DRANK FATAL DRAUGHT.

Express Employees Took Dose From Purloined Bottle and Coroner Gets Job.

(From The Augusta Chronicle.)
A story printed in a Virginia newspaper indicates the trouble that grows out of illicit shipments of whiskey into prohibition territory.

It seems that much booze has been shipped illicitly out of Baltimore and New York to southern states, where prohibition is in effect. Employees of express companies would have a "hunch" as to what the package contained at first, and would open them, take the booze out, and send the empty packages on to their destination—and their disappointed owners, the man who received the packages could not make complaint, because in so doing they would admit their guilt of being a party to the shipment. They were in the mine hole, and the express employee who got a few quarts was just that much ahead.

This business got to be so profitable it is alleged, that any package that was suspected of carrying booze, was opened, and many complaints have been opened en route and delayed. A very brave gentleman was in The Chronicle office yesterday and complained that all his packages of clothing were rifled before they were delivered to him.

But getting back to the Virginia story. Several of the men in the Old Dominion, who had been getting their booze from the cases of Baltimore and New York, and latterly had been losing it because of the predatory habits of express employees, evidently "doctored" some of it. Anyway, two employees of an express company died very suddenly, and without apparent cause. The coroner investigated and found a quart of the best brand of booze. The remnants of the quarts were analyzed and were found to contain a very liberal supply of cyanide—enough to have annihilated a regiment of soldiers, it is said.

The men, who stole the booze and drank it never knew what hurt them. But the coroner was able to inform their families as to the exact extent and degrees of the malady.

Whether or not this has a deterrent effect on the stealing of booze in transit, remains to be seen.

Federal Appropriation For Roads.

The Weekly News Letter of the U. S. Department of Agriculture states that $74,000,000 will be available, during the next three years for road-building in this country—the several states to appropriate a similar amount in order to get the Federal aid.

Here is the apportionment for South Carolina:

1917-18-19—$430,437.
1919, additional—$717,297.05.
1920—$1,075,945.58.
1921—$1,075,945.58.

Tribute to The Cow.

Little does man realize the debt he owes the cow. During the dark ages of savagery and barbarism, we find her early ancestors natives of the wild forests of the old world. As the bright rays of civilization penetrated the darkness of that early period, and man called upon the cow, she came forth from her seclusion to share in the efforts that gave us a greater nation and a more enlightened people.

For two thousand years she has been the co-partner of man, sharing in his prosperity and adversity, responding nobly to all that was done for her, until through her development she has become an idol of the people.

In 1492, when Columbus made his second voyage to America, the cow came with him—and from that time to the present day she has been a most potent factor in making this our own country, one of the great nations.

Her sons helped till the soil of our ancestors and slowly moved the products of the farm to market. They went with man into the dense forests of the new world, helped clear them for homes and made cultivation possible for the coming generation.

When the tide of emigration turned westward, it was the ox that hauled the belongings of the pioneer across the plains and over the great mountain ranges to new homes beyond.

The cow is man's greatest benefactor. Hail, wind, droughts, and floods may come, destroy our crops and banish our hopes, but from what is left, the cow manufactures the most nourishing and life-sustaining foods.

The cow is life itself to thousands of little ones stranded upon the hollow hearts and barren bosoms of modern womanhood.

We love her for her gentleness, her beauty, and her usefulness. Her loyalty has never weakened and should misfortune overtake us, as we become bowed down with the weight of years, we know that in the cow we have a friend that was never known to falter.

Woman's Duty To Dress Correctly

Woman's desire for attractive dress is not vanity; it is one of the highest instincts of her sex. Her mission is to please, and she owes it to her nature to make herself as attractive as possible.

Our Spring Dress Goods

Combine the two cardinal virtues of attractiveness and utility. In fabric they are all that can be desired for utility, while the color schemes and tonal effects are a delight to the eye.

Every woman in this community who wishes to look her best should see this line at once, before the stock is broken.

"Daddy, what is that queer-looking crack in your glasses?"

Observing daughter is not the only one who notices that "queer-looking crack" in Daddy's glasses. Everybody notices it. It mars his appearance; it makes him look old.
