In Praise of Country Life.
The News reprints the following article from a contributor to one of our Southern country papers. It is so beautifully expressed as to be well worth passing on:

Let me live the years of my stay upon earth, 'way out in the country, close to nature and to nature's God.

I want to feel the touch of the seasons as they come and go, making up the years.

I want to feel the chill of winter in my frame, not too severe, but enough to make the blood tingle.

I want to feel the gentle warmth of spring, as with her touch of magic she awakens new life in things dead.

I want to feel the heat of summer, as the golden sunshine ripens the harvest and matures the fruit and flowers.

Lastly, I want to catch the cool breath of autumn coming to fan away the heat and lethargy of summer.

I want to hear the cry of the whippoorwill as the twilight settles o'er the hill and hollow.

I want to be near where the Bob White is calling to his mate, when the fields of ripening wheat wave gently to the passing breeze.

I want to hear the tinkle of bells on the distant hillside, as the sun is going down and the katydids commence their night-long chatter.

Then, when old Jack Frost passes by, with his touch of white, I want to wander down the old rail fence and go on to where the muscadines hang in rich profusion; and there for a time feast and forget.

Yes, let me live out the years of my stay upon earth in the fullness of the country, and then, dying, let me rest in the quiet church-yard near where father and mother sleep—where the sunbeams play in the summer, where the snow drifts high in winter.—L. J. D., in Shelby Star.

A Georgia editor offers this advice to the girls: "This town has some real pretty girls, if they would not mess their faces up with powder and paint and grease their foreheads and eye brows with some stuff that looks like beef suet. It is funny that when God made a girl very pretty she is not satisfied with the job, but must mess it up with stuff that vendors have to sell. Don't do it, girls. Some of you look like old Nick with that stuff on you, and without it you are pretty."

party near what is known as Poovey's bridge on Bear creek last Thursday night about 9:30. A load of bird shot fired at close range from a shot-gun entered the left side, piercing the intestines in nine places.

The wounded man was taken to the Fennell Infirmary in an automobile early Friday, where an operation was performed and at last accounts he was doing as well as could be expected, although the surgeons say the chances for recovery are against him.

Friday night Sheriff Hunter had a consultation with Mr. C. A. Helms in which he told him that suspicion rested on him and he readily admitted the shooting. Domestic trouble is alleged to have been the cause of the affair.—Lancaster Citizen.

Succumbs to Wounds.
Greenwood, March 9.—W. W. Nickels, superintendent of the Greenwood schools, died in a hospital here early this morning from wounds which he inflicted upon himself Friday night, following a nervous breakdown.

Mr. Nickels was a graduate of Wofford College and had been superintendent of the Greenwood schools for about nine years. For 10 years previous he had served the Dillon schools in like capacity. He was well known in school circles throughout the State. His wife, three children, a sister and a brother, survive him.

Clerical Blind Tiger.
Rev. John DuRant, colored, of Darlington county, spent Thursday in town and suspicious circumstances attending his rambles around and about caused Policeman Chandler to take him and his suit case to the guard house. The case, when opened, yielded two and a half quarts of whiskey and a pint of alcohol and several empty bottles. DuRant made a lengthy explanation as to how and why he had the liquor in his possession, but the explanations were not satisfactory, so he was held for an interview with Recorder Harby. Friday morning he was placed on trial on the charge of transporting liquor and for having more than a quart of liquor in his possession. He was found guilty as charged and the sentence was $100 or 30 days on each charge.—Sunter Item.
