to take care of him—I'm his grandmother—and she leaves him with neighbors or strangers, while I—"

Bert couldn't bear to hear her sobbing again. He muttered a few words, kissed her, and left. He was going to make Linda come around—that is, she'd see things his way—they couldn't all go on being miserable. But he had gone home only to meet Linda's ultimatum, an ultimatum for the sake of their marriage. . . . At last he slept soundly. He had a plan. At last he had made a decision: his own decision.

Early the next evening instead of asking, he informed Linda that they were going over to visit his mother.

"I want you both to hear what I've decided to do, and before I tell you, you might as well know, Linda, that this wasn't Mother's idea, and Mother, it wasn't Linda's. I'm quitting school and going back to work at the chemical laboratory."

He paused a second to let it sink in. Before they could verbalize their amazement he went on.

"I don't like to hurt either of you, but it's time we understand each other before I end up in a psychiatrist's office. You've both accused each other of 'dominating' me so often that I finally realized you're both probably right. You have the best intentions, and I love you for it, but you can't go on tugging at me from opposite sides and expect to have anything faintly resembling a man when you get through."

Linda was furious. "Bert, you could at least have had the decency to talk this over with me—alone!"

Mrs. Bradley was hurt. "Your mother doesn't mean much to you anymore, does she, Bert?"

"You've hit the nail on the head! You mean everything to me—as my mother, so stop thinking Linda has taken your place. And Linda, darling, I think perhaps you have been trying to take mother's place—I should think being my wife is a tough enough job. It's obvious I couldn't survive in this house with two mothers or two wives. I can't afford to go on with school, so I'm going to work. It's as simple as that. I should have done it long ago."

Bert decided to finish out the week at school in order to get his last allotment check. Linda was strangely quiet about his decision, and yet he couldn't detect the resentment he thought she must feel. Then one evening she quietly informed him that they were going to visit his mother again.

"We've figured it all out—the two of us. You won't have to quit school after all." Mrs. Bradley was bubbling all over.

"Yes, darling!" Linda chimed in. "You see we'd rather dominate you together than not at all, so we joined forces!" She laughed and gave him a discomposing poke in the ribs.

"Hey, what is this, an ambush?" Bert could hardly believe it was the same two women as a few nights ago.

"Simply this, knucklehead. I'm going to work and you're going right on with school. Did you think we'd let you play hooky, did you really?" Linda was in one of her rare moods again—the kind that made Bert congratulate himself for finding her.

"But what about Bobby?" he stammered.

"I'm going to take the brat off your hands for three days a week," countered Mrs. B., "and send him to a nursery school the other two days so he won't be intolerably spoiled!"

Bert stretched himself out on the sofa and stared at them—and grinned. They were unquerable, these two dominating females.

Tailor - Made SEAT COVERS

PLASTIC OR FIBER

We have a number of different patterns to choose from. Come by and let us give you a price on covering your car. We also cover furniture. If you have any furniture that needs rebuilding we will be glad to give you a price on same.

TIMMERMAN MOTOR CO.

Sales — OLDSMOBILE — GMC TRUCKS — Service
Phone 119