Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. For ten days, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts per bottle at F. Leslie Zemp's Drug Store.

New Era Institute.

There will be held at the Mt. Moriah Baptist Church a New Era Institute, beginning Monday morning, October 3rd, at 11 o'clock and continuing until Wednesday night 5th. Lectures will be given upon subjects of Theology, Church History, Christian Missions, Christian Education, etc.

Rev. H. C. Buckholz, of Chester, Rev. A. T. Jamison and T. J. Williams, of Camden, and Prof. Jno. R. Wilson of Columbia will be among the lecturers.

Monday night Rev. T. J. Williams will lecture on the subject: Faith a condition of Salvation.

Tuesday at 4 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. Rev. H. C. Buckholz will lecture on the subject: Delivery of Sermons and the Missionary Work of Judson, Carey, Clough, and the "Lone Star Mission," respectively.

Wednesday evening at 8:30 Rev. A. T. Jamison will lecture on the subject: "Spread of Protestantism from 1517."

The public is invited to attend these lectures. The entire service will be interesting and all who may attend will be highly benefited.

J. W. Boykin, Dist. Missionary.

Attend This Entertainment.

A very interesting entertainment will be given by the Epworth League of Beulah Church on Friday, Oct. 7th, beginning at eight o'clock at night. This entertainment will be at the residence of Mr. Charles N. Humphreys, and for the purpose of securing a circulating library.

All ladies who are willing to contribute a small basket containing lunch sufficient for two people—to be auctioneered off for the benefit of this worthy object are invited to attend. The ladies who contribute baskets are allowed to invite as many gentlemen as they desire. Surely our excellent ladies will contribute scores of baskets.

Among the other attractions will be an address by Capt. M. L. Smith on "the benefits of a circulating library to a rural community," recited by Miss Ida Vaughan, and an address by Dr. J. Thos. Fete on "the benefit of an Epworth League to a Church."

There will also be good music rendered.

The distance from Camden to the place where the entertainment will be given is only four miles. The shortest of the distance ought to be a suppliant's big crowd from our town.

Death of Mr. Leslie McCandless.

As we travel the rough, rugged and ever changing pathway of life it is sometimes vouchsafed to us to meet with one whose brilliancy of intellect challenges our admiration, one whose sterling honesty coupled with a kind, gentle, tender heart in vokes our highest esteem and deep affection. Such a one was Mr. Leslie McCandless, whose spirit on the morning of the 27th, inst., left its frail tenement of clay to be forever at rest beyond the grim river of Death.

For over fifty years in seasons of prosperity and depression, of gladness and of sorrow the deceased has been identified with this community.

Undoubtedly he was possessed of wonderful gifts. In the form of fortunate few, if any, would have equaled him, had he so chosen. As a writer no citizen of Camden has ever compared with him in ease, grace and elegance of diction. His prose compositions reminded one of an Addison or Steele, and some of his poems are rare gems even among the priceless treasures to be found in the realms of poetry.

It was not his choice to thrill with his eloquence the heart of a great people, nor to leave to posterity a rich legacy of his genius in many and varied writings. He cared not for the applause of the idle populace, and he never learned

"To croak the pregnant hinges of the knee,
That might follow fawning."

His independence was over a distinguishing feature of his strong character.

He chose as his profession that of teaching, and in the school room the strength of his manhood, and the wisdom of his old age. Men whose hairs are silvered, men in the prime of manhood and in the warm flush of hopeful youth, all went to school to Mr. Me, and those sweet, gentle, tender emotions and sentiments which cluster around our school boy days are indissolubly interwoven with one central figure, who while he ever dominated from his pupils unquestioning obedience as well as honest work, was yet ever just to all and most encouraging to the deserving.

He lived seventy-nine years and from early manhood went in and out amongst us a simple, honest, God-fearing man.

He leaves surviving him three sons and three daughters, to whom we extend our hearty sympathies.

We cannot leave the now sad but pleasing picture of his life, which has not only left an impress for good on this community never to be erased until time itself shall end, but has been felt throughout the length and breadth of this state when his pupils as statesmen, heroes and orators re-acted high credit on their great preceptor; we cannot leave the picture without mentioning an attribute of his character which was his Christlike. We allude to his boundless generosity. He was instantly touched by the grief or sorrow of a fellow mortal, and he would ever for get himself in alleviating the distresses of others. In the face of what he conceived to be human misery, he forgot his wisdom and was ready to give his all. Measured by the standards of this world his unlimiting charity may have been unwise, and yet it was Godlike, and proved indisputably that he was what he professed to be—a follower of the great Galilean who died that man might live.

No more in our midst shall we see the familiar form of Mr. Me, no more hearken to his kindly voice, or clap his honest hand. Farewell—a long farewell to our teacher and our kind and generous friend. Nothing so well expresses what we would say as the following beautiful lines written by Mr. McCandless:

"Passing away! tell me whither away,
Oh where's that mysterious road,
To which when it bursts its frail house of clay,
Speels onward the swift winged soul?
Some glorious orb which eyes cannot see,
Beyond the bright Heavens that lie;
Oh there the abodes of the blessed must be,
Where the spirits that leave us all fly.
To that best abode thy spirit hath fled,
Where flowers of Neponthe are strown;
On bright river banks, whose waters are
By sweet streams that flow from God's throne.

A Friend.

He who stabs you in the back with a pen would do the same with a pen knife, were he equally safe from detection and the law.—Ex.

Married.

On Sunday evening last by Notary Public E. J. Lewis, Mr. Sumter Josey and Miss Dora May. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Mr. Anguish. Outlaw about one mile east of Camden, and the groom is from Sumter Co.

Sunday, September 25th, Mr. Joseph R. Gardner, of Burlington, and Miss Mamie Arrants, of Lee Co., were made one in the holy bonds of matrimony. They came to the Antioch parsonage and took the preacher on surprise. But they came in fine spirits and went on their way rejoicing. We wish them a long and happy life with big pleasure and lit the troubles.

Personal.

Messrs. Kershaw DuBose and W. lie Young, who some time ago enlisted in the war with Spain, the war being over, have returned home.

Mr. J. E. Davis left this week for Furman University where he will attend school. Mr. Walter Lowry also left this week for Furman University.

The many friends of Mr. Robt. Team are glad to see him able to be out on the street again.

Mr. Alfred Kennedy left this week for Columbia where he will attend the S. C. College.

Mr. Robin Zemp left last week to take a course in chemistry in Baltimore.

Deaths.

Mr. Eli M. Lee, of the Mt. Zion neighborhood passed away on last Sunday night at 12:30 o'clock after an illness of one week. He leaves a wife, several children, one sister, several brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his absence. Mr. Lee was 47 years old and had been a member of Antioch church for 18 or 20 years. Thus ends the life of a good citizen, a good church member, an affectionate husband and a kind father. To the sorrow struck on wife, children and brothers we extend our heartfelt sympathies and ask God to care for and provide for the widowed mother and orphaned children. The informant took place at Antioch church. His Pastor, Mr. Samuel Gilliland, an old and highly respected citizen of Camden, died very suddenly at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. W. E. Elletts, on Sunday last. He was up and ate his usual breakfast that morning, and about an hour afterwards, while walking in the garden, was taken suddenly ill and died in a very short time. His death was caused from a stroke of apoplexy—Hagood cor. Columbia State.

Conscience is the voice of the soul; the passions are the voice of the body.
