A very pretty little hanging rack, made of silver wire in ornamental filigree shape, with little hooks of bent wire, closely resembles a hatrack in miniature. But this is not a doll arrangement for hats, only a dainty adjunct to the embroidery table. On each little hook hangs still another uliver wire arrangement, bent into a four-leaved rosette and intended to hold embroidery silks. The silks to be used in any one special design may he wound upon these silk holders and hung on the rack conveniently near the embroidery frame. This smooth silver wire may not be as claborate as the heavily chased or all filigree sill: holders, but they are better for the slik, do not fray them, and the pretty little rack keeps them together and free from the dirt about the table.

The Southern Field, an excellen monthly publication of the land and industrial department of the Southern Cailway, shows how rapid has been the development of the tobacco industry in this State. While the annual sales of leaf in Virginia are 135,000,000 pounds and in North Carolina about 125,000,000 pounds, South Carolina sales amount to 41,500,000 pounds. North Carolina's production has doubled in ten years, but of South Carolina's tobacco industry practically all is the growth of the ame period. This State is set down as having six markets, 10 warehouses Ayep's and 45 buyers, against 34, 87 and 330 espectively in North Carolina, so it is tear that our markets average a much larger business. "If the legislature picces the dispen-sary in the hands of the State officials, I shall resign." This remark was made half seriously and half jestrogly by Governor Ellet be the other day. There has been much talk of changing the method of electing a board of control, and one of the measures proposed is that the executive and judicial officers of the State government couldinate a board of control. The governor ex reform was instituted five years ago with plained the above quoted remark by saying that he would not, of course shirk any duty, but he did not think it proper to devote this work wpon the governor, and he didn't want this added responsibility, as the cares of the gubernatorial effice was enough vernet, and he didn't want this tions, so far as clear money is concerned, in the history of the institution.
