EVERYDAY COUNSELOR

By Bishop Herbert Spang

National Thanksgiving Day this week calls us to cultivate the grace of gratitude. It is sorely needed in these days of pressure, tension, frustration and selfishness.

Most of us have forgotten, if we ever knew, the art of gracious living. Man is not born with the grace of gratitude. He has to acquire it by constant effort.

The gracious man is the grateful man. It has always been so. When Jesus healed ten lepers St. Luke records that only one of them came back to offer thanks.

A correspondent sent me a copy of a recent letter sent out by the General Secretary of Rotary International, from Evanston, Ill. from which I quote:

"It is being recalled locally that Lake Michigan's worst disaster occurred 100 years ago this month (September) when its great, angry waves crushed the pleasure steamer, 'Lady Elgin,' claiming 287 lives from among its nearly 400 passengers. Of the 30 rescued by shore workers, 17 were saved by a frail, 26-year-old student, the son of a river boat captain, whose favorite pastime was swimming. Time and again as he dashed into the waves only to be thrown back, his efforts doomed until out of the chaos he would repeatedly return with a limp body. After his 17th rescue, he collapsed, the strength of a lifetime spent in six hours of super human rescue work. Broken in health, he was prevented from completing his schooling and realizing his life dream. He died at 83, having spent most of his years in a wheel chair.

"In his later years he was asked his most lasting impression of that awful experience in the sinking of the 'Lady Elgin.' Lowering his white head, he said, 'The fact that one of the 17 ever returned to thank me'."

I read this letter to a friend of mine who is an excellent swimmer, who in his lifetime has rescued many. I asked him how many he could recall who had thanked him. He said, "Not one!"

We all long for appreciation. We like to be thanked when we have done a good job or rendered a favor to another. But all too often we do not receive it.

Many of us were not trained as children to express appreciation, and so we have grown up without knowing how to express appreciation. Yet we can learn, if we have the will to do so. Parents, teach your children appreciation. When they grow to maturity, they will be grateful to you.

Some of you who read this are employers and supervisors. Try to express appreciation to the employees under your charge. They will do better work and you will get a lift yourself. Husbands and wives need to express appreciation to one another more often. Children should be likewise for their parents.

Appreciation expressed pays wonderful dividends! Try it.

LAVENDER FLU

Your grandfather probably knew this cure. Flowers of lavender quilted in a hat were supposed to ward off "stuffed-up" noses and head colds. Pleasant treatment—but certainly not a sure cure. Today, thanks to medical science, we have numerous effective vaccines . . . against flu, whooping cough and other respiratory diseases . . . to immunize and protect us from the discomforts of infections. So, why suffer needlessly. Ask your physician about them. Let him prescribe the medication that is most effective for your needs. Then come to us for prescription service.

Dear Dr. Dawson,

Dr. Dawson

Dear Dr. Dawson, My Aunt, who is a patient of yours, tells me that I should come to you for my condition. She said you would probably take x-rays. Do you always do this. Mrs. P. S. R.

Dear Mrs. P. S. R., X-rays (or Spineographs as we call them) are always taken when it is necessary to have them to make an accurate analyses of a condition. It is at times possible to do this without x-rays but very often without x-rays my work would be hindered. It would, of course, be impossible to say whether or not a spineograph would be necessary in your case without an examination. However, you can obtain consultation at the Dawson Chiropractic Clinic without charge just by phoning for an appointment.

Dear Dr. Dawson, I seem to get a cold every time the weather changes. I have taken all kinds of remedies but they just give relief for the time being and soon I am all stopped up again. I've heard that Chiropractic is good for a cold but I don't understand how rubbing can do a cold any good. M. A.

Dear M. A., To begin, let me first explain that the Chiropractic principle of adjusting the spinal column does not involve a rubbing technique. The Chiropractor "adjusts" the segments of the backbone. The idea that a Chiropractor gives rub-downs, heat treatment, hydro-therapy, or vibrations, though believed by many, are incorrect.

Now to colds — Everyone knows that when a person's resistance is high, he is much less apt to come down with a cold or, for that matter, any other infectious disease. With Chiropractic care, a person's resistance is at its best, and as a result, he will have fewer colds to battle.
