OUR UNCROWNED KING.

Little George Washington lived long ago. And his heart was as pure as the wind driven snow. He dashed at a lie, spurned that which is base, and with shoulders erect looked the world in the face. No meanness is told of his life as a boy. For truth was his watchword and honor his joy. At day or at work, with hatchet and pen, he carved for himself a place among men. Little George Washington grew to a man. The honor and pride of his kindred and clan; No prejudice, malice, deception or strife was mixed with the pure alloy of his life; Brave, loyal and true to country and creed. He came to the front in our nation's great need— Sing forth ye his praise and natal bells ring. To honor the name of our uncrowned king! —Martha J. Opie.

A message to relatives in Camden yesterday from Mr. Cassels Zemp stated that he had arrived in New York and was on his way to Camden for a fortnight. Mr. Zemp has been in the United States army in the Panama Canal Zone. He made the trip by steamer from Panama to New York. "The Disciple" starring William S. Hart, was the offering at The Majestic Tuesday evening. It was one of the best of the season. "Wid's" Review placed it way up high among the silent plays and it proved that way. The excellent music by the orchestra continues a pleasing feature of this playhouse. By a singular co-incident Thomas Dixon's "Fall of a Nation" appears on Washington's birthday anniversary and promises to be one of the big attractions looked for this theater.

LATEST SPORTS CLOTHES.

Silks and Satins Appear to be Greatly Favored.

New York, February 12.—Nothing has been more talked of during the past seasons than sports clothes, so much so that nowadays they have come to be just as essential a part of the modern woman's wardrobe as her evening gown. In the styles shown at present for Southern wear, there is distinctly a strong accent on this type of dress; for fashionable women at Southern resorts wear their sports clothes from early morning until it is time to change to evening gowns. As a result of this rage, the variety to be found under the label of sports clothes is nothing short of amazing. As a rule, bright coats or blouses are worn with white or light colored skirts. Included in the list of gay colors that are used, red is often found, which is rather unusual, as this color has been looked upon formerly as more appropriate for fall and winter than for spring and summer.

A Sports Frock Developed in the New Plain and Dotted Silks

Sports clothes of silks and satins appear in greater numbers this season than those of cottons. There are, however, some novelties in cotton which promise to prove very popular. One of these is cotton garboline brightly striped and plaided in colors. Basket weaves which have the new striped and dotted designs also have a fair showing, and the heavy linens will undoubtedly be worn.

The sketch shows one of the favorite models with the smart hip-length blouse. Stitched box pleats, starting from under a deep yoke and disappearing beneath the pleated pockets, give the Norfolk effect which has always been considered a good style for outing wear.

Separate coats of fuzzy white material, somewhat like blankets, with stripes of many colors around the edge, and also on the collar and cuffs, are among the latest offerings in sports attire. The colored stripes are also carried out in the same way in coats of oyster-white tussur.

Rumors of a new silhouette have been causing a stir in fashionable circles. In fact, the rumors have been turned to reality, for the new barrel skirt has already been seen in Paris and New York. The barrel skirt which produces this new silhouette, wide below the hips and narrowing down toward the ankles, is a strong contrast to the straight-line frocks inspired by the medieval fashions. Whether or not it will be accepted is still a matter of doubt. The barrel skirts that have been seen so far appear in different forms and some are not unlike the "peg-tops" which were fashionable some two or three years ago. It is very likely that the barrel skirt, if it takes at all, will not at once replace the straight frocks. It may be just a fad of the moment and it may be taken seriously by those who are tiring of the chemise dresses. Time only will tell, but in the meantime we need hardly have our peace of mind disturbed about it.

MUSICAL TEA AT BLOOMSBURY.

Too Shrewd for Him.
An old laboring man appeared before the court as a witness. The lawyer for the defendant tried to confuse him.
"You are Frederick Miller," said he.

"I am," replied the laborer.
"Are you the Frederick Miller who was sentenced under mitigating circumstances for robbery?"
"No, I am not that Miller."
"You are, perhaps, the Miller who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for theft?"
"No I am not that Miller either."
"Were you ever in prison?"
"Yes—twice."
"How long the first time?"
"A whole afternoon."
"An afternoon? and the second time?"
You must make truthful statements, you know, for you are sworn. If you were in prison for so short a time, what did you do?"
"I only whitewashed a cell ready for your brother, who had been committed for cheating clients."
The lawyer did not ask any more questions on that subject.—Philadelphia North American.
