

EXECUTOR'S SALE.
 of South Carolina,
 County of Kershaw.
 Under and by virtue of the power vested in me as Executor of the late of Mrs. Eliza McIntyre, and complying with the requirements of will of the said Mrs. Eliza McIntyre, I will sell at public auction, in front of the Court House door of the city of Camden, S. C., during the legal hours of sale on the Monday in March, 1913, the 3rd day thereof, the following described real estate to-wit: a certain piece, parcel or tract of land in Kershaw County, near the city of Blaney, containing one acre and three acres, (103) or less, and known as the "Place" of Mrs. Eliza McIntyre, deceased, and bounded as follows: on the north by lands of R. J. McIntyre, on the east by lands of Mrs. Johnson, on the south by lands of Kelly, Tillman and Kennerly, and on the west by lands of Adolphus Kelly.
 Terms of sale strictly cash. Parties wishing to bid at said sale must deposit with me a certified check for $25.00 as evidence of good faith.
 R. J. McIntyre,
 Executor.

CHINESE ARE POOR SOLDIERS
 Aversion to Being Ordered is One of the Most Prominent Traits of an Oriental.
 The Chinese is a poor soldier. Not that he is lacking in courage, for on occasions he cheerfully sells himself as substitute and goes willingly to the executioner's ax in order to provide his parents with the small sum necessary to support them through life, writes H. H. Windsor in Popular Mechanics. The strength of an army is in teamwork, and here is where he falls on account of his aversion to being ordered. This is found in his domestic and industrial work. A general line of policy or desired results can be laid down and he will faithfully work in accordance therewith, but he dislikes to be followed up through the details of the work with frequent orders. He will produce excellent results—but they must be accomplished in his own way. Hence the essence of good militarism—prompt and unquestioned obedience—comes in direct conflict with his nature, and makes him a poor soldier. However, this trait is not entirely wanting in other nationalities, as every business man knows to his sorrow, and the difficulty of getting employes to do a thing in the prescribed way is one of the constant anxieties.
 WHO WANTS TO OCCUPY IT?
 English Hotels Seem to Have Queer Idea as to the Popularity of a Hearse.
 Some of the hotelkeepers "on the other side" have peculiar ways of advertising their houses, and one of the most singular of these methods is the statement in their advertisements that the hotel is equipped with a hearse! Inasmuch as the American hotelkeeper is only looking for "live ones," it is not of record that hearses have been used as attractions in this country as yet. One of the English catering journals in speaking of this custom, recently said: "We have on several occasions commented upon the uncanny mixing up of the funeral traffic business with hotel keeping—an unholy combination to be met with in some northern parts of Ireland. Apropos, here is an enticing advertisement from a Sligo paper calculated to bring quite a rush of guests anxious to test the accommodation: 'Mrs. —, proprietress of the — hotel, begs to announce that she has added to her establishment a glass hearse.'"
 Steam for the Soil.
 For a year or two past certain growers of tomatoes, cucumbers and similar vegetables for the London market have been injecting steam into the soil with a view to destroying insects and slugs. It is reported that the plan works very well for that purpose, but the operation brought to light an unexpected fact—namely, that the soil thus treated increased greatly in fertility; so greatly, indeed, that the ordinary amount of manure cannot be used afterward.
 This effect has been explained as being due to the sterilization produced by the steam, which kills the phagocytes or protozoa which in ordinary circumstances keep down the number of bacteria in the soil whose operations are beneficent in turning organic nitrogen into plant food.—Harper's Weekly.
 Force of Habit.
 An attaché at the statehouse has a nose which slightly turns to the left, and when asked why, replies it turns that way from force of habit.
 "Habit?" some one asked one day, "how can a nose have a habit?"
 "The nose didn't," was the reply, "but I did. When I was a boy my nose naturally turned to the right. It embarrassed me and I was grieved about it so much that I decided I would pull it straight. So I began to draw my left hand across it in the hope I could straighten it. The motion became a habit. I did it when in school, in church, and my mother said I did it when asleep. Before I could stop the habit I had the end of my nose pulled over to the other side, and I decided to let it stay that way."—Indianapolis News.
 Our Jail in China.
 In the annual appropriation bill for the diplomatic and consular service of the United States there is included an item for the actual expense of renting a prison at Shanghai, China, for Americans convicted in the United States court for China. In the statutes the place of confinement in Shanghai is designated a "prison," and as there is but one place provided it serves both as a penitentiary and a jail. This prison consists of one small back room in a private building, in the wall of which there is a hole through which the prisoner is supplied with food, the jailer being a clerk in the United States consulate at Shanghai.—Harper's Weekly.
 Mine Own.
 "How long would you be willing to wait for me?" she asked, in tones so low he could scarcely catch the words. And then she went on: "You know, George, my father has recently invested in a silver mine, and he is going there at once, and I cannot leave mother alone. So I ask you again, George, how long would you be willing to wait for me?"
 "Wait for you, my darling?" repeated George, for his was no fleeting love. "I will wait for you until we learn how the silver mine turns out."
