Everything in Proportion.

For many weeks the irritable merchant had been riveted to his bed by typhoid fever. Now he was convalescing. He clamored for something to eat, declaring that he was starving.

"Tomorrow you may have something to eat," promised the doctor. The merchant realized that there would be a restraint to his appetite. yet he saw, in his vision, a modest steaming meal placed at his bedside.

"Here is your dinner." said the nurse next ('ay, as she gave the glow. ering patient a spoonful of taploca pudding, "and the doctor emphasizes that everything else you do must be in the same proportion." Two hours later the nurse heard frantic call from the bed chamber. "Nurse," breathed the man, heav ily, "I want to do some reading: bring a postage stamp."-Harper's

Our Restaurants.

It is a puzzle to me that, native Americans are, as a rule, unsuccessful in the conduct of restaurants, cabarets, posadas, inns and other eating-houses. It seems that we must forever depend on the Frenchman, the Hungarian, the German, the Itallan or the Syran, and now and then the Spanlard, for good meals a la carte or table d'hote at a reasonable price. Once in a while the Irish come to the front and are amazingly successful. I suppose there is a knack in the business which Americans have not acquired .- New York Press.
