

To the Business Men of Camden

Message No. 1

When a good salesman goes out after business, he first puts on a clean collar and gets his shoes shined. Then he looks like more business—and he's made a start toward getting it. Likewise, a community can go after more business—and get it. The "clean collar and shiny shoes" of this town are the well-painted stores, the bright, cheery homes, the fresh, clean-looking buildings. The part paint plays in building up a town cannot be put in figures—but its good effects are recorded on the local merchants' sale sheets. Buy good paint. We recommend and sell and pure linseed oil. We know of nothing else so satisfactory, so lasting and cheap in the long run. We sell all other paint necessities as well. Get in touch with us today.

Dutch Boy Atlantic White Lead

BURNS & BARRETT, Camden, S. C.

It Will Bear the Test

Every article we sell is above suspicion, as to its manufacture, handling and packing. The purest sugar and the purest flavorings and other ingredients are selected for the making of our Candies, Chocolates, Caramels and other confections, so that we are enabled to warrant their freshness and purity. But while the qualities are high, the prices are most moderate.

SUB ATTACKS PASSENGER.

Steamer Orduna Barely Misses Fate of Lusitania.

New York, July 17.—The Cunard liner Orduna, from Liverpool to New York with 227 passengers, including 22 Americans, was attacked without warning, it was learned on her arrival here today, by a German submarine on the morning of July 9.

Twenty miles from the graveyard of the Lusitania, off Old Head of Kinsale, the Orduna escaped the Lusitania's fate by one-half a second of three or ten feet of space, the German torpedo churning the water that distance behind the liner's rudder. Then the Orduna sped away. She was followed by the submarine, which rose to the surface, manned a gun and shelled the fleeing steamer.

The attack was timed at ten minutes to 6 o'clock in the morning, when all but a few of the passengers were asleep. Aroused by stewards, the passengers dressed hurriedly and went to the upper deck, where they donned life belts and took their places at the life boats. They heard the scream of the shells and saw the ocean spit up columns of water where the missiles struck. When the fire grew hot they were ordered, for their own protection, to the next deck below.

For half an hour the Orduna showed her heels to the assailant. Through marine glasses the passengers watched the low-lying German warship coming on, but the Orduna was faster than the pursuer, and after seven shots had been fired, without effect, the submarine gave up the chase.

A wireless call for help was sent out by the Orduna when the torpedo was seen. She was then thirty-seven miles south of Queenstown. The reply, Capt. Taylor says, in his official report, was that help would be given within an hour.

It was four hours before the first British vessel, a small armored yacht, the Jeanette, appeared.

Protest will be made to the American government by at least one citizen of the United States, and possibly others, who were aboard. William O. Thompson, of Chicago, counsel for the federal industrial relations commission, who went abroad in his official capacity last March, and was returning to make his report, is the passenger who said today that he would make vigorous protest to his government.

"As an American citizen, employed in an official capacity by the government to go abroad, I feel that I should bring the government's attention to the attack," said Mr. Thompson.

"I felt that I had a right to return home on the Orduna, although she flies the British flag, because she is a passenger ship. The fact that she had no munitions of war aboard fortified this opinion. The Orduna, an unarmed passenger ship, carrying no munitions, was deliberately attacked without warning, pursued and subjected to shell fire. It is little short of marvellous that she was not sent to the bottom with all aboard."

"In making my protest to Washington I shall proceed along these lines, combining with the protest a report of the attack as I saw it."

THE NATION'S GARDEN SPOT.

Atlantic Coast Line to Send Exhibits to South from Northern Fairs.

What are you doing to boost the South? The railroads are spending thousands of dollars annually in advertising the resources of the Southern States.

The Atlantic Coast Line Agricultural Department is again putting up an exhibit of farm products, vegetables, fruits, tobacco, cotton, grains and forage of all kinds, grown in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, to be shown this summer and fall at a number of the large fairs in the states of New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland, in sections not so favored by nature, climatically, as is "The Nation's Garden Spot."

A representative of the Agricultural Department of the Atlantic Coast Line has just returned from a trip through the East and North where space was contracted for at eight mammoth fairs, and he reports great interest manifested and that the exhibit will be viewed by several hundred thousand people.

Handsome illustrated literature descriptive of the resources of the states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, will be freely distributed.

This kind of advertising has real educational value. It reaches the people, and it should result in bringing many good homeseekers into our midst.

The success of the undertaking will, in a measure, depend upon the co-operation received from the farmers, and others interested in agriculture. If you raise or know of anyone raising products suitable for this exhibit, such as native forage, alfalfa, corn, tobacco, small grains, good samples of fruits and vegetables, etc., you can help by communicating with the Agricultural and Immigration Department of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, Wilmington, N. C.

A large express car will be required to transport the exhibit. Time of departure from Wilmington, N. C., about August 15th.

The Camden Raid.

The recent raid upon Camden consisted of negro and white troops from Foster's command, the proportion of negroes being about one-third of the whole force. They burned at Camden and elsewhere about fifteen locomotives and a large amount of rolling stock collected there from other roads in the state. The supplies had been previously removed with the exception of a quantity of government sugar. This was partly distributed to the citizens by the commission there and the enemy did not disturb it. About 30 hogsheds fell into their hands and were destroyed. They returned toward Florence and Charleston. From files of Yorkville Enquirer, April 19, 1905.

Huntington, W. Va.—Because his wife chewed tobacco in bed, Francis Biggell was granted a divorce and the custody of their four children.

THE COW AND HER PRODUCT.

Clemson College Weekly Notes For Farmer and Dairyman.

(These notes are prepared weekly by the Dairy Division of Clemson College which will be glad to answer any questions pertaining to dairying.)

Have the cows freshen when dairy products sell highest.

Give the calf the first milk if he is allowed to suck at all.

To the public: Help the dairyman in these hard times. Return his milk bottles.

The last quart of each milking is from three to four times as rich as the first quart.

Where more than two cows are milked, the calves should not be allowed to suck after the first day.

The grade bull calf will not pay for the cost of raising if the dairyman can dispose of his products otherwise.

It never pays to kill the heifer calves from the best cows. Raise them to replace the poor cows.

Keep cows away from stagnant water. Slime gets on the udder and thence into the milk and creates bad flavors.

The warmer the weather the more important it is to see to it that the milk vessels are kept clean.

Be sure to feed only clean milk to the baby, for you may cause serious injury to its stomach by using dirty milk.

Wash all milk bottles as soon as milk has been used. This will not relieve the dairyman of work, but it will also help him to give you clean milk.

Never take a milk bottle into a sick room. Typhoid fever is often carried from one home to another because milk bottles are carelessly handled in a home in which there is typhoid fever.

Complimenting the Lieutenant.

The company marched so poorly and went through their drill so badly, says Tib-Bits, that the captain, who was of a somewhat excitable nature, shouted indignantly at the soldiers:

"You knock-kneed, big-footed idiots, you are not worthy of being drilled by a captain. What you want is a rhinoceros to drill you, you wretched lot of donkeys."

Then sheathing his sword indignantly, he added: "Now Lieutenant, you take charge of them!"
