

Mr. Kirkley's Split Log Drag.

We have received the following letter from Mr. D. M. Kirkley regarding his split log drag, which we publish with a great deal of pleasure. Mr. Kirkley is one of our best, most progressive and practical business men and we believe his drag is going to prove a success which will mean a revolution in road building in Kershaw County. We wish Mr. Kirkley abundant success and we believe that he is going to get it. The following is the letter:

Mr. Editor:—Since I had the Split Log Drag made to try on my section of road which has been published in several papers, I received a letter from Mr. Leonard Tufts of Pinehurst, N. C., president Capital Highway Association, asking me to write it up in my county papers which I will try to do. Since trying it I find it all O. K.—it works fine. I worked four miles of road in half a day with two mules and one hand, and I am well pleased with the work. It will do the work of a costly road machine, six mules and two hands. In other words it will do the work on the road at one third of the cost of the machine. We all want to see work done at the least possible cost. If our County Supervisor would have a few for each township the chain gang or road hands need never to go over the road any more after it is clayed. Just run this log over it about four times a year and you have a fine road at a very little cost. It is simple and easy to manage but requires some little time to learn how to run it to best advantage. I don't think our Supervisor will make any mistake in adopting this drag and using them on the roads; they make the roads harder and they will not cut up in wet weather nor dust so bad in dry weather. It will save the county several thousand dollars a year. Just as soon as the people get over the push of work I am going to work some of the roads around here with this machine to let the people see what it will do. Then you may hear from me again. Yours for good roads, D. M. Kirkley. Kershaw, S. C., June 18, 1910.

Again we urge the strict observance of this notice.
