HOG-RAISING IN THE SOUTH.

Statistics Show Great Increase in Important Industry.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—The growing importance of the Southeastern section of the United States as a pork-producing region is shown by an analysis of the live stock statistics of the United States made by the Southern Railway Company.

The estimates of the Agricultural Department show a total of 65,410,000 hogs on farms and ranges in the United States on January 1, 1912, a decrease of 210,000 as compared with January 1, 1911.

On January 1, 1912, the number of hogs in the nine Southeastern States traversed by the lines of the Southern Railway with the increases in each state, were as follows: Virginia, 880,000, an increase of 26,000; North Carolina, 1,405,000, an increase of 54,000; South Carolina, 797,000, an increase of 52,000; Georgia, 2,093,000, an increase of 156,000; Florida, 954,000, an increase of 87,000; Alabama, 1,533,000, an increase of 114,000; Mississippi, 1,577,000, an increase of 156,000; Kentucky, 1,724,000, an increase of 98,000; and Tennessee, 1,574,000, an increase of 75,000.

The total number of hogs in the nine states on January 1st, this year, was 12,542,000, an increase over January 1st, last year, of 887,000.

Large as these figures are they do not measure the full progress of the Southeast as a hog-raising section, for, with the more extended raising of pure-bred hogs, there is a corresponding advance in the average quality and weight of Southeastern hogs.

ANOTHER SUGGESTION.

Member of Auxiliary Thinks Lytleton Street Property Would Be Most Desirable.

It is with no spirit of contention that we beg to honestly differ with our co-laborer in her choice and selection of a site for the Camden Hospital. In our humble opinion the High School property would be very undesirable for several reasons.

First, while the frontage on the park might look very well, and the building make a fine show, the hospital proper would be crowded back into a very undesirable part of the town.

It is too near the railroad—the outgoing and incoming trains would annoy a nervous patient, and we would have no right to complain. In other words we could not ask the railroad authorities to muzzle their whistles.

And then too, we are told that since the lands have been cleared to the river, that the western portion of the town has malaria—though we do not know if this be true. And now let us consider the convalescent patients. It strikes us that it is not isolation they want. They want to be interested, amused, diverted.

Broad Street is too far away to attract them; that portion of Laurens Street is unfrequented, for even the hacks and carriages to and from the station seldom pass that way. They would have nothing but the Park, and that would grow monotonous. No, let us build our hospital in a popular residential locality, where the unfortunate inmates will not feel that they have been put away from everybody, and shunned as if they were in a pest house.

Have we an ideal place in view? We certainly have. A large, well drained, level lot, with fine fruit trees, grape arbors, and a splendid garden spot. Beneath the magnificent oaks, and on the sunny verandas the convalescent patient would be interested, amused and diverted in watching the passersby of one of the most popular promenades in the city—a street on which is located one of our tourist hotels and two of our churches.

And on Sundays and week-days is always "something doing." A charming neighborhood, and we know that some of the neighbors would welcome the hospital. Gentlemen of the committee, we ask you to consider the beautiful property on Lytleton Street, formerly the home of Mr. W. H. Zemp.

As we said before this is not an unkind criticism of the well written article in last week's Chronicle, but only an honest difference of opinion.

Tribute of Respect.

On the morning of Feb. 28, 1912, God in His all-wise providence saw fit to call our friend, Mrs. C. DuBose from her earthly home among us, to a home "eternal in the Heavens."

The art of living is to know how to give one's life. Mrs. DuBose had learned that art. She was ever ready to aid in any good cause, and freely gave of herself for others. She is sadly missed by those whom she often cheered and encouraged by her own unselfish example.

The John D. Kennedy Chapter U. D. C., of Camden, S. C., desire to adopt the following resolutions:

That we feel that in losing Mrs. DuBose we have lost a true friend, a faithful worker, and the example of a noble Christian woman.

Second, That we extend to her children our heartfelt sympathy in their great sorrow.

Third, That a page in our minute book be inscribed to her memory, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.
