

Physicians Testify for McNaughton.
 Atlanta, Sept. 2.—Affidavits from eleven Savannah physicians were presented yesterday afternoon to the State Prison Commission at the McNaughton case hearing, setting forth that Fred Flanders, whom Dr. McNaughton is under sentence for murdering, did not show symptoms of arsenic poisoning.
 Each of the affidavits set forth that the physician making it was acquainted with symptoms like those which were admittedly those of Flanders, and that they indicated nephritis rather than poisoning. Some of the affidavits even set forth that some of the symptoms which existed could not have been present if the patient had been dying from arsenic poisoning.

 Nephritis, it will be recalled, is the cause that Dr. McNaughton reported on Flanders' death.
 The physician, who has been so long under death sentence, and whose case has been appealed so many times, was represented by Attorney Frank H. Saffold and John Bennell. The latter will go to Thomasville today, he informed the state prison board, to get affidavits which will show, he says, that Flanders took arsenic as a tonic prior to the time he knew Dr. McNaughton, when Flanders was an employe of a sawmill at that place.

IN MEMORIAM.
Mayor and Council Pay Tribute to Departed Clerk and Treasurer.
 The following tribute of respect was unanimously adopted by the Mayor and City Council at its last regular meeting:
 Whereas, in the providence of Almighty God, death has entered our ranks and removed from our body and the activities of earth, our worthy Clerk and Treasurer, G. G. Alexander, whose death occurred on August 27th, 1913, and whereas, we desire to pay tribute to his memory. Therefore, be it Resolved, that in the death of G. G. Alexander, the city of Camden and the city officials have lost one of its best citizens and co-workers—one who had endeared himself to us all by his kindly nature, his generous and magnetic spirit, his readiness at all times to serve his fellow man and to ever advance the interests of all things pertaining to the up building of the city.
 While we deplore the death of our faithful Clerk and Treasurer, still we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father who doeth all things well.
 Resolved, that we extend to his wife and children and other stricken relatives and friends, our assurance of deep sorrow at their loss and assure them that into their grief our heart of sympathy travels.
 Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family and a page in our minute book be inscribed to the memory of our deceased City Clerk and Treasurer.
 Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the local papers with request that they be published.

Enterprise Mercantile Company

Enter this morning the month of oysters.
 It makes no difference whatever about the temperature, you know. The mercury might be withdrawing into its shell below the freezing zone on August 31 and yet to partake of a bivalve mollusk of the genus Ostrea would be not only a physiological but a social blunder. Nothing more abhorrent to refined sensibilities could well be imagined. And yet though quicksilver may be bumping itself around the century mark on the following day, to feast on oysters is not only permissible, but in the seaside towns, it is almost a necessity.
 And the reason for all this, as you very well know, is purely orthographic. There's an "r" in September and therefore an oyster is persona grata.
 Just who promulgated this decree seems not to be known. It is recorded before the days of T. R. and so one perfectly natural guess must be eliminated. To this good hour no one has arisen to challenge its truth, or to charge nature-faking. It seems to be as true as that whale is toothsome only in those months that contain a "w" and shark is a delicious dainty only when the month can boast a "k."
 The first of September is more distinctly an oyster day in seaport cities than in those further inland like Charlotte. It is customary for the oyster-hungry to crowd into the cafes and make up for lost time by a mollusk merry-making.—Charlotte Observer, Sept. 1.

The Anderson Intelligencer, one of the oldest semi-weekly papers in the State, has been sold to a syndicate of Anderson people and the transfer will be made on September 15. The deal has been in progress for several days. The price has not been made public, but it is understood on good authority that it is between $15,000 and $20,000. The Intelligencer has a wide circulation and has been a good paying property. The editor and proprietor was V. B. Cheshire.
 A portion of Lexington county, containing 135 square miles and a taxable value of $500,000, will vote on the question of becoming a part of Aiken county.
