WEBWORM CONTROL

Poison sprays or dusts must be applied soon after the eggs have hatched, as they will give very little control after the webbing is formed and the larvae have bored into the stems.

The best arsenical spray is made up of 2 lbs. lead arsenate and 2 lbs. soap in 50 gallons water. The spray should be applied with considerable force and directed downward into the buds.

Calcium arsenate can be applied as a dust, either pure, or diluted with an equal weight of hydrated lime. Leaves heavily coated with arsenicals should not be used for food. If only a small residue of the poison is on the leaves, thorough washing in several changes of water will remove any danger of poisoning. Badly infested plants and crop remnants should be removed and burned at once. Weeds in and around the fields should be kept cut out. Crops should be well fertilized and frequently cultivated, to insure rapid growth and to break up the pupae in the soil.

The food plants of the cabbage webworm are: cabbage, turnips, collards, rutabaga, cauliflower, kale, radish, mustard rape, kohlrabi, horse radish and beets.

HENRY D GREEN, Co. Agt.

KILL PEACH TREE BORERS

Paradichlorobenzine should be applied between October first and 15th, using 1-2 ounce on trees three years old, 3-4 ounce on trees 4 and 5 years old, and 1 ounce on trees 6 years old and older. The materials should be applied in a ring 1 inch wide around the tree and 2 inches distant from it. Immediately after application is made a mound should be built around the base of the tree. This mound should be removed from around trees three and four years old after three weeks, from around trees five years old after four weeks, and from around trees six years old and older after six weeks.

For full information on orchard subjects, including many thoughts on the farm orchard and on control of insects and diseases attacking fruit trees and for complete spray chart for various fruit trees get copy of bulletin No. 89 from County Agent.

A REVIVAL!

By Rev. J. Keels, Bethune, S C

There has been a great need for a revival in the world of nature. We will not soon forget the need for showers of rain.

There is a great need for a revival in the financial world! Men need work. Men need money.

There is a greater need for a revival in the Spiritual World. A spiritual awakening is needed. An out pouring of the Spirit of the living God would bring showers of blessing. Men who are perishing in sin, whose souls are drying up in them, would see themselves as worthless sinners, would catch a new vision of God and get a new vision of God and get a new power for service.

After the death of Christ there was a great revival—the first church revival. The first church revival began with the first church prayer meeting. A revival in this day must begin with unceasing prayer. The power of Pentecost will come upon us.

At this season of the year we are having revival services. May they be real revivals.

Dark, over hanging clouds may come. The wind may blow. The lightning may flash. The thunder may rumble and roll. But if it does not rain there will not be a revival in the world of nature.

Men may cry, "The depression is over!" But unless we have money the depression is with us.

Men may pack the churches. Men may sing. They may shout. They may even stand up and confess the Christ with their lips. But unless there is a revival in their own hearts there will not be any revival at all.

We must turn from our sins, our selfishness, our covetousness, and our greed. We must hate and forsake sin. We must be sorry for the sins that we have committed against our bodies, against our fellow men and against our God. We must turn to God trusting in Him for forgiveness because Jesus Christ died in our stead on the cross.

May we pray without ceasing:

"Revive us again; fill each heart with Thy love; May each soul be rekindled with fire from above."

OAT SMUT CONTROL

Formaldehyde Treatment—Fan the seed to remove light seed and foreign material.

Mix one pint of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) with 10 to 30 gallons of water and keep the solution covered until ready to use. This quantity is sufficient for 50 bushels. The amount of water can be varied to suit the operator, so long as one pint of formalin is applied to 50 bushels.

Place the grain on a clean, tight floor. Apply the solution with a sprinkling can while the oats are shoveled from one pile to another, or spread in a thin layer, sprinkle, and shovel until each grain is wet.

Shovel the oats into a pile and cover with canvas, blankets, or sacks that have been dipped in the formaldehyde solution. The pile should be covered at least two hours and may be left covered eight hours or overnight.

When the cover is removed, sow the seed immediately. Allow for the swollen condition by setting the drill to sow about one-fourth more per acre. If sowing is delayed, spread the seed in a thin layer and stir frequently until thoroughly dried.

For fuller information on treating oats, wheat and barley for smut get copy of information card No. 40 from county agent.

Semi-Precious Stones

Chemically the beryl, and its varieties, is described as a silicate of beryllium and aluminum. It is found in a good many gardens of the globe. Royalston, Mass., and certain parts of North Carolina supply the best aquamarines found in the United States. Some are found also in New Hampshire, California and other states. Older sources are the gem gravels of Ceylon, certain Russian and Siberian localities and Brazil.
