

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance. HOPE never looks back. The man who loves him, hates the truth. A bad example is as deadly as the plague. The man who makes no mistakes, makes no progress. Every stone thrown at a good man is aimed at Christ. On a field of battle, the dead men are not the ones shot at. The tongue is a good indicator of the amount of grace in the heart. A thirst can be started by a teaspoon that barrels cannot quench. I don't think that the man who is stingy never seems to know it. The devil has no power to waste on people who are not his. How can the man who is not against the snail be a true friend of Christ? The devil will not leave the man who never says no with all his heart. Some of the devil's best work is done by people who claim to love the Lord. The devil has no reason to be ashamed of the man who is mean to his wife. The Lord is not able to do what he would for the man who puts his trust in gold. If you know that you hate your neighbor, God knows that you are not fit for heaven. There is no spiritual power in the church where nobody is rejoicing in the Lord. No human rule can keep us from being afraid in the valley of the shadow of death. Prove that there is no hell, and why they are about the first to throw up their hats. We shall not find it hard to pray when we know that we are honestly trying to do God's will. There is as much joy in heaven over the conversion of a sinner in the church as there is over one in the streets. At this point she broke down and wept sending tears. "Dear me! She must have been looking over with rage." Cincinnati Enquirer.

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

MONEY AND NERVE ARE IDENTICAL IN THEIR EFFECTS. Plenty of "Filly Lucre," Big It Is Not Circulating Freely.

The doctors tell us that paralysis is the loss of the function of motion from interruption of nervous influences. Trade, commerce and industrial pursuits have nerves, too, and they seem to be paralyzed. The aptest marrow is diseased and muscular power has become stagnant. What has caused this unnatural condition we know not with any certainty, for the political doctors disagree, but it is believed by many that it is owing to the lack of circulation of the blood that is of money, and that the demoralization of silver is at the bottom of it. Whatever it is, the patient is in a bad fix. The other day I rode out with a lady friend in the suburbs of Atlanta to look at some of the exchange houses. She wanted to buy a home for herself, and we spent parts of three days in examining and pricing properties. There were hundreds of them and they were cheap enough, but what struck me was that a building and loan company had more for sale than anybody. This company had loaned money four and five years ago to improve suburban lots. They loaned not exceeding one-half the value of the vacant lot and have been forced to foreclose their mortgages because the borrower could no longer pay the interest, and so they bid in the property and have held it, hoping to get their money back, but they can't and are now seeking buyers at less than the property cost them, and in some cases less than the original loan. A lot that four or five years ago was worth $1,000 and has on it a house that cost $500 or $800 is offered for $1,200, and perhaps $1,000 would buy it. The company can stand it, but what has become of the poor fellow and his family, I know not. They had hopes and were looking forward to the time when their humble home would be paid for, but this paralysis overtook them and swept their home and their hopes away. The Merchants' bank long has been regarded as one of the solid, conservative institutions of Atlanta, but it advanced money on real estate and could not realize. This is the condition all over the country. Trade is paralyzed, especially in real estate. Financiers tell us that there is as much money in the country as there ever was but it does not move. The stagnation not only continues, but it gets worse. Three years ago a man offered $1,500 for a eligible town lot in Carlestown. A year later he bought it for $800, and now he could not get $500 for it if he wished to sell. Is it any wonder that the people have lost confidence and are unwilling to make any change that would tend to make a new start and will even take strychnine if it is prescribed. But the long agony is nearly over and we shall see what we shall see. The people are ready for the ballot and the ballot will settle the nation's will. It is the means against the class—the same old story. "And David fled from Saul to the cause of Adulm and all who were discontented in debt or distress joined him there." That was a sorry lot to fight a king, but in course of time they were victorious. But I don't believe that capital is as much advanced as it was a month ago. The banks have hedged and are prepared for the change if any comes. Certain it is there will be no collapse if Bryan is elected and there will be no relief if McKinley is. This government can't be ruined by a change of rulers. The civil war cleared up the south pretty well, but in ten years it had rallied and in fifteen years hardly a trace of the war could be found. Then let us not be alarmed at the situation. If McKinley is elected and a Republican congress, and something is not done to remedy the situation, it will be a very serious matter. Distress and discontent are growing things. While capital is all the time concentrating in the few, debt and discontent is spreading to the many. Capital will not turn a wheel as long as it can be loaned on mortgages at a good percentage. A few months ago a group of public spirited citizens organized a movement to the children of the poor. The stock was all subscribed, but before any contracts were made the time of the money and money more valuable, and so one by one the stockholders dropped out and the fund in child charity. But why worry about these things? There is no good sense in brooding over trouble. I had better read a good book or plant out strawberries or play with a grandchild than to talk politics. I was in Atlanta yesterday and was in a room in a hotel and I was in a number of the legislature. He got the idea that I was an office seeker and asked me what I was running for. "Nothing," said I, "nothing at all." He seemed relieved and said I was a curiosity and asked me for my picture. I will say this and can prove it. There are better men out than in and always will be. When bigger Bob came back from the penitentiary after serving his time, he declared that he was some one had fallen in dar as dar was cut in dar and dar was some one good people out dar as dar was in dar. There are some mighty clever men holding office and the people were pleased to honor them, but it is a rare thing for a modest gentleman to be elevated. The day of Cincinnati will never return. —Bill Arr, in Atlanta Constitution.

PALMETTO STATE NOTES.

THE REGISTRATION BOOKS. They Will be Opened Again on the First Monday in December.

The people in this State who have not secured their registration certificates will have their next opportunity to do so, under the qualifications prescribed in the Constitution and registration laws on the first Monday in next month. The following extract from the registration law so provides, as follows: "The books of registration shall be opened by the boards on the first Monday in April, 1896, at the court house in each county and kept open for at least six consecutive weeks. They shall be opened again at the court house on the first Monday in June, July, August and September, A. D. 1896, and kept open continually for at least one week in each of said months. They shall be closed 30 days before the general election in 1896. After the general election in 1896 the books of registration shall be opened on the first Monday of each month at the court house and kept open for three successive days in each month until 30 days before the election in 1898, when they shall be closed until the said general election shall have taken place. The officers and books must be kept open from 9 o'clock in the forenoon until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. "The board of registration is the judge of the qualifications of all applicants for registration up to January 1st, 1898."

A NEW CHARTER.

Greenwood Gets One Under a Recent Act. Greenwood recently made application to the Secretary of State for a charter under the new Act approved last year, giving up her present charter for the new one which gives the towns chartered under it more privileges than the old. The act refers to towns of not less than 1,000 inhabitants, and provides that the town shall be governed by a Mayor and six Aldermen, putting it in the "city" class. The Act gives numerous privileges as to fire departments, public works and such not usually enjoyed under the old charters. Greenwood is the first town to give up the old and ask for a new charter, her development requiring further powers to be given to her municipal government. An election had to be held in order to secure the charter. There were 123 votes cast in the election, 120 being in favor and 3 against. The Secretary of State has issued the certificate of incorporation in accordance with the Act.

The Negro Question.

The Presbyterian Synod, at its recent meeting in Orangeburg, approved the records of the Charleston Presbytery. These records contained the paper adopted by the Presbytery giving its reasons for declining to correct its action in repeating a negro who applied to be received under care of the Presbytery. The Synod also appointed a committee to conduct all colored evangelistic work in the State. This committee is instructed to give no help to any colored minister of church not in connection with the Independent colored Presbyteries that are now or may hereafter be in the State. This means a complete separation of whites and blacks in church relations insofar as this State is concerned. It is possible for the General Assembly, which meets in Charlotte, N. C., next year, to revise this policy, but there is no probability of its doing so.

New Companies.

A charter has been granted to the Pine Hill Agricultural and Mechanical Association of Grayville county. Wesley Sullivan, Graywood Donaldson, James Shumate and Calvin Shumate are the incorporators. The capital stock is to be $1,000. The object is to hold annual fairs. James Robertson, J. Lamb Perry and W. T. Thompson, of Charleston, have been granted a charter as a private corporation to deal in bonds, stocks, real estate, etc. The capital stock is $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each.

The State Board of Control at its last meeting decided to postpone the election of a State Labor Commissioner until the next regular monthly meeting.

Must Remit Promptly.

Treasurer Bates has issued the following circular to all State Treasurers: "I must respectfully call your attention to Section 227, Revised Statutes of 1893, and ask a prompt and full compliance with the requirements of said section. Please remit promptly to this office on the 1st and 15th of each month all moneys collected by you for or on account of State taxes."

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod, of South Carolina, held its seventy-second annual session in Bethlehem church, Pomaria, Newberry county, Oct. 25-26.

The Comptroller General has completed the tabulation of the returns of the taxable property of the State showing a total valuation of real estate of $100,835,506, showing an increase of about $700,000 over the previous year. The total value of personal property is $35,590,000, an increase of somewhat over $170,000. The value of railroad property is $23,902,712, and the total taxable property of all kinds in the State is $170,298,018.

Mr. W. A. Goullard, in Marion county, has made a crop record this year which any one will find it difficult to surpass. He has fourteen acres in oats, on which he made an average yield of fifty bushels per acre. After harvesting the oats he planted the corn and estimates that he has made an average of about forty-three bushels per acre.

Governor Evans has appointed Mr. J. O. A. Moore, of Darlington, a member of the State Board of Control vice Mr. Allen, of York, resigned.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

A Column of Both Home and Foreign Happenings. ARRANGED FOR THE FIRESIDE. Which Will Be of More or Less Interest to the General Reader.

The directors of the American Bimetallite Union, who constitute the bulk of the silver leaders in three parties, have decided to maintain headquarters in the city and use it as an agency through which to circulate the "gold standard" over the land. The branch office at Chicago will be consolidated with the Washington office, but the San Francisco branch will be kept open. Gen. A. J. Warner, president of the union, at the request of the directors, has issued the following address, setting forth the purpose of the silver union: "To the Silver Leagues and Bimetallite Union of the United States: Silver has lost in this election, but the battle for the overthrow of the gold standard has not ended. The disastrous consequences that must attend upon the continuance of this standard make it imperative that it be finally overthrown. The gold standard cannot be maintained by increasing revenue, because revenues are not paid in gold. The attempt to maintain the gold standard by perpetual loans must also soon or later fail. The only other way is by contracting the currency and forcing the price so low that gold will come here of itself in such quantities as to continue in part, at least, the currency with which revenues are paid, and not to be an open market for the gold. Either course, therefore, leads to inevitable ruin, the one by bankrupting the government and the other by bankrupting the people. It is the duty of the United States absolutely to British domination and hence the rejection of the British press over the defeat of silver. "The victory for gold is a victory of trusts and syndicates' wealth, brought about by corruption and coercion and not a victory by the people, and it cannot last. There must be an end also to the constant appreciation of money. The appreciation of money, if allowed to go on at the rate it has gone on for the past 20 years, will in half a century have transferred the bulk of the wealth of this country from those who have created it to the hands of those who control the money and own the debts. No power can be conceived so potent to gather wealth into few hands as the endless all-prevailing power of appreciating money standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without abatement, and I urge upon all silver and bimetallic leagues and unions to keep up the pressure on the gold standard. No civilization can stand against it. It must end or the foundation upon which free institutions rest will be broken up. The battle, therefore, for the rejection of silver must go on without ab