LAW RESTRICTS SALE OF OPIUM.
Dealers Cannot Sell to Physicians for Prescriptions.

The sale of many drugs derived from opium and coca beans has been restricted by a federal law, effective March 1. This law is far reaching, wider in scope than any law of the kind ever passed by the national government. We believe that it will accomplish a great good in stamping out the use of these drugs for any use except medicinal purposes.

The law covers opium, coca leaves and any compound, manufacture, salt, derivative or preparation thereof.

Every person, firm or corporation who produces, imports, manufactures, compounds, deals in, sells, distributes or gives away any of the articles covered by the law, must register with the collector of internal revenue in his district and pay a special tax of $1 per year. This special tax will be imposed for the period from March 1 to June 30, 1915, (which is the close of the special tax year,) and the amount to be paid is 34 cents. After that date, tax will be imposed for the official year and payment will be $1 tax. Every person, partnership, association, company or corporation (other than a physician, dentist or veterinarian) who has more than one place of business where any of the drugs described are made, stored, or dispensed, must make a separate application for registry and pay tax for each such place of business.

Sales of drugs by the law may be made only to parties, whether manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer or doctor, on order blanks provided by the collector of internal revenue. The buyer and the seller shall each preserve his copy of the order, and the law requires that such (both original and duplicate) to be retained on file for a period of two years, and they must be filed in their numerical order; that is according to the registry numbers. Dealers are not to be compelled to fill orders for narcotic drugs, as the law provides what he shall do in case the order is accepted.

It is unlawful for any person to obtain by means of said order blanks any of the aforesaid drugs for any purpose other than the use, sale or distribution thereof by him in the conduct of a lawful business in said drugs or in the practice of his profession. Orders by telegraph or telephone cannot be filled.

Order blanks will be issued by the collectors of internal revenue in tablets or books of ten each. The charge for such blanks (including original and duplicate) will be at the rate of $1 per hundred. They will be issued only to persons who have registered and paid the tax, and any one other than the dealer to whom they are issued using them will violate the law.

Dealers may not sell to physicians on prescriptions when the drugs are intended for dispensing or prescribing, as all physicians, dentists and veterinarians, will be required to register under the law and order such drugs on official order blanks. Prescriptions written by physicians and filled either by the druggist or physician, must bear the name of the physician signing the same, and his registry number and name of the person for whom such prescription is filled. Such prescriptions must be preserved for a period of two years, and be readily accessible to the inspecting officers of the government, state, district or city in which he is located.

Every person, firm or company dispensing directly to consumers, must on March 1, 1915, prepare and keep on file an inventory of all drugs covered by law on hand at that date; no special form of inventory is required, as it must be verified by oath not later than March 5, 1915.

Every person registered under the act is required on demand of the collector of his district to render a sworn statement of the quantity of such drugs received by him during a period of not exceeding three months preceding such demand. The said statement to show the names of the persons from whom the said drugs were received, the quantity received, and the date thereof. This record can be readily compiled from the duplicate orders filed.

It is a crime under the act for any person who is not registered, and has not paid the tax to have in his possession or under his control any of the aforesaid drugs, and such possession will be construed as presumptive evidence of a violation of the act. The provision, however, does not apply to any employee of a registered person or to a nurse under the supervision of a physician, dentist or veterinary surgeon registered under the act, provided such possession is by virtue of his employment or occupation, and not on his own accord.

United States, state, county, municipal, territorial and insular officers lawfully engaged in making purchases respectively for the army and navy, the public health service, and federal, state, county and municipal, territorial, and insular hospitals or persons, are exempt from the provisions of this law; and sales, deliveries, etc., to these officers and institutions are not affected by the law; but private hospitals and institutions are exempted.

Section 6 of the law exempts from its provisions all preparations and remedies containing stipulated quantities of the prohibited drugs, but it should be carefully noted that these exemptions do not apply to cocaine or any of its salts, whether alone or in combination with other drugs, and all sales of cocaine in any and every form whatever must be made in pursuance of a written order on the blanks supplied by the collector. It will also be noted that while the title of the law and the first section of it does not mention alpha or beta cocaine, Section 6 provides that the exemptions shall not apply to "ointments, ointments and other preparations which contain cocaine or any of their salts of any synthetic substitute for them."

It should be remembered that the Harrison law is a taxation to all transactions in every state, city or town, and is not confined to sales in interstate traffic. It should also be borne in mind that it is necessary for all dealers to continue to observe state and municipal laws regarding the sale of narcotic and poisonous drugs. Attention is also called to the fact that there is no advantage in retailers, or dispensers purchasing large quantities of the prohibited drugs, prior to March 1, as it will only add to the work of reporting stocks on hand in the inventory required by the regulations to be taken on that date.

The penalty for violating any of these provisions of the law is a fine of not more than $2,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years or both, as well as the probable large expense when the suit is then brought.

Bandits Rob Seaboard Express.
Washington, Feb. 18.—The Jacksonville express of the Seaboard Air Line railway was boarded tonight at Alexandria, Va., by two robbers, who, after binding and gagging the express messenger, robbed the safe and left the train at Franconia, three miles beyond, and escaped. Officials of the express company here late tonight declared there was nothing in the safe.

The robbers went straight to the express car when they boarded the train. They forced the messenger into a corner and bound and gagged him. Failing to open the safe they waited until the train slowed down near Franconia and then pushed the safe out the door.

The robbers leaped from the train at a grade crossing some distance down the track. The express messenger, still bound and gagged, was discovered when the train reached Richmond.

CLEMSON HAS HER TROUBLES.
Hard to Send Information to Anonymous, Homeless Enquirers.

Clemson College, Feb. 23.—Recently a man wrote to the veterinary division of Clemson College and requested immediate information about some unwell animals on his farm. Delay was dangerous. The veterinarians of the college desired to dispatch an answer to the inquiry as soon as they received it. Unfortunately, the man had neglected to tell where he lived.

Many letters that cannot be answered come to Clemson College in the course of each month. Some are unanswerable because the writer does not give his address. Others contain neither name nor address. A few contain the address, but no name. Finally, there are some that contain both name and address, but so illegibly written that they can with great difficulty be deciphered and then not always accurately.

Here are two good rules for farmers to observe in writing to Clemson College, or to any other large institution for that matter.

1. Write name and address very plainly. If necessary, write them in print letters instead of script.
2. Whenever possible, address the particular division of the institution which is concerned with the subject of the letter. For example, when writing about plant diseases, address the botanical division, instead of merely Clemson College. If this rule is observed, letters will be answered promptly.

FALL GARDEN AT THE WINTHROP FARM SCHOOL.

Rock Hill, Feb. 23.—In September and October the fall garden was planted. The vegetables planted were parsley, carrots, turnips, spinach, radishes (winter and spring), parsnips, lettuce, and onions. Strawberry plants, cabbage and collards, also, were set in the fall. Sweet pea and poppy seed were sowed and jonquil, narcissus, and hyacinth bulbs were put out. All of these are only waiting for the first warm spring days to set them growing and soon have them ready for use.

The cold frame is filled with lettuce just ready to head, and the sale of this has already begun. Last year there was realized ten dollars from the sale of lettuce from this cold frame.

There was such a demand for onions it was decided to make an experiment of raising them for the market. A strict account of the money expended in the raising of the onions is being kept and just as strict an account will be kept when they are sold. In this way the school can tell just when they are sold. In this way the school can tell just how profitable the onion crop is.

W. W. Long, head of farm demonstration work in South Carolina, says there is more hog cholera in the state now than for several years. He says there is no remedy for the disease; that serum is a preventive, which lasts from three to eight weeks.
