A WONDERFUL ORGANIZATION

The Red Cross Association, as soon as the reports of the fearful storm disaster of last Wednesday reached them, and that was within a very few hours—they were on the ground ready to help and were helping right along. There is a kind of feeling of security when disaster comes and the Red Cross gets to work to furnish relief, for it is certain to go about it in a systematic and efficient way. Relief work for the storm stricken section has been placed in their hands. Contributions are pouring in giving urgently needed relief. Not one dollar contributed will go to pay the expenses of the Red Cross. The national organization will take care of that, and those who contributed to the relief of the sufferers will know that it will all go to their relief. The Red Cross is a wonderful organization, and merits the hearty endorsement of every one.

TAX EXEMPTION OF GOVERNMENT.

In commenting on the necessity for doing away with the tax-exempt bond the Commercial Appeal of Memphis says: "All over the country there has been a demand that no more tax-free bonds be issued. The reason is plain. It is privilege. Practically, it invites capital to seek inactive harbors.

"The country grows through industrialism. The country is great because railroads cut all through it and because there are mines, steel mills, lumber mills, factories, automobile plants, furniture factories, cotton mills and packing plants.

"Now, if these industries issue bonds they are taxed, and, being taxed, they must pay a high rate of interest. The public must, therefore, pay bigger money for the products of these industries, because their taxes are high.

"The public pays the taxes on so-called untaxed bonds. The government needs money to run. The holder of an untaxed bond pays nothing. A producer who pays an income tax makes up the deficit with buyers using taxed products.

"Under the present system certain securities are escaping taxation. This thing has cursed governments from the beginning. It is the first, start of privilege."

It is remarkable the length of time Congress can resist this tax reform which is so necessary to equalize present day tax burdens.

A GREAT ADVERTISING ISSUE

We have before us a copy of the Columbus, Ga., Industrial Index, containing nearly two hundred pages, advertising that prosperous Georgia town. It is now the home of Dr. John A. Davidson, a former pastor of the Camden Baptist church, and his congregation there are engaged in erecting a Sunday school building at a cost of $100,000 to take care of one of the largest Sunday schools in the South. We understand that there are fourteen hundred members of this Sunday school. There are twelve cotton mills there besides many other manufacturing enterprises. Nearly a half million spindles are operated and they expect to increase this number finally to one million by 1935. The annual payroll of the cotton mills alone is stated at more than $6,000,000. The mills were liberal patrons of this industrial issue of the Index, one of them, the Meritas Mills, owned and operated by the Standard Textile Products Co., of New York city, having a full page advertisement in it, and giving a picture of the mill, and making the statement: "We extend congratulations to Columbus on another year of substantial growth. Every building shown in this photograph is within the incorporate limits of the city. This corporation is in Columbus, and of Columbus, and rejoices in its growth. Began operation in 1911 with 9,900 spindles and 70 looms. Enlarged in 1913 to 26,000 spindles and 400 looms. Again enlarged in 1916 to 57,000 spindles and 1,360 looms." What struck us particularly was the statement made that they were within the "incorporate limits," and were rejoicing in its growth. A splendid spirit for a big corporation that is making money to show. And the Industrial Index is to be congratulated upon getting out so splendid a showing for Columbus.

The convention held yesterday, was about as brief and harmonious as any ever held in this county.

Popular Entertainer to Delight Audience
at the Chautauqua

Virginia Slade, clever character impersonator and play reader, who will appear at the coming Redpath Chautauqua, has achieved a splendid record as an entertainer in the Lyceum and Chautauqua field.

She will give here a popular miscellaneous program consisting of a number of short readings, and cuttings from several well-known plays.

Miss Slade is possessed of an innate ability to portray different characters realistically, and she effects a transition from one character to another with a result that is pleasingly artistic.

Her play characters, as she presents them, are so natural that audiences can easily visualize the entire group of characters. The ability to impersonate effectively is the test of the real artist, which Miss Slade is, in every sense of the word.

Her contribution to the Chautauqua here will be greatly enjoyed.
