CAMDEN, S. C., SEPT. 28, 1906

Let There Be Peace.

The following timely and very sensible article from C. L. Jones of North Augusta appeared in a recent issue of The State, and we commend it to the earnest consideration of all:

Now that the smoke of the battle of the ballots has cleared away, let every man in South Carolina work to make this great State of ours a greater State. While many things have been said, done and written in the heat of the campaign that could and should have been left off, suppose we just all agree that there were men who advocated the State dispensary as the best solution of the whiskey question who were perfectly honest in their convictions; also the men who advocated county dispensaries are perfectly honest in their conviction; just so is the man who thinks both plans wrong and advocates high license; and also the man who believes all the plans wrong and stands squarely for a prohibition law.

All these have their honest followers, and why should we keep up the fight? Let each true man in South Carolina stand for his principle, but by all means let all of us stand for our State and her interest and let's forget the things of the past and push forward for higher and nobler things in the future than many of us have in the past, and the time will yet come when no one can point the finger of scorn at South Carolina nor her leaders.

Blaney Dots.

Editor Chronicle:—I wish to have a little space in your valuable paper.

The farmers in this section are getting along very slowly gathering crops on account of so much rain. Storms have damaged the cotton very much. Labor is very scarce in this section. Corn and potatoes are very good but peas are sorry.

Our town is booming. We have a few cotton buyers here. The graded school building at this place is about completed. Our Sunday School is improving greatly. We have preaching every second and fourth Sunday conducted by Rev. Chestman.

Miss Janie Wood is home on a vacation of two weeks. She has been very ill recently. We hope she will be able to take her position again. Reporter.

Notice To The Sub-Alliances In Kershaw County.

Having been selected County Trustee for the different Alliances for this County who held stock in the State Alliance Exchange, I am now ready to pay out the money that the various Alliances in this County put in as Stock in this State Alliance Exchange, and all of the Sub-Alliances who have Certificates of Stock taken in the State Alliance Exchange can get their proportionate share of same by calling on me. Those Sub-Alliances that failed to get a Certificate of Stock on account of not paying in all of the installments are requested to establish their claim before me of the amount paid in and they will be back their proportionate amount paid in.
