Verdict for John Smith.

In Magistrate Fincher's court yesterday a jury gave John W. Smith a yerdict for $28.15 against Dr. 8. F. Brusington. It was an action brought by Smith to collect an auto repair bill due the Consolidated Auto Co. Dr. Brasington admitted that he owed the amount, but stated that he had sold to A. L. Watkins, then a partner in the Consolidated Auto Co., $25 worth of shingles. Watkins acknowledged that Dr. Brasington's statement was true Dr. Brasington said that he had offered to settle the difference in the account. The jury also taxed Dr. Bras ington with the costs of the trial.

Masons Elect Officers.

Memorials were offered of the following members who have died this year Rev. H. B. Browne, D. J. Horton, T. J. Lipscomb, C. H. Griffin, J. McSmyrt, and of Dr. F L. Zemp, who for many years was the guiding and sustaining spirit of the Masonic Lodge'in Camden, who died during the closing months of Richards, The Wizard.

The Sumter Item has the following o say of Richards, the Wizard, chowing this week at the Camden Opera

"Richards, the wizard, showed his vonderful feats last night to an audlence larger than on the previous alget. His tricks were different and were entertaining. His chief "stunt" was the projecting of his as sistant from a cannon through the air into a box suspended from the celling, an act which was performed much to the mystification of all present. He pleased his audience im mensely and no doubt will. draw an even larger crowd tonight to bis final performance at the Academy.

"MADE MY BLUSD RUN COLD."

A Common Expression hat States Physical Impossibility.

My blood rons cold at the very thought" is not a novel aspression You often either hear some one else say it or aver it yourself.

Your blood cannot "run cold" as long as you are alive and well. If the blood really be omes colder than "blood heat" simething serious happens to your health

When you feel cold it is a sensation not necessarily the temperature of the tissues. Often with the blood feverish or away alove its normal warmth you feel chilly. So much of the superheat ed blood is then at the surface of the skin that an extra normal uniount of heat leaves too quickly. On the other hand, men and women who drink beer, gin, whisky and simiar alcoholic beverages "feel the glow of warmth" and believe they are hor when as a matter of course their blood is a trifle below blood heat tempera ture-at times manifestly a dangerous

True enough, the blood has much to do with how you feel. This, however is not be ause it "blows hot or blows cold" but because that part of it in the skin where the sensations of hear and cold are tocated reflects the out side surroundings according to the pre vious experience and habits of each in dividual's skin.

If a stoker and an employee of a refrigeration plant are put in a coul draft or before an open grate fire each will feel chilly or hot according to his previous experience and habits. The stoker will "catch a cold" in the draft," which will have no effect whatsoever upon the man used to cold storage temperature. San Francisco Chronicle.

TALK AT NANTUCKET.

Where Old Salt Sea Phrases Come as Natural as Eating.

There has always been a charm about Nantucket for outsiders because of the sleepy quaintness of the place and the islanders' odd sea phrases so generously interlarded in their conversations. These phrases are so much a part of their talk that their use is un

They never pull, they always "baui;" they do not tie or fasten anything. they "splice" or "belay" it; they do not arrange to fix a thing, they "rig it"; or 'rig it up:" they do not throw anything away, but "heave it overboard;" they "back and fill;" they "luft," "tack," "come about" and "square away" on any and all occasions.

Before engaging in any venture they first "see if the coast is clear." then as they proceed they "keep the weather eye peeled" and always "look out for squalls." Then they "sound it out" until they "fathom" it. If they don't like the "lay of the land" they "give it a wide berth."

All this is acording to "The Nantucket Scrap Basket," a book compiled and edited by William F. Macy and

The authors tell the story of a certain Quaker mother of Nantucket, who once nautical expressions so common there. and told her children to remind her if they ever caught her doing it. The very next morning she gave them some eggs to leave at the home of a relative on the way to school with the words: Take these into Cousin Phebe's and tell her I think this squares the yard with us, and thee must scud, for it's almost school time.'

For Testing Gold.

The acid used by jewelers for testing gold is extremely powerful and has to be very carefully handled. To pre vent any considerable quantity of the acid being spilled a specially constructed bottle is employed. The stopper of this is made of glass and contains a long pointed glass rod which passes down the center of the bottle. When an article of jewelry is to be tested the stopper is simply removed, and the article is touched with the point of the glass rod, to which a very slight quantity of acid has adhered. Gold is not affected by the acid, but imitation metal turns green.

Young Men "Horse Shy."
