Death of Mr. Herman Baum

19

Another representative citizen of Camden has passed away. At twelve o'clock Tuesday night, Mr. Herman Brum died of heart disease. Although threatened for several days with-vertigo-it was not thought that his health was any more than usual. He was apparently all right Tuesday until 130 at night when he complaind of feeling unwell and retired. And at eleven his condition hecame alarming and physicians were summoned, but so rapid was his death that when the first physician reached him he was past all hope and died in a few minutes.
