Westes of Animal Life in Africa. Although in some particulars oxen show undoubted intelligence, in many ways they are great fools. Thus they seem to have no knowledge of what is or is not good for them to eat. In Natal there grows an herb called 'tulip," which is almost certain death to cattle, a fact with wheh they must have been acquainted for generations. Yet they seem to eat it greedily whenever they get a chance. Once I lost twenty valuable trek exen from this cause alone. This and the tale of the horse sickness, to say nothing of the Fecent record of rindermest, will show the reader that farming in Africa is not without its risks. Indeed, I know no country where the waste of animal life is so tremendous, although doubt less as the land becomes inclosed and proper buildings and winter food are provided, it will greatly lesson, -1.ongman's Magazine.

I don't pretend to account for it, except upon the general principle that each person has some besetting weakness, but I have known of several during my life that seemed determined to testify in every case out of the usual run. I formerly did a large criminal business, and there was one old chap that we'll call Rube, who did little but serve as a witness. I came to expect him whenever I had a hard case to fight, and I can't recall that he ever disappointed me. Rube seemed to be omnipresent. No matter whether it was a shooting affray on the west side or a cutting affray on the east side. Rube was sure to know something about it; or at least claim that he did. And he never put himself in a position to be attacked for perjury, except upon the vagu ground of improbability. On one occasion it became of vital importance for me to prove that a pistol shot was fired before midpight instead of after I was in despair over the matter, when in walked Rube one afternoon and volunteered the desired testimony, though I had never mentioned my dilemma to any one. His story was straight as a gun barrel and the other side made a fruitless effort to entangle him. Whether a knave or not, he was

Docomotor Ataxia Paralysis Can be Cured.

These extreme nervous disorders were treated with wonderful success by the discoverer of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People previous to his discovery being offer. ed to the public generally. This remedy is the enty known specific in many diseases that until recent years were pronounced incurable. Here is the proof:

James Crocket, a sturdy old Scotchman living in Detroit, Mich, at 88 Montcalm St., was cured of Locomotor Ataxia by these pills. For many years he has been a chief engineer of one of those big passenger palace steamers plying upon the great lakes. This is a position of great responsibility and the anxiety causes a great nervous strain. Mr. Crocket eays: "For infteen years I watched the big engines and boilers without a slugle accident, and only noticed that I was getting nervous. Suddenly without warning I was taken sick, and was prostrated. I had the best of physicians but grew gradually worse. At a council of doctors, they said I had nervous prostration, and had destroyed my whole nervous system and would never recover. For three years I was unable to move from my bed. The doctor said I had locomotor ataxis, and would never be able to walk again.

The doctor said I had locomotor and als, and whose sears are almost again.

"The pains and suffering I experienced during those years are almost indescribable. The friends that came to see me bid me good-bye when they left me and I was given up. The doctors said nothing more could be done. My wife kept reading to me, articles about Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People. We finally decided to try them. The first box gave me relief. I continued to use them for about two years before I could get strength enough to walk. I sim nearly seventy-five years old and there is not a man in this city that can kick higher of walk further than I can and to-day I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for they saved my life."—Detroit Rosning News.
