County School Bus Burns at Waterloo

Laurens — A Laurens County school bus was all but destroyed by fire about midnight Tuesday in the yard of its Negro driver's home at Waterloo, the sheriff's office reported Thursday.

Officers here theorized that the bus caught fire accidentally as thieves attempted to siphon gasoline from its tank.

Two five-gallon cans were found near the bus, and a badly charred siphon hose extended into the gas tank, Deputy Sheriff H. R. Jones reported.

The bus was parked in the yard of Willie Bennett, Negro student at Sanders High School here.

His family awoke to discover the bus in flames, and members were able to carry enough water to extinguish the flames before the bus was a total loss, officers said.

Officials said later that the tires and motor could possibly be salvaged. The remaining portion of the bus was termed a total loss.

Investigating officers said the fire definitely began at the siphon hose. They felt it might have been started by a carelessly tossed match or cigarette.

Investigating with the deputy were Highway Patrolman Charles Harrison and SLED Agent Harold Fortson.
