Den't Doubt.

When Joing Dr. Metle D' Aubigne was a student at Kiel, he was oppressed with doubts, and went to Klenken an old experienced teacher for help. The old tean refused to answer them, saying, "Were I to rid yea of these others would come. There is a shorter way of destroying them. Let Christ be to you really the Son of God, the Saviour, and his Jight will dispel the darkness and his spirit lend you into all truth."

A BIG COTTON CONVENTION

To Be Held in New Orleans Beginning November 11th

PRESENT PRICES ARE TOO LOW

Meeting Called to Plan for Better Prices for the South's Great Sta-

Union City, Ga., Special.-Char. s S. Barrett, national president of the Farmers' Union, has issued the following statement regarding the industrial congress he has called to meet at New Orleans, November 11th, for the purpose of formulating a eam palgn for advancing the price of cotton in the south:

"As the executive head of an organization of more than 2,000,000 farmers in the gouthern states, conrolling approximately 60 per cent of the cotton grown in the United States, I feel that is incumbent upon me to take the initiative in practical steps looking to stopping the lawnward trend of the price for this staple, and restoring it to a figure warranted by the cost of its producor and its value to civilization.

"It is needless for me to state that the prosperity of every business interest between Mason and Dixon's line and the Rio Grande river is largely dependent upon the return the cotfor erep is bringing to this section.

"A perper return for cotton means prosperity to the farmer, the country and town merchant, the city business man, the manufacturer, the wageworker, the salary-earner, every railread and corporation in the southern

"Today apot cotton is selling in pound liss than one year ago. In bales ginned for 1907; 4,931,621 for many instances, this means that the 1906; 4.990,566 for 1905, and 6,417,p.o ucer is called upon to dispose of , 894 for 1904. The number of active is output below cost.

"If this price-level prevails throughout the sellong season of 1908.9, the south will sustain a loss quiteaching $150,000,000. "The significance of such a develpment would be sluggishness in very sombern commercial circle contrictical of a energ in every business, a s'oppage of construction and develphoent in each direction, and a failure to recuperate from the panie of lest tall as rapidly as we have a right to expect.

"There is no logical or necessary tenson for this slamp in the price of cotton. The output of the south will be infinitely smaller than last year, Whole prices ranged to a higher level. Anothern and European spinners admit that they expect to book the sual volume of advance orders at the prices obtaining in 1907.

. The sole excuse now standing between fair prices and the south's cotton, is the belief of spinners that they will be able to obtain the staple at their own figure. In this belief they have been sided by exchange unn pulaters, whose efforts have been to show that the cotton belt would wake a tecord-breaking yield. As a warre of fact, we who are in most and, to teach with the situation tion there is not the slightest greated for such an opinion.

"The members of the Farmers inco. as I have said, control in the migl berhood of 60 per cent of the scurb's simple crop.

"With the co-operation of the busties interests, large and small, of very southern state, they will underalso to seeme for this ercp its inthis is value in the markets of the

"I will be glad to receive notice from parties, as well as suggestions for promoting this universal movement, unprecedented in scope and vital importance in the history of the south.

"Bear in mind that the moment the south makes it evident at New Orleans that it intends to work in concert for a just price for cotton the price for that staple will begin to mount and that it will not stop short of an equitable level, corresponding to the laws of supply and demand. HAINES WILL PLEAD INSANITY

Capt. Peter C. Hains Will Plead That He Was Temporarily Insane When He Killed William E. Annis Demurrer of Denfense Overruled-Date For Trial to Be Set Monday.

New York, Special.—Temporary in-sanity will be the defense of Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., United States army, who killed William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht Club's landing last August.

In the Supreme Court at Flushing, L. I., Judge Garretson overruled the demurrer entered by counsel for the defense in the case of Thornton Jenkins Hains, brother of the captain, which set up the claim that the indietment was defective in that it charged Jenkins Hains both as principal and accessory before the fact. Jenkins Hains was then called to the bar and pleaded to the indistment not guilty. J. F. McIntyre, of counsel for the defense, entered a plea of not guilty for Captain Hains, on the ground that at the fime of the killing of Annis, Captain Hains was insane. District Attorney Darrin offered no objection to the plea so that the court could set a date for the be-ginning of the trial. This Judge Garretson said he preferred to leave to the judge who would preside at the November term of the court.

Mr. Darrin announced that he will go before the Supreme Court at Flushing next Monday and ask that the trial of Thornton Jenkins Hains be set for November.

He said it has not yet been deftnitely decided whether or not Mrs. Hains shall be called as a witness for the prosecution at the trial.

THE LAW OF HABIT.

That which has been done once is easier done the second time. Repetition is the only basis of perfection. Patient continuance in well-doing conducts by a straight path to glory, bonor and immortality.

Since 1874 I have been a steady student of the law of habit—I had well-nigh said the law of fate. I have seen it slowly, gentlly, imperceptibly, wrap men round and round in its close winding sheet, as if they were Egyptian mummies. So quietly was all this done that they never knew their bondage until the first faint movement toward a better life, when, behold, their helplessness re- principles and improved methods in called the Indian tortured hunter perpendicularly planted in the seen in the "Shrp Shave" razor, which ground with earth packed around is sent postpaid for twenty five cents him even to the lips. A miracle of faith has rescued some of these, but a study of years compels the admission that not more than five in one hundred inebriates, gamblers or libertimes are ever permanently reformed. The thoughtless boy, eigar in mouth playing cards "just for fun," and a little later with a glass of beer as the stake, hiding all these things from his mother, saying to himself, 'I'll quit this after a while, but I want to sow my wild oats," the idle spendthrift youth with fondness only for the vile company where his worst passions can be gratified; the besotted man, sold under sin, accursed of God and his own conscience and his fellowmen-these are the piteous object lessons that have faught me the supreme power of habit over human destiny. But I saw that the tendency to repeat the same act, and the great er ease with which this is done the second time than the first, and the third time than the second, is the key to paradise as well as to pandemonium. I saw the slow, unerring. unfailing plan of God, by which our habits may become our stepladder to saintship. And I said to my own heart in the presence of many a bloated inebriate, what I now whisper to you: "No evil habit, however small, shall have dominion over me.' -Francis E. Willard

THE COUNTRY PRESS.

One of the finest tributes to the country newspaper that has ever been rendered was contained in a recent address by Senator Chauncey M. Depew before the New York Press Association. Mr. Depew said: "I pay my respects to and express my admiration for the country editor. His lines are not east in the places of the great and profitable organs of the metropolis, whose profits are reckoned often by the hundreds of thousands of dollars every year. But the country editor lives in and is part of the community. His virtue is not so much what he prints as in what he refuses o print.
