Bethune Farmer Gives Good Advice About Cotton.

Edmor Chronicle—I will try to give a few dots from this community. Selling cotton is all the go and farmers are grumbling about the price. They say the price is too low, yet they are selling just the same. As far as I can see, it will pay the man who grows the cotton to keep it from the gin and not put it on the market at the present price. I was in town a few days ago and heard a farmer say he wanted to reorganize the Farmers' Union at that place, and at the same time had cotton on his wagon and asking the buyer to look at it and make him a price on it. The farmers have never been known to stick together, but now is the time to stick together if the price of cotton is to be 13 or 14 cents. Just leave it at home till the price is offered, and organize at every place where cotton is sold to hold it for 13 or 14 cents. Fellow farmers, we bought our guano at a high price; at the present price of cotton it will take the cotton and the seed to pay for it. Hold it back and sell it slow. I think the bulk of the crop is out through this section. Some farmers say they are about through picking. If this is true there is no bumper crop. Through this section it is about an average of last year.

Time to Pray.

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Presently every man, woman and child with one exception rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them and said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception, a care-worn, hungry-look individual, clothed in his last summer suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "you are the only man not able to meet his obligations?"

"I run a newspaper," he answered, meekly, "and the brethren here who stood up, are my subscribers, and—"

"Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.—EX.

Why Not Sleep Outdoors?

It seems strange that it took people so long to learn the pleasure and benefit of sleeping in the open air. Until very recent years sleeping porches were seldom seen. We shut ourselves up in stuffy rooms and sweated during the hot months, when by moving the beds a few feet in the open air we could sleep in comfort. The campaign of publicity to educate people on the benefit of fresh air as a preventive and cure for consumption led to the building of sleeping porches, and now most houses in cities, except in congested sections, have some sort of sleeping porches, and architects are incorporating such porches in planning good houses. The strange thing about this is that the movement should have started in the city rather than the country. To be sure, it is cooler in the country, but to balance this, the sleeping rooms are smaller in the country, the houses are less open, and the ventilation poorer. The sleeping porch can be added to the farm home. There is no trouble to secure privacy, for the next house is not within 20 feet. All that is needed is a roof, and last summer not even this was needed. We slept under the canopy of heaven, and there was not a night but a blanket was acceptable sometimes before morning. In seasons when there is more moisture, however, a roof is necessary to keep off showers and heavy dews. With a sleeping porch there is no occasion for an uncomfortable night so far as heat is concerned, and after a summer's experience it will require more than more freezing weather to drive one into four walls.—Wallace's Farmer.

Crew is in Mourning.

Norfolk, Va.—Sixty miles out at sea off the Virginia coast the battleship Louisiana has been belching forth ten, twelve and thirteen-inch shells at targets five miles away, but her crew is sad.

Billy, a goat, mascot of the ship and comedian of the fleet is dead. Billy made President Taft laugh heartily when the chief executive of the nation made a trip to Panama some time ago.

The sailors loved Billy, and to his memory have dedicated a space in their lockers and chests, on which appears this epitaph: "Gone but not forgotten. Born at Norfolk, Va., April 19, 1908. Died at sea, September 6, 1911."

Billy was recruited and enlisted at Norfolk, April 28, 1909, and served his country faithfully for more than two years. He was one of the most renowned mascots in the history of the navy. He was well known to the rulers and crowned heads of Europe, having been admired by the president of the United States, the czar of Russia, emperor of Germany, king of Denmark and king of Sweden.

His shaggy coat had been caressed by fairest hands of the United States and Europe. Billy was a good shipmate and a sailor of the old school. He died after a short illness from an overindulgence in Portland cement and insulation tape. He was buried at sea September 6, 1911.

Our Pastors.

Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Browne, who last week visited in North Carolina, returned the latter part of the week. Dr. Browne preached two splendid sermons on Sunday which brought from his hearers great praise. Some say they were two of the best sermons ever preached by him. His subjects were the inward life and purity of heart.

Rev. M. L. Lawson also preached two beautiful sermons on Sunday, as also did Rev. Mr. Gordan and Rev. Jesse C. Rowan. Camden is fortunate in having the preachers she has. All of them are earnest, consecrated men and should be duly appreciated.

Meeting Chamber of Commerce.

The regular monthly meeting of the Camden Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Opera House, Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 5 p. m.

You are earnestly requested to be present.

W. R. Eys, Jr.,
Secretary.

Twenty Thousand Dollar Building.

A. R. Lazenby, contractor, of Salisbury, N. C., is in Camden for the purpose of erecting an additional building for Matha academy, the colored school here. The building is to cost $20,000 and work is to commence in about two weeks.

Mister Brown Of Shopless Town

Behold a man of Shopless Town;
His name is Obadiah Brown.
He says the town does not improve,
But runs along its ancient groove,
He'd like to see it spread and grow,
And yet he does not help, you know.
Instead of buying things for sale
Right here in town, he's sent by mail
For many years and bought his things
From those faroff Mail Order kings.
No wonder, Obadiah Brown,
This home of yours is Shopless Town!
