Bringing the day's session to a close was the main address of the encampment by Rev. W. W. Willingham, pastor of the Lanford Baptist Church, held at the lakeside where a huge bonfire was built.

Mr. Willingham pointed out the challenge to boys today as Royal Ambassadors, to live true to the R. A. allegiance, to always remember the R. A. watchword, to be a blessing to the whole world, to be the best ambassador possible for Christ.

A period of recreation was enjoyed, directed by Don Mauldin, religious education director of the First Baptist Church, Clinton.

After spending the night, some in the auditorium, some in tents and others sleeping in the open, revile was sounded at 6:00 a. m. Members of the group prepared their own breakfast outdoors.

A devotional period was held at 8:00 a. m., followed by recreation under supervision of R. A. counselors. The encampment disbanded at 11 a. m.

Plans are in the making, it was stated, for other such events and a week's encampment in 1961.

Paul Riddle, Associational R. A. counselor of Lanford, was in charge of arranging the program.

Prior Navy Men May Now Reenlist

Chief James Pace of the Clinton Navy Recruiting Branch at the local post office said that former regular Navy and Naval Reserve personnel may reenlist at the rate they held prior to separation.

He said, however, that the reenlistment must take place in less than four years after separation for regular Navy personnel and less than two years after separation for reservists.

Many of the Navy rates are considered "open rates," he said.
