RADIO PROGRAMS and PERSONALITIES

RAY PERKINS, noted radio wit, hardly needs an introduction, for with his carefree informality and good humored sophistication he endears himself anew each Tuesday and Thursday night when he broadcasts at 7:30 P. M. (EDST) over the NBC-WEAF network.

Ray Perkins

With time out on the same program for Peter Van Steeden's orchestra, Perkins takes a breath between his comedy songs which he sings, incidentally, to his own accompaniment. And his punctuation with frothy chatter and a running fire of "gags" have given him a reputation as the best natural humorist in the studios. The series is under the sponsorship of Barbasol, with Perkins billed as the Barbasolier and the orchestra as the Barbasoliers of Fortune. This brings Perkins under the same sponsorship as Singin' Sam, whose bass voice rolls out over the Columbia network three times a week.

CONVINCED that the country is going to the dogs, if the dogs will take it, Billy Jones and Ernie Hare, radio's pioneer team, are determined to do something about it. After weeks of worry, they've finally decided to form a third party, enter the election lists in the Fall, and see if they can't land a couple of slender men in the White House.

For President—William Jones (A vote for Jones is a vote for Jones).

For Vice-President—Ernest Hare. (A vote for Hare is a vote for every little hair—on Ernie's head.)

Their platform: Thirty-five inch hips for every woman under fifty.

"A salad for every sweetie."

A few mayonnaise planches thrown in.

So for the next three months, Billy and Ernie will tell you why they should be given a one-way ticket to Washington next March. Listen to them three times a week under the sponsorship of The Best Foods, Inc., makers of Hellmann's and Best Foods Mayonnaise, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:45 P.M. (EDST) from Station WJZ in New York.

TEN years ago an unknown singer accidentally discovered that a very pleasing effect could be obtained by singing softly into a microphone. And that's how crooning was born.

The singer was "Whispering" Jack Smith, who is back on the air now to show present-day crooners just how it should be done.

He's heard Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays over the NBC-WJZ network.

A few weeks ago the makers of Absorbine, Jr., signed him up to star in his own program and carry on their athlete's foot missionary work.

the rules and regulations governing the conduct of the primary which rules are sent to the managers along with the ballots and boxes.

At Precincts where voters from more than one Township cast their ballot the voters will give the managers the names of the Township in which they reside and the managers will write the names of such Township on the poll list next to the voter's name.

One of the Managers or some member of each club will call for the boxes, tickets, etc., which will be ready on Monday, August 29, at the office of The Camden Chronicle.

JAPANESE OLYMPIC ATHLETES LIKE THEIR HAM AND EGGS FOR BREAKFAST

THE problem before all the 2,000 athletes from 58 nations competing in the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles, is how to keep in the best of physical condition. All are agreed that it is necessary to maintain uniformity of diet, that is, athletes from overseas must continue to eat what they are accustomed to get at home.

The Australians are proving the heaviest eaters. The Swedes are the lightest.

Japanese contestants are asking for ham and eggs, American style, for breakfast.

Athletes from Argentine asked for the pepper taken off their table. The Japanese have taken to honeydew melons and cantaloupes.

The athletes from Great Britain can't get too much roast beef and saddle of mutton.

The French say that the French school of cooking is superior to any in the world and insist upon French chefs to prepare their food.

The Italian delegation had a few words to say about the merits of Italian food and asked for Italian cooks.

American athletes like American food and believe that American athletic trainers in directing the diet of their charges, have had much to do with the success of American Olympic contestants. The United States has won every modern Olympiad.
