

AUDUBON SOCIETY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

To Promote Better Appreciation Among People of Wild Animals and Birds.

The Audubon Society of South Carolina for the Protection of Wild Birds and Animals, is an institution incorporated under the laws of this State. The Society has done a great work in the cause of bird protection, but for the last few years it has been inactive. At a recent meeting there was an election of officers, and the decision was made to revive the educational work of the Society.

The objects of the Society are to promote among the citizens of South Carolina a better appreciation of the wild birds and animals; to stimulate public sentiment against the destruction of wild animals, wild birds and their eggs; to encourage parents and teachers to give instruction to children on this subject; to secure the enactment of proper and necessary laws for the protection and preservation of the wild birds and animals of this State; to distribute literature bearing on these topics among the members of the Society and other persons, and to raise and provide funds for defraying the necessary expenses of the Society in the accomplishment of these purposes.

Looking to this end the Society plans to direct its activities to the following fields:

Co-operation with local State authorities, Farmers' Clubs, School authorities, Women's Clubs and other organizations in promoting the study of birds, the dissemination of knowledge concerning bird life, and the protection and increase of useful species.

The introduction of bird study in the schools, the observation of Bird Day, and adding in every possible way, educational work along the lines of bird study.

Arrangement of exhibits on bird protection for County Agricultural Fairs and other large public gatherings.

Lectures and traveling libraries on bird study and protection, newspaper articles, programs for bird clubs and special bird meetings, prizes for best essays on bird protection, and prizes for best bird boxes.

The Society has no other support than the membership fees and contributions of its members and friends.

To begin and carry out even a small part of this program requires funds. To insure the permanence of its work the Society merits an adequate endowment.

Persons interested in the study of wild birds or animals from any standpoint are invited to unite with us in this great economic movement.

A subscription of One Dollar or more constitutes a sustaining membership for one year.

A gift of Twenty-five Dollars constitutes the donor a Life Member. Life memberships are placed in the endowment fund.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 9, 1915.

John Taylor, a negro, formerly employed as porter in the State Treasurer's office, was arrested at Greenwood early Monday, charged with criminal assault upon two little girls of Columbia. He was brought to Columbia at midnight and placed in the penitentiary.

J. J. Barr, Sr., an aged citizen of Greenville, died at that place Sunday morning.

Look Out For Them.

From different parts of the country come stories of a swindle successfully worked on farmers who thought they were going to get cheap groceries. Two smooth strangers went through the communities taking orders for a house in Chicago, pretending to sell a standard brand of sugar and flour so cheaply that every farmer visited took from $10 to $60 worth, and other things besides. Because of the low prices the flour and sugar had to be "paid in advance." It is alleged that in one community the swindlers picked up some $3,000 and no groceries delivered.

Senate Restores Magistrate.

Columbia, Feb. 5.—The senate in executive session last night disapproved the action of a former governor in suspending A. H. Kirby from the office of magistrate in the city of Spartanburg and non-concurred in the appointment of Harrison Ferguson to the place.

Members of the senate said that Maj. Kirby, who is 87 years old, and who has been magistrate for a quarter of a century, had been "completely vindicated." A former governor removed Maj. Kirby from office and appointed Mr. Ferguson in his place last year. The action of the senate automatically restores Maj. Kirby to the office he has held so long.

SHERIFFS TO THE GOVERNOR

Give Assurance of Earnest Endeavor to Enforce Law.

Columbia, Feb. 9.—Governor Manning has received many letters from sheriffs and other peace officers of the State promising to enforce all of the laws.

"You may rest assured that I will do my part in the enforcement of all laws on the statute books as long as I am honored with the office of sheriff," said D. P. Douglass, sheriff of Chesterfield county.

"I stand ready day or night to go where duty demands," wrote J. D. Gates, magistrate at Elmore in Orangeburg county.

"I will do my best to enforce the law in Laurens, as I have done for the past six years," said John D. Owens, sheriff of Laurens county, in which the attitude of the Governor toward law enforcement was commented.

W. S. Canlin, magistrate at Trio, wrote the Governor promising to cooperate in the matter of law enforcement.

S. G. Ray, sheriff of Bamberg county, promised to use every effort to enforce the laws in a letter to the Governor.

"I am in full sympathy with you," said Sheriff Hood, of Fairfield county.

T. W. McMillan, sheriff of Greenwood county, said that he appreciated the confidence that had been placed in the peace officers of the State by Governor Manning.

The policy of law enforcement as announced by Governor Manning was highly endorsed in a letter from J. D. Ackerman, sheriff of Colleton county.

J. Elmore Martin, sheriff of Charleston county, said in a letter: "I will use my best efforts to carry out your instructions."

Sheriff Lane, of Dillon, wrote that he was in full sympathy with the law enforcement campaign.

"You have my hearty co-operation," said Hendrix Rector, sheriff of Greenville county.

Co-operation was also promised by John P. Hunter, sheriff of Lancaster county; Cannon G. Bleuse, sheriff of Newberry county; J. M. Dozier, Marion and others.

Methodist Minister Dead.

Rev. J. K. McKain, an aged Methodist minister, died at his home at Gray Court, Thursday last. John K. McKain was born in Abbeville county, February 22, 1829. He enlisted in the Confederate army in August, 1861 in Company K, Fifteenth regiment, Kershaw's brigade, and was severely wounded in the second battle of Manassas, August 28, 1862.

One Cotton Weigher for Kershaw.

The following bill has been introduced by the Kershaw and Lancaster delegation:

"A Bill to Provide for Election of One Cotton Weigher for the Town of Kershaw."

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina: Section 1. That the present cotton weighers of the town of Kershaw shall remain in office until their successor shall have been elected as herein provided.

"Sec 2. That the county boards of commissioners of Lancaster and Kershaw counties shall jointly order an election to be held in the town of Kershaw in Lancaster and Kershaw counties on the second Tuesday in August, 1915, and every two years thereafter, for the purpose of electing one public cotton weigher for said town, and shall jointly do and act with reference to said section as now required by law."

Chesterfield For Good Roads.

LaCosta Evans, the good roads pusher of Cheraw, C. L. Hunley, secretary of the Chesterfield chamber of commerce, and other citizens from the county were in Columbia Saturday, urging the Chesterfield county delegation to put through a bond issue for good roads.

Mr. Evans is responsible for the opening of the new highway between Camden and Cheraw, regarded as the most remarkable piece of road work in the state last year. Much of the work was done by the farmers themselves under the direction of W. L. Spoon, the United States government road engineer. A new road was cut through Alligator township. One of the party from Chesterfield said today: "If the people of Chesterfield county will stand by LaCosta Evans in his efforts to pull off bond issues for a model road system, then Chesterfield county will truly be 'the garden spot of South Carolina'—as expressed by John C. Calhoun 75 years ago."—Saturday's Record.

Pickens Negro Electrocuted.

Floyd McCullum, a negro about 35 years of age, was electrocuted Saturday morning in the death house at the state penitentiary. He was sent to the penitentiary from criminal court in Pickens county, the death sentence having been imposed for a statutory assault on a white woman.

Three negroes are now under the death sentence at the penitentiary and will go to the chair on the dates set by the trial judges unless action by the governor stays the sentence or changes the form of the punishment prescribed.

Tom Grice, from Florence county, goes to the electric chair March 1.

He was first sentenced to die February 1 and Governor Manning postponed the fatal day in order that he might become familiar with the facts adduced at the trial.

Will Groggins of Newberry, rests under the death sentence, the date being March 4, and Durant Halle of Kershaw will suffer capital punishment by electricity March 17.

SUCCESS OR FAILURE MADE IN THE SPRING

Prof. Hare Urges Poultrymen to "Do It Now" and Suggests Things To Do.

Upon what a poultryman does or fails to do at this season depends in large measure whether the year will be for him a success or failure. This, says F. C. Hare, poultry husbandman of Clemson College, is the season of all seasons when a man who breeds fowls needs to be constantly working with his birds and Prof. Hare has made up a "Do it now" list in which he offers to poultry breeders some brief suggestions of tasks that await them in the early spring. These suggestions follow:

Decide to increase egg production next season. Give this problem all the time you can spare for it. Here are some of the ways of going about it:

Breed from your best layers if possible; if you cannot distinguish them, then select the hens with the widest good space (about three fingers' width) between the pelvic bones, and about four fingers width from pelvic bones to the rear end of the breast bone.

Mate such layers with a good, vigorous male, allowing him from ten to fifteen pullets. Breed from young males rather than from two-year or three-year males.

Dust the sitting hen with insect-powder before giving her the eggs.

On the eighteenth day of incubation, immerse the eggs in water of 106 degrees temperature (just warm to the hand). This moistens the membranes or skins inside the shell.

Feed the baby chicks—when thirty hours old—a hard-boiled egg, cut up and rolled in oatmeal until it is of a crumbly consistency. Feed them the egg on a piece of cardboard 3 times daily, giving only a little each time. Keep dry wheat bran before them if you have it. Feed a mixture of grits, oatmeal, millet seed and rice three times daily, scattering it in litter to make the chicks exercise.

Buy a few sittings of eggs for hatching, or some baby chicks, if you wish to improve your stock.

Clean and whitewash your poultry house.

Grease the hens with mercurial ointment to kill lice. Buy the thirty-three per cent ointment and rub a small portion, of half the size of a pea, on the flesh under the bird's vent. Grease a space of the size of a quarter-dollar piece and you will kill all the lice on the fowl. One application monthly is sufficient.

If in doubt as to how to carry out any of these suggestions, write to Clemson College and all questions that you ask will receive prompt attention.

Immense Bond Issue For Roads.

In the house of representatives the Richland delegation has presented a bill providing a bond issue of $1,250,000 for the building of highways in Richland county. The bill was presented with the unanimous approval of the delegation. It is stated, only one member objecting to the act itself issuing the bonds instead of submitting the proposition to the people to be voted upon.

This is the largest bond issue ever made in the south for the purpose of road building. The measure provides for an automobile tax supplemented with a property tax for the purpose of paying the interest and creating a sinking fund for the retiring of the bonds.

Wouldn't Stand for "Tipperary."

Passaic Falls, N. J., Feb. 5.—Charles Steinhaver stood at the brink of the falls, melodramatically gesturing his intent to commit suicide. As his swan song he sang "Die Wacht am Rhein."

Patrolman John Jorlett saw him, but could not urge the would-be-suicide to leave his perilous position.

Jorlett scratched his head, and started a competitive concert. He sang "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

Steinhaver got mad, and came down to fight. He rests in jail, instead of in the river.

Pickens Negro Electrocuted.

Floyd McCullum, a negro about 35 years of age, was electrocuted Saturday morning in the death house at the state penitentiary. He was sent to the penitentiary from criminal court in Pickens county, the death sentence having been imposed for a statutory assault on a white woman.

Three negroes are now under the death sentence at the penitentiary and will go to the chair on the dates set by the trial judges unless action by the governor stays the sentence or changes the form of the punishment prescribed.

Tom Grice, from Florence county, goes to the electric chair March 1. He was first sentenced to die February 1 and Governor Manning postponed the fatal day in order that he might become familiar with the facts adduced at the trial.

Will Groggins of Newberry, rests under the death sentence, the date being March 4, and Durant Halle of Kershaw will suffer capital punishment by electricity March 17.

STATE NEWS.

Will Carter, a negro, died in the Greenville jail Monday from lockjaw, caused by a wound he received while robbing a store. The proprietors had set a trap gun in the store in anticipation of a robbery. It fell to Carter's lot to spring the trap and his neck was shot off which caused his death.

W. R. Hilliard, about 35 years old, a chief yeoman in the United States navy, attached to the U. S. S. Hartford, committed suicide in a room in the rear of a top story of the Argyle Hotel in Charleston Monday afternoon or early in the evening. The body, lying across the bed with a wound from a .38-caliber pistol in the right temple and the pistol lying near the right hand on the bed, was found by a maid employed at the hotel when she entered the room to put it to rights.

Walter P. Powell, the machinist at the Southern Cotton Oil company's mill at Florence, was seriously injured Saturday while attending to some repairs to one of the gins in the ginery. His clothing was caught in the saw's teeth, which snatched his arm against the saws. His hand and arm were badly lacerated. At the same time he was jerked into the gin. His head struck some portion of the gin cutting a severe gash across his forehead. The two belts pulling the gin were thrown from their pulleys when the accident occurred. Mr. Powell was given quick attention, which possibly will save his life, as he lost comparatively little blood before attention was given him.

Two fires, burning at the same time, caused considerable excitement at Darlington Monday night. The larger blaze had destroyed property estimated to have been worth more than $10,000, and practically all of the loss falls on W. D. Coggeshall.

In addition to a ginny and buildings valued at about $6,000, Mr. Coggeshall lost about 100 tons of cotton seed, between 100 and 150 bales of cotton and probably a cartload of hay. He carried insurance on this property amounting to but $2,500. The other fire proved to be a building occupied by M. M. Foster, as a furniture store, and owned by Mrs. N. L. Harrell. It was practically destroyed, but the extent of the loss could not be ascertained. This was the only wooden building on the public square.

GRAVESTONE LUNCHEONS.

One of the Curious Sights of New York's Financial District.

In old Trinity churchyard, where Robert Fulton and Alexander Hamilton lie buried, dozens of girls can be seen through the pickets of the bronze fences every day enjoying their noonday lunches amid the tombs of the old time New Yorkers. All about are high skyscraping office buildings. The elevated trains clatter and bang overhead, and on Broadway the trolley's gongs add tumult to the roar of the city. Within the old churchyard all is peace and quiet. It is here that the girls from these big office buildings come of a noontime to eat their lunch, "far from the madding crowd," yet within a hand's reach of the bustle of Broadway.

It was only a few years ago that some girl, a typewriter in a nearby office building, chanced to let her eyes fall over the gravestones of old Trinity. They did not bring thoughts of ghosts to her mind—they only made her think that it would be lovely if she could eat her lunch among such peaceful scenes.

The next day she and a girl friend brought their lunches. They entered the churchyard and, seeking a secluded spot behind the old church, sat down on an old tomb and began to eat their sandwiches. Nobody objected. The next day they came again. Other girls, emerging from stuffy restaurants, saw them and resolved to imitate them.

The next day there were half a dozen there, and nowadays, when the noon hour is bright and sunny, the number has increased to sometimes seventy five.—New York Cor., Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Equality of Sex.

There is a little girl in Springfield, Mass., who, like many of her sex, resents the imputation that the feminine mind is not so strong as the masculine.

One day her mother remarked on the apparent lack of intelligence in a hen. "You can't teach a hen anything," she said. "They have done more harm to the garden than a drove of cattle would. You can teach a cat, a dog or a pig something, but a hen—never!"

"H'm!" exclaimed the child indignantly. "I think they know just as much as the roosters!"—Youth's Companion.

TWO NONSENSE VERSES.

TWAS on a cold and wintry night
A girl stood in the street.
Her pretty eyes were full of tears,
And her shoes were full of feet.

THE night was dark, the way was long,
The wind blew through his hair;
The poet's heart was full of song,
His pocket full of air.

—London Standard.

Mr. Hiram T. Tusten died at home of his daughter, Mrs. W. Bradley at Abbeville Sunday afternoon in his 87th year and is survived by two daughters and one son, W. W. Bradley and Mrs. Eugene Gairy, of Abbeville, and Mr. Walter Tusten, of New York City.

"All things come to him who waits" belongs to the leisure past.

No good live American would father the phrase now.

Present day successful ones get a strange hold on what they want, and hang on.

All things come to him who uses printer's ink and goes after what he wants.
