THE PARADOX.
Evanescent that endures;
The loveliness that dies the soonest
Has the longest life. . . .
Rainbow is a momentary thing.
Afterglows are ashes while we gaze,
Those soft flames of song
Burn amid the hawthorn scented hushes of the May
ere before the sense can fix them; . . .
The notes of moonlight steal across the
tender dusk,
faery flutings wander from the haunted hills
tremble, and are gone. . . .
Light and color, scent and sound
passion, which is kin to these,
almost in the instant of their birth.
die and yet they live forever,
by their very pliancy they are thrust
er into the texture of that eternal
stuff.
is the soul,
grow to unity with it, and there
loveliness which dies the soonest always lives.

ATTAINMENT.
THERE was a man in our town
Who labored to rise higher,
To rise and then to rise some more
He always did aspire.
He smoked within a powder mill
And won his whole desire.

YOUTH SOCIETY
FRIDAY
The Young Women's Church Society
last week with Mrs. A. J. Beattie.
meeting was a delightful one in particular, the rooms were decorated in spring flowers and refreshments served. The society gave their annual Easter Egg hunt on Monday, April 24th. The weather was not ideal, and the crowd was not as large as was expected.

The beautiful function of the week was given by Mrs. D. A. Boykin in honor of Mrs. Carey, of Rhode Island, who enjoys a flattering popularity in Camden, where she has spent many winters. The rooms were decorated in the flower-fall colors of early summer and five tables had been attractively arranged for the bridge devotees.
At noon a tempting luncheon was served.

Mr. C. P. DuBose was the agreeable hostess to the Wednesday morning club this week. The rooms were attractive and inviting, and the membership turned out in full. In addition to the club, Mrs. DuBose had an entertaining table in compliment to Mrs.
Lila deSaussure, of Atlanta, who is Miss Minnie Auerum, was a favorite of the Camden society, and is always warmly welcomed back to her home town.
Guests were Mrs. Blanding de-Surre, Mrs. Alex. Clark, Mrs.
L. Boykin and Mrs. Jack Whitcomb. The prize for this table, a dainty kerchief went to Mrs. Jack Whitcomb. After cards the hostess served strawberries and cream, cake and coffee.

U. D. C.'s MET WITH
MRS. LINDSAY

The John D. Kennedy Chapter U. D. C. was delightfully entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John S. Lindsay, with Mrs. W. J. Dunn as assistant hostess. The rooms were thrown en suite and fragrant with roses while great bowls of mountain laurel and vases of sweet peas in all the pastel shades added to the attractiveness. The president, Mrs. B. B. Clarke presided, and the secretary, Mrs. Robt. Team was in her place as usual. As Mrs. L. S. Davidson, who was a delegate to the recent district conference held in Lancaster, could not be present, the report from that assemblage was postponed until next meeting. The paper on "The Real Lincoln," written by Mrs. A. C. Auerum, and recently published in the State by our U. D. C. state historian, was brought up for discussion. The writer has received letters from men of prominence from almost every section of South Carolina, and with one exception all commending the paper. As these papers are to be preserved by the South Carolina division U. D. C. and to be read by future generations, and as this paper was written by one who lived during the Lincoln administration, it was thought by some to be sufficient importance to warrant further research. Miss Nettles made a motion to this effect, but the motion was defeated. The medals offered by the Chapter for the two best essays on "The Confederate Navy," were won by Miss Margaret Richards, of Liberty Hill, and Paul Twitty, of Camden.

Plans were perfected for the dinner to be given the veterans on May 10th and arrangements made for Memorial day. On account of much business, the musical and literary program prepared for the occasion was not carried out, however, Mrs. Paul Brown delighted the company with a beautiful piano selection. Refreshments consisting of luscious strawberries, cream and cake were served by the hostesses.

Cunningham-Floyd.

Tabor, N. C., April 29.—A wedding of much interest in social circles of this section as well as throughout South Carolina was that of Mr. William Edgar Cunningham, of Chester, S. C., and Miss Elizabeth Pettit Floyd, of Liberty Hill, S. C. The marriage took place in the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon.

The marriage was one of the most beautiful, taking place here for many years. The church had been beautifully decorated with long and short leaf pine, intermingled with southern smilax, against a background of white.

Promptly at 3:30 to the strains of Mendelssohn wedding march, the bridal party entered the church, first the little ribbon girls, Anabel Floyd and Harriet Lewis. They were followed by the flower girls, Little Leona and Elizabeth Lewis, then came the ushers, Mr. D. F. McGougan and Dr. C. S. Cox.

The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Mr. W. A. Floyd, of Greenville, S. C., by whom she was given away. Her costume was a lovely fawn colored traveling suit with accessories to match.

The groom entered in company with his best man, Mr. J. L. Lewis and met the bride at the altar, where the ring ceremony was impressively performed, under a huge wedding bell, by Rev. W. L. Boggs, of Greenville, S. C.

The happy pair immediately left by automobile, with the good wishes of scores of friends, for Clarendon, N. C., where they boarded the train for their future home, Chester, S. C.

The fair young bride was the youngest daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Joseph W. Floyd, and the groom, a leading, progressive farmer of Chester, S. C.

Married.

On May 1st, 1916, by Probate Judge W. L. McDowell, Mr. Willard Lee, and Miss Lula Owens, both of Camden, S. C.

SUMMER FASHIONS.

Satin and Serge Combinations Favored
With Figured and Plain Materials.

New York, May 1.—Perhaps the most noticeable thing about the summer styles is their decided youthfulness; this is both in line and coloring. The straight lined frocks and suits of serge, gabardine, taffeta and faille, lend grace and youth to all types of figure. For instance, a yoked, pleated frock of dark blue serge trimmed with black taffeta may be worn by the large woman or the small one with equally good results. One particularly good model worn by a large woman, at an exhibition recently, was made with a deep shoulder yoke of black taffeta, the serge laid in deep, flat pleats, hanging straight from the yoke. A girdle, consisting of two narrow attached straps of the black silk, came well down over the hips, giving a long, slender appearance to a rather heavy figure. A pretty adaptation of the same style of dress is illustrated here in serge for the slender, younger woman.

Satin is effective with serge; and of course the combination of navy blue serge and black satin is quite as popular this season again as it has been for several seasons past. One sees many smart serge frocks with sleeveless coats of black satin, half skirts of satin, sleeves of satin, and the various other notions favored for the modish combining of two or more contrasting materials. Scarcely a frock appears these days made strictly of one material. It is a fad which makes for economy and becomingness.

The sport costume is another youthful notion. It imparts a delightful feeling of freedom, both of movement and spirit. There is something very becoming and exhilarating about the combinations of vivid colorings in the wide striped, checked and printed novelty fabrics now being used in skirts and suits. The middy-blouse costume is popular with all; one of the new materials being used for middys is an adaptation of the old-fashioned jean. This material wears quite as well as its ably priced, and a most satisfactory material generally for middy blouse and accompanying skirt. An effective combination for a middy costume is one of the bright awning striped linens or ducks, with blouse of plain white, collared and cuffed in the stripes. One of New York's smart shops is showing a middy blouse which flares smartly over the hips; the idea is novel and attractive in its up-to-dateness, quite in accordance with the season's silhouette.

Kershaw Won The Debate.

It would have delighted teachers and pupils of the Kershaw Graded school if they all could have been present in Camden last Friday evening to hear the debate, in which their representatives, Miss Lathes Hardin and Ralph Eppley, won the honors from their competitors of the Camden high school. The decision of the judges was unanimous, but it is not to the discredit of the Camden debaters, both of whom did well; Miss Bateman deserving much credit for the force and charm of her delivery. But the Kershaw debaters had the better arguments and presented them with much force. The audience was very appreciative.

In the ball game in the afternoon between the Kershaw High school team and Camden ball team, the Kershaw boys were defeated by a score of 6 to 5, the game being ended before the ninth inning, owing to the lateness of the hour. Four of the runs made by Kershaw were gained in the ninth which concluded the game.—Kershaw Era.

Geo. W. Davis, magistrate at Hemmingway, died Monday morning from injuries sustained in a runaway. The horse he was driving kicked him in the pit of the stomach.

JOHN BARYMORE

In a Comedy of Romance and Adventure at The Majestic Today.

"Nearly A King," one of the most novel screen comedies ever conceived, combined with screamingly funny situations, moments of the tenderest romance and scenes of gripping, thrilling suspense. It is further distinguished by the fact that for the first time since his association with the screen, Mr. Barrymore interprets two characters simultaneously. The fact that one is an American and the other a Prince, whose romance becomes confused, adds to the interest. In the end, however, each marries the girl of his heart, but not until they have proceeded through the most startling and humorous series of trials and adventures possible to imagine. Also on the same program with "Nearly A King," will be "The Iron Claw," the popular serial featuring Pearl White and Creighton Hale.—adv.
