Governor Elbera a few days ago had two "original package" stores closed—one in Charleston and the other in Anderson. But the one in Charleston has been re-opened by J. S. Pinkusohn surrendering the agency to W. G. Moore, of New York, to whom the liquor belonged and Jacob Pinkusohn being appointed in his stead.

The lively interest being manifested in the farmers' contest is highly gratifying and stimulating. It is gratifying to us because we desire to help out in every way possible the agricultural interests of Kershaw county. It is stimulating to the farmers for it increases interest in agricultural pursuits and awakens a lively and creditable spirit of rivalry among them.

Educational Column.

The matter for this column is furnished by County Superintendent of Education L. L. Copeland, and all communications intended for this department should be addressed to him at Camden, S. C.

A stream can rise no higher than its source; a pupil can learn no more than the teacher knows.

No. 13 has levied a four mill special tax. That's going it with a whoop in the right direction.

By resolution of the County Board of Education, no commissions will be issued to trustees who are re-appointed, but they will hold over. Only where changes are made will commissions be issued. Do not think you have been dropped because you received no commission.

We received a pleasant call from our old friend Prof. J. F. Entzinger, this week. "Jimmie" has finished his collegiate course, and is looking out for a situation. Any of our schools would do well to secure his services as teacher.

The manner of the teacher has much to do with his influence over the pupils. The teacher cannot afford to appear indifferent. He can indicate in a slight but intelligible way his disapproval, similarly he can manifest approval. If the manner only shows composure, earnestness, energy in reserve and decision, the pupils will give more heed to the personality from which it emanates. In avoiding a demonstrative manner and also one expressive of unpleasant feelings or one tending to arouse antagonism or unresponsiveness, the teacher needs to be careful not to go to the opposite extreme.

The development of the public school idea in the Southern States involves difficulties not encountered in the West. In the South and in the East the old academy system had already been established, while the West was virgin soil. Transition from the old order to the new involved the uprooting of ideas and methods that had become fixed, and the abandonment of sacred memories that clustered about an institution that had nobly served the generations of a past civilization. In the Southern States the old academy and the private school system has been crippled, while the public school has made rapid strides forward. Even in its weakness the public school has sapped the strength and imbibed the vigor of the old academy. Both have suffered in many communities, while neither has been able to demonstrate its full power.

Below will be found a letter from the State Supt. of Education offering to furnish instructors for a teacher's institute to be held in this county at an early date. The offer has been accepted and we would urge upon all teachers the benefits to be derived from a few days spent at the institute. You cannot expect to be successful in your profession if you fail to use any of the opportunities afforded for improvement. No certificate can be renewed where an institute is held in the county and a teacher fails to attend. This will be held for your benefit; come one, come all!

Columbia, S. C., June 15, '97. County Supt. Education, Dear Sir:—If I find I can cover all the expenses of a one week teachers' institute, except advertising and board of the instructors, will you advertise and entertain the institute instructors—not more than three? If so, and I find I can do it, I will fix the time and let you know at once. Please answer at once. Yours truly, W. D. Mayfield, State Supt. Education.

From Our Correspondents.

Pisgah. Summer is fast passing by, crops are doing well and General Green is marching his forces against us fast and with his whole army, but let us fight him hard and try to come out more than conquerors so that we can come to the Chronicle picnic on the third day of July with a smile. We will have the pleasure of meeting many whose faces we saw there a year ago.

A very sad accident occurred here last Friday in the death of Mr. C. J. Ives, a gentleman who has been a citizen here for many years. His horse ran away and threw him from his buggy killing him instantly. He left his home in the morning to go to Croft's Mill. He reached there alright but the horse got frightened at the sight of the mill and ran away with the above results. The funeral was conducted by Revs. J. N. Entzinger and T. W. Munnerlyn and the body laid to rest in the family burying ground in sight of his home. Mr. Ives leaves a large family to mourn his death to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathies. J. L. G.

Antioch. Mr. Editor:—Please allow me a little space in your valuable paper. As this is my first attempt to write to the paper, you may not expect much, although I will give you a few dots.

We have been having a good deal of rain in this section recently.

Crops are moderately good and have a green look. Laying by time is now at hand.

We are sorry to hear through The Chronicle of the death of Mr.

Thin, Pale Children

One satisfaction in giving Scott's Emulsion to children is they never object to it. The fact is, they soon become fond of it. Another satisfaction is because it will make them plump, and give them growth and prosperity. It should be given to all children who are too thin, or too pale. It does not make them over-fat, but plump. It strengthens the digestive organs and the nerves, and furnishes material for rich blood. We have a book telling you more on the subject. Sent free for the asking. SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve cures insomnia. Sleeplessness, fear of imaginary danger or disaster, worry and trouble over insignificant trifles, irritability, loss of strength and vigor, each or all indicate nervous prostration, which can be prevented or cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve.

That ominous dead pain at the base of the brain, those frequent recurring attacks of headache, nausea, dyspepsia; may be permanently cured by Dr. Miles' Nerve. It restores deranged nerve centers of the brain to their normal condition, builds up the exhausted worn-out nerve tissue, gives strength, brings good health and clear-headedness.

HON. W. H. ANDERSON, Cedar Keys, Fla., writes June 18, '96: "I take great pleasure in adding my tribute to the merit of Dr. Miles' great remedy, Restorative Nerve. Two years ago I had a severe attack of LaGrippe; my recovery was slow, and I was left in a very weak, prostrated condition. My nervous system seemed completely broken up. I suffered for months with insomnia, unable to sleep day or night, though utterly worn out for want of sleep. I fell off in weight from 115 to 118 lbs. I felt that my mind or body, or both, must soon give way under the strain as no remedy seemed to do me any good. My wife was in a drug store one day discussing my condition and the druggist gave her a sample bottle of the Nerve. She persuaded me to take it and that small vial gave me the first refreshing sleep I had had in four months. I continued the remedy and it acted like a charm. My sleep was natural and refreshing, my appetite good, and in a short time I regained my usual weight, strength and health and have had no trouble since. My restoration to health, I attribute solely to Dr. Miles' Nerve, as I used no other remedy after beginning to use it. I feel it a duty to make this public as I believe Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve a boon to suffering humanity."

Contrast the above with the following extract from the editorial in the Chicago Evening Journal, Sept. 23, 1896, on the death of Edson Keith. "From insomnia to nervous prostration is a short stage, and from nervous prostration to conditions and symptoms akin to those of insanity is a shorter one. This is a sufficient explanation of the causes that led to the lamentable death by suicide of Edson Keith."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee. First bottle benefits or money will be refunded. Book on heart and nerves sent free to all applicants. Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
