After careful investigation during a period of twelve months, it was found that dust and mud had wholly disappeared and the cost of maintenance had been reduced. The tar forms an clas tic skin, which deadens the sound of trame and reduces the resistance. If appears that the tarring method i. volves no greater outlay than that for coating with oil.

Long Confined as Leper.

'A remarkable story which has lately attracted great sympathy in(Cape Colony, is that of a man named Apros kie, who, after having been confined on Robben Island for eight years as a person suspected of having leprosy was recently allowed to return to hi: family as non-afflicted. He was formerly a shipwrecked sailor who took a farm at the Cape, married and prospered exceedingly. Mosquito bites were mistaken for leprosy by a fieldcornet, who sent him to Robben Island. He returned home broken i spirit and financially ruined, his property having been sold for the upkcop of his children.

William Williams, a farmer living south of Avilla, near this city, has a cat that nurses a litter of squirrels Four young fox squirrels were taken to the house recently from the nest where they were found, although the family cat had a litter of kittons, she 'exhibits motherly fondness for the squirrels, and makes regular trips back and forth from the house to the barn, and licks and nurses the squirdels as tenderly as she does her kittens.

Bugs Pressed Into Cakes.

That questionable epicurean tidbit, the snail, has a rival in Mexico in a species of bugs known popularly as "water boatmen." These aquatic insects are gathered in largy numoers on the large lakes near the cit of Mexico, and when dried are much prized as an article of diet by the natives. The immense numbers in which they are found on these lakes is indicated by the fact that they are now being gathered extensively for export, for use as bird and fish foods, at a price of less than 10 cents a pound. A food much relished by trout is made by passing the dry "water boatmen" through a coffee mill. grinding them as finely as desired. after which scalding water is poured over them to soften them. They are then mixed with 20 per cent, of mush, producing what is stated by the Bureau of Fisheries to be the best food for small fish that has been discovered during their many years of experience in this line of work. Caged birds, it is asserted, are equally fond of this aquatic tid-bit.

AWFUL WRECK

WRECK OCCURRED ON SEABOARD

No. 41, En Route to Atlanta, Encountered Sinking Bridge Early Friday Morning--Rails on One Side Widen and the Entire Train Plunged Down Into a Ravine.

Catawba Junction S. C., Special-Five dead and several in a dying condition is the result of the catastrophe which took place at six minutes past 'clock Friday morning, when the Sea board passenger train No. 41 sper across a sinking bridge 300 yards south of the Catawba river and two miles from Catawba Junction, and ther blunged from the tracks down a stell embankment about 30 feet high, only to be followed by an extra freight engine, No. 654, with a caboose attached mingling the two flyers in a mass of wood, steel and iron with about 46 pleces of human cargo. There was not a single soul among them that escaped unburt.

It was said by trainmen of long experfence that a more complete demol ishment of railroad equipment could scarcely be imagined. So thoroughly ruined were the engines and the coach s that the trainmen were on the point of setting fire to the debris, but the authorities of York county stopped them. The scene at the bridge beggars description. The engines lie over turned-huge, shapeless monsters of fron, with their helmet-shaped sand boxes and other parts scattered within a radius of 100 feet. The coaches are like crushed wooden shells, with their red plush seats in indescribable confuion, trucks, wrenched loose from th softom of the cars, are scattered cound: about the only part or parcel of the railroad equipment remaining intact are the two red lanterns swing lug from the rear of the Pullman.

There were many theories advance sito the cause of the accident. The ulroad men fell in line with the opinon of Mr. George S. Fitzwater, chief steetlye of the Seaboard Air Line, that he collapse of the bridge and the tearag loose of the right hand rails, were he result of the work of some mall aus person or persons. Mr. Fitzwater towed six spikes and several anglebars which he picked up fiear the wrack end said that they bore the marks of aving been tampered with. Upon this beory, it was concluded that the paseager train had struck weakened spots the lower half of the bridge. A speed f 40 miles an hour had enabled the rain to carry itself almost over the aking structure, but the rails dened; the Pullman, which did not aite clear the chasm, acted as a drawthe engine careened, tearing from their fastenings the rails on the right hand side going south, causing he train to be hurled over the embankment. What motive there could be for anyone to bring about such slaughter, and who the guilty persons might se, weither Mr. Fitzwater, nor the other railcord men attempted to explain. A close examination of the rails, ties, road-bed and bridge was not productive of much light on the subject; all appeared to be sound and solid. The rails on the side where the train toppled to destruction were twisted to an are shape. The track is not in a curve in the vicinity; it stretches straightway for perhaps a mile.

Mail Carried by Reindeer Team. The capacity of the reindeer for team work is remarkable. His hoofs are very broad and do not penetrate the snow crusts. His average weight is about 400 pounds. He will swiftly draw a sled carrying 600 pounds, and with this load can cover thirty, fifty and even ninety miles a day. The reindeer teams now carry the mails from Kotzebue to Point Barrow, a distance of 650 miles-the most northerly post route in the world. No food is carried for the deer. At the end of his journey, or at any stopping place, he is turned loose, and at once breaks through the snow to the white moss, which serves as food. It costs nothing to feed him As the white ettlements increase in the mineral bearing parts of Alaska, and in many places remote from rallway and steamboat transportation, the reindeer express will be one of the most important factors in territorial life.
