There seems to be no higher law in the Moral Realm than the Law of Duty, except it by the law of love and they do not conflict. When one does his duty he has also fulfilled the law of love; so we find the law of duty supreme. Perhaps few men have yielded perfect obedience to this supreme law, but the noblest characters in this world are those and women, in whatever walk of life, who are conscientiously trying to de their duty in their sphere of life regardless of what others may

If, when the shadows gather around you at the close of the day, you can took to God and say, "I have sincerely tried to do my duty today' you can lay yourself down on your couch and sleep with no regrets to haunt you in your dreams.

The young man who starts out in life with a purpose to do his duty in all things has made the first step toward success. No man can fail who does his duty. It is not always the popular thing to do ones duty; but to have the consciousness of right is better than the applause of a fickle minded public, and he who would be honest because "honesty is the best policy" would be dishonest if he thought it would be better policy. But to do ones duty, and be honest when policy dictates otherwise requires courage and a strength of character, that you do not find in everyone you meet. Some men are influenced more by public opinion than they are by the vioce of duty within; but public opinion is fickle; it may be one thing today and entirely a different thing tomorrow; but the voice of duty is ever the same. . The public that applauds, today may condemn the same act tomorrow. The public may think they know what your duty is better than you do yourself, and may dictate to day to find tomorrow that they

The man who regards it right while in Rome "to do as Rome does" would steal if it were popular; but duty fully accepted and faithfully met will raise a man above everything that is mean and selfish and impure, and make him feel that he always has something great and glorious and good to live for.

What the world needs today most, is men who regard duty above every thing, men who will dare to do their duty regardless of what the consequences may be; and the men and women whose lives are counting for something in the world are those who care not whether men are standing by to praise or to blame, but who are going fearlessly ahead in the discharge of duty. It will doubtless be helpful to have the advice and encouragement of friends, but after all it is left largely for every man to determine for himself what is his duty in regard to his course of action.

Men often think that if they were laced in positions of great responsibility and trust they would do their duty; but until a man has schooled himself to do his duty in the little to risk him where the responsibilities are great. All men cannot become great, as the world counts greatness. but all can be good and true and honest, and do their duty in the common things that come in their life; and this is, after all, true greatness.

THE REAL FACTS ABOUT MRS. FINCHER

As Told by Herself, in a Letter Lately Received, Giving Particulars About Her Case.

Peavy, Ala .- "I had been troubled a little for about 7 years," writes Mrs. Ludie Fincher, of this place, "cut was not taken down, until March, 1907, when I went to bed and had to have the doctor.

"He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, even to my arms, so badly I could not rest. I had pains in my sides, back, bowels, shoulders and chest. I can't tell how I did suffer.

"At last I began to take Cardui, and I hadn't taken but half a bottle until I began to improve

"I continued to-take it until I had taken four bottles, and now I am in very good health and able to do all my housework."

You may wonder why this medicine is so successful in curing sick women, after other medicines have failed. The answer is not far to seek.

Cardui is successful, because it is composed of ingredients that act specifically on the womanly constitution. It is not a cure-all. It is a medicine for women and only for women. Its success is due to its merit.

Reducing the Sombrero.

The charro hat is doomed in the Territory of Tepic, and orders have been given by the prefecture of police that after January 31 all sombreros must not be larger than a certain prescribed size. This disposition of the authorities is due to the fact that the sombrero charro has become a veritable nuisance, some of them being almost three feet in width, and when three or four rancheros sit down in a restaurant there is scarce coom for anyone else. The edict, therefore, has gone forth that the wide sombrero is soon to be a memory of the past, and anyone caught wearing one larger than the prescribed size will be punished by the authorities .- Mexican Herald.

Stop Women And Consider

This Fact - that in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman -a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers twenty-five years.

The present Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, was for years under her direction, and has ever since her decease continued to advise women. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty causes them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. Such questioning and examination is unnecessary. Without cost you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

MRS. PINKHAM'S STANDING INVITATION:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established this confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Never has she published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which Mrs. Pinkham has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge needed in your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Mrs. Pinkham, care of Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
