A FEW LITTLE SMILES

Cruelty to a Vacationist.
That's what I call men.
"What?"
"I sent Brown a card from our summer cottage, and to make him jealous I wrote on it that I was having fresh fish for dinner every day."
"Well?"
"He sent me one right back saying that after receiving my card he went into a barber shop for a shave, ate a porterhouse steak for dinner, and before retiring took a nice cold bath in a porcelain tub, then mentioned incidentally that there were no flies in his bedroom, either."

Quite Likely.
"Here is a country newspaper which contains the account of a rural dance, but, strange to say, the editor does not refer to the crowd as 'tripping the light fantastic.'
"Perhaps they don't."
"How is that?"
"Oh, rustic folk are much enlightened these days. Perhaps they did the turkey trot and the 'grizzly bear'."

Awful Fix.
"Peggy's in a terrible fix."
"What's the trouble?"
"She's just counted up and found she's refused a dozen offers of marriage, and now though she's crazy to marry Dick, she's afraid to accept him because he's the thirteenth."
—Boston Transcript.

The Judicial Mind.
"I think my husband must have a judicial mind."
"Why?"
"Whenever I catch him doing anything he ought not to be ready to spring a precedent on me by insisting that some other man whom I have respected has done the same thing."

SAFE AND SANE SYMPATHY.

"I make it a practice never to kick a man when he is down."
"Then you are for the under dog?"
"Yes—if I can be for him from across the street."

As Usual.
"Tis now the summer bachelor Piles dishes mountains high, And sighs the while he looks at them: "I'll wash them by and by."

Or Rah-rah Socks.
"How are we to get the plain people this year? All the candidates are college graduates."
"Our side has its plans mapped out. We're going to tell 'em that our man never wore a clamshell cap when he went to college."

Over Sooner.
"Will you have a biplane or a monoplane?" asked the salesman.
"What's the difference?"
"With a monoplane I believe you hit the earth a little quicker when the smash comes."

Growing Dearer Daily.
"He says he loves his wife better every year."
"And I believe him. That woman has received three inheritances since he married her."

The Resemblance.
"My easy chair always puts me in mind of a mountain gorge."
"How's that?"
"I suppose because a sleepy hollow naturally recalls a yawning chasm."

A Difference.

Powell—Yes, but he doesn't part with them philosophically.—Woman's Home Companion.

Appropriate.
"I was reading out of the paper to George today that hairdressing was to be more elaborate than ever."
"What did he say?"
"Oh, rats!"

THIRD TERMER'S JOKE ON LABOR

Brandeis Shows Right to Organize Is Not Recognized.

THE PLATFORM IS SILENT

Noted Lawyer Exposes the Filialness of Promises Made to Workmen by Perkins and His Candidate, Who Stands for Private Monopoly.

"The new party pledges itself to social and industrial justice and specifically to work unceasingly for effective legislation looking to the prevention of occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary unemployment and other injurious effects incident to modern industry. . . . but nowhere in that long and comprehensive platform . . . can there be found one word approving the fundamental right of labor to organize or even recognizing this right without which all other grants and concessions for improvement of the condition of the workingmen are futile. The platform promises social and industrial justice, but does not promise industrial democracy. The justice which it offers is that which the benevolent and wise corporation is prone to administer through its welfare department. There is no promise of that justice which free American workmen are striving to secure for themselves through organization. Indeed, the industrial policy advocated by the new party would result in the denial of labor's right to organize.

"The new party stands for the perpetuation and extension of private monopoly from which the few have ever profited at the expense of the many and for the dethronement of which the people have, in the past, fought so many valiant battles. That cursed product of despotism, the new party, proposes to domesticate in our republic, proclaiming, 'We do not fear commercial power.' Certainly organized labor has had experience with the great trusts which should teach all men that commercial power may be so great that it is the part of wisdom to fear it."

The above declaration was made by Louis D. Brandeis before the convention of the American Federation of Labor, Massachusetts state branch, at Fitchburg, Sept. 18.

Of Supreme Importance.

He urges a careful study of the new party platform, particularly its effect upon labor, noting not only WHAT IT CONTAINS, but WHAT IT OMITTS, adding, "When you make that examination you will find that there is a significant omission and that this skillfully devised platform TAKES FROM LABOR MORE THAN IT GIVES."

Labor Record of Trusts.

Mr. Brandeis then lays bare the labor record of the trusts, declaring that "great trusts—the steel trust, the sugar trust, the beef trust, the tobacco trust, the smelter trust and a whole troop of lesser trusts—have made the extermination of organized labor from their factories the very foundation stone of their labor policy. The ability to defeat labor's right to combine seems to have been regarded by the trust magnates as a proper test of the efficiency of their capitalistic combination."

Mr. Brandeis shows that in 1899, during the Colorado smelters' strike, the American Smelting and Refining company closed its mills where the strikers had been employed and transferred the work to other mills, thus breaking the strike. The United States Steel corporation had similar success in 1901 with the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers. Had the association been dealing with competing employers the result would have been different. The United States Steel trust was prompt in introducing this plan. June 17, 1901, six weeks after it began its operations, its executive committee passed this vote, which was offered by Charles Steele, a partner of George W. Perkins in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.:

"That we are unalterably opposed to any extension of union labor and advise subsidiary companies to take firm position when these questions come up and say that they are not going to recognize it—that is, any extension of union in mills where they do not now exist."

Union Men Not Wanted.

The result was that the bulk of American union laboring men in the iron and steel industry were made to understand that they were not wanted at the works of the United States Steel corporation. Places once filled by American laborers loyal to their union were given to others, and, as the Stanley committee found, "Hordes of laborers from southern Europe poured into the United States." . . . Hence about 80 per cent. of the unskilled laborers in the iron and steel business are foreigners of these classes, the profits going to the steel corporation. Mr. Brandeis declared that "the immediate and continuing result of the steel trust's triumph over organized labor has been an extensive system of espionage and repression."

There has been no disturbance of business interests during this presidential campaign. Why? Confidence in the integrity of the Democratic nominees and right purposes of the party.
