Resolutions of Respect.
At a meeting of the cemetery Association of Camden held April 29th, the following resolutions of respect were adopted:
Whereas since our last meeting one of our Executive Committee has passed from earth to the rest that remaineth to the people of God, be it resolved,
1st. That in the death of our beloved friend and co-worker, Mrs. Mary M. Young, we have lost a faithful, zealous member, one who was ever ready with helping hand and loving heart to assist in all the affairs of this Association.
2nd. That though we cannot understand the mysterious Providence which takes from us this useful member, still we must bow in submission to an all-wise God, believing that "He doeth all things well."
3rd. That we will cherish her memory in our hearts with loving remembrance, and strive to imitate her many virtues.
4th. That we dedicate a page in our minute book as a memorial to her, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, and also to the Camden papers for publication.

PERSONAL.
Gen. J. Walker Floyd is in town. The many friends of Mr. W. J. Jones will be sorry to learn that he is seriously ill.

Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Mitchell and daughter, Miss Anna, left yesterday for Richmond, where they will be in attendance upon the general Baptist Convention. From there they will go to their summer home at Rhinebeck on the Hudson, where Mrs. Mitchell and Miss Anna will spend the summer. Mr. Mitchell will return in about two weeks and resume his pastoral work and building the new church, of which the latter is playing no small part with him just now.

Your attention is directed to the advertisement of Winthrop College in another column.

A Bright and Beautiful "Clover Chain."
Many of the little girls and boys were made happy last week by receiving the following invitation:
"Will you be a link in our clover chain Wednesday afternoon from 5 to 7."

Nancy and Nettles Lindsay.
At 5.30 Mrs. Lindsay's pretty home represented a veritable "bee hive," with sixty bees on pleasure bent, and for the time "living in clover." They bound themselves together with the white chain of friendship, and the storm without did not mar their pleasure, nor cloud their happy faces. Master Nettles and Miss Nancy played the host and hostess to perfection—they knew how to welcome the coming and speed the parting guests. After the storm had cleared, and all had been served with ice cream and cake, so dear to every childish heart, they went on their way rejoicing. The boys were handsome and gallant, the girls dainty and pretty, with their sunny brows crowned with white clover blossoms, which in the years to come will be a happy reminder of childhood's innocent pleasures.

The Reunion.
The State Reunion of Confederate Veterans held in Columbia this week has been the most largely attended of any that has yet been held. The State appropriation of $3,500 seems to have created the impression that more would be done for the entertainment of the Veterans than has been heretofore, but those who expected it were disappointed. Possibly the coming of 3,000 visitors to a city of even Columbia's well known hospitality would be a tax upon it. Certain it is that the arrangements were not as complete for the entertainment of the Veterans as they had been led to expect. There were very few decorations, and the lunch room which has heretofore been a conspicuous feature of the Reunions, was conspicuous by its absence. We heard one old Veteran, who had had a very early breakfast and was anxious for a cup of coffee and a sandwich, inquire of a bystander "where is the lunch room?" He replied "there is no lunch room, and you'll find a good many things advertised that they haven't got." And so he found to his cost, for when he could no longer stand the pangs of hunger and went to the dinner hall, he found he could not be accommodated and was forced to go to a hotel and pay for his dinner. Doubtless many others did the same. But a large number of them were cared for and had a good time.

The reception given the Veterans by the children of the city schools was one of the most enjoyable features of the occasion. A hundred little girls in white dresses and red ribbons filled the stage of the Opera House which was packed to its utmost capacity. The way those children marched and countermarched and kept perfect time to the music of the orchestra, showed that a master hand was in training. As they gave patriotic recitations and sang "Fencing on the old Camp Ground," "Fencing on the old Camp Ground," many an old Veteran could be seen wiping his eyes, but when they burst forth in the ever inspiring strains of Dixie, enthusiasm knew no bounds and the walls resounded to the echo with the "rebel yell." The war drama, "For her country's sake," was given to a packed house on Wednesday night and was enthusiastically received. The parade on Thursday was largely attended though many hundreds left the city on Wednesday night. We did not have the pleasure of attending the sponsors' reception, but we have been informed by one who was there, that the feature of the occasion was the address of Miss Grace Lumpkin, the young daughter of that gallant soldier and unconquered rebel Maj. W. W. Lumpkin, and sister of Miss Elizabeth Lumpkin (now Mrs. Glenn) so well and lovingly known to the Veterans of the entire South. Though but a child in years, petite and graceful in figure, Miss Grace possesses in an unusual degree the gift of oratory, and bids fair to wear gracefully the mantle of her lovely, talented sister. Altogether the Reunion was a success and should be perpetuated as long as there are two left to meet together and talk over the stirring events of '61-'65. We cannot do too much to honor those who did so much for us.
