DEFINED WAIST LINE

Paris Announces High Waist Linen Collars For Late Spring.

New York, June 4.—"High time to think of the one-piece frock for warm spring days," says the busy woman as she takes inventory of her wardrobe. And reluctantly she gives up the chemise frock for its latest rival, the frock with the well defined waistline. For some time there has been a spirit of unrest among the designers in Paris, for they had quite tired of the straight lines of the chemise frock. Some new lines must be created, so encouraged by the success of the "Camargo Silhouette" they gradually tightened in the frock at the waistline until now each dress may be referred to in regards to its bodice and skirt. One of the prettiest models shown is developed in navy-blue twill and has a snug-fitting bodice. The skirt is rather full about the hips by reason of slight drapery, but becomes quite narrow as it descends in the direction of the ankles.

Russian Blouse Effect

desirable than the separate camisole and bloomers. The envelope chemise eliminates all the discomforts of the separation at the waistline of the camisole and bloomers.

The increased use of pajamas has given rise to many new and varied designs. They are welcomed by the fair sex because they are quite comfortable and also very easy to make at home. The younger girls want nothing but pajamas, for they may romp and play about in perfect ease.

Some are made in one piece from the neck to ankle and the attractiveness is increased when they are developed in contrasting colors. This effect is obtained by banding the edges with satin ribbon of some effective color, and then adding a bit of embroidery of the same shade.

Bought Handsome Car.

Mr. J. Luther Moseley, the well known cotton buyer is the possessor of a handsome limousine which he purchased from the Black-Fraser Motor Co., of Columbia. It is a 70 horse power Hudson and is the handsomest car ever brought to this city. It is as attractive on the inside as a Pullman car and will prove a great pleasure to Mr. Moseley and his family. The machine cost $4,100.

Marriage.

Married by Rev. M. M. Benson on Thursday evening last, May 29th, Mr. S. C. Truesdale, of Westville, and Miss Irene B. Bruce, of Camden.

No Meeting Tonight.

Mayor Brasington yesterday received a message from Gilbert C. White at Durham, N. C., stating that on account of sickness he would be unable to attend the meeting called for the court house this afternoon to discuss street improvements in Camden and that he would name some future date.

Big Spring Now Open.

The Big Spring near Bethune is now open to the public for the Red Cross. Come bring your bathing suit. Picnic June 18th.

E. N. Yarbrough, Mgr., Bethune, S. C.

Walter Berry, driving a tractor on the Dillon county roads, was struck by a Coast Line train, and died from the injuries. Berry had just returned from France where he was wounded in action.

W. I. Johns, of Allendale has shipped 400 steers to Northern markets. The steers were valued at $100,000. Mr. Johns has previously shipped about the same number.

"The Tiger's Trail", a new Pathe Serial featuring Ruth Roland starts at the Majestic tomorrow.

The sleeves are long, tight and dart-fitted. The only trimming on the dress is a set-in vest of pale blue-green Georgette, which is finely tucked horizontally. This one little touch of trimming and color combined gives the frock a tone of individuality.

Despite the fact that Georgette, crepe de Chine and glove silk are very popular, there is a big demand for lingerie developed in bastiste and lawn.

While batiste can be made to be quite alluring if it is daintily embroidered with delicate lace. The envelope chemise developed in this material is far more

BANKERS INFORMED

As To Condition in South Regarding Making of a Cotton Crop.

Columbia, May 31.—J. Skotttwe Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, recently sent a letter to the bankers of the United States North and South, giving them information on the cost of production of cotton and urging that they assist the farmers of the South in their fight for better prices.

"Letters from many prominent Northern bankers received during the past few days indicate a marked disposition on their part to assist our farmers", says Mr. Wannamaker in a statement issued yesterday. "These bankers frankly admit that they were entirely misinformed as to the true conditions existing in the South. They further state that they will cooperate with the cotton association because they feel that as a matter of patriotism and justice, the cotton grower should get a profit on his cotton. They say they were of the opinion that the production of cotton had been enormously profitable until the information which we sent them was received."

"One prominent banker says in his letter to us: "After receiving your letter, inclosures and information and giving them careful attention I have made a personal investigation, and to my great surprise, find that you have not at all overdrawn conditions. I have been in the banking business for the last 40 years. Thought I thoroughly understood the Southern conditions, but am frank to admit that I have been entirely misinformed. As an American citizen who has the interest of every section at heart, I feel it my duty to cooperate with every section of America and I will gladly cooperate with you in your campaign, which I find is based on simple justice. Your cotton crop, on account of the great uncertainty of production; the planting of cotton being to a large extent a gamble, as you are forced to contend with the weather, storms, and insects, should bring an extremely large profit to the grower, especially as it is strictly a handmade product, and I sincerely hope that your campaign will bring complete changes for the better to the cotton producing section of the South."

"A personal letter from another prominent Northern banker, a friend of the president of the cotton association, states 'I congratulate you upon the wonderful work being done. Your campaign in this section is certainly bringing about results. It is a campaign of information and education. I have been watching it with deep interest but did not realize the enormous scope upon which you have been conducting it, until your letters were received. I will gladly cooperate in any way possible. Knowing your ability as a banker, I would suggest and urge that you prepare a strong paper along the financial side of the question. The inflation of the currency should be emphasized. You have the ability to do this.'"

"I note that you expect to conduct a speaking campaign throughout the South. It would probably result in much good if you could also arrange at least a few of these schedules for the great Northern centers. The truth never hurts. Information and education is what we want. People are thinking today as never before. In every line of life, the social, commercial and all others, want the truth and you have it on your side. From personal information and my experience in traveling through the South, it would require a vast sum to rebuild the rural sections so that they would draw and hold the white men on the farm and improve general conditions in rural life."

"The sum necessary to rehabilitate the South would be truly stupendous, and I realize that to enable you to do this, it would be necessary to get a high price for your cotton. It would pay the nation to pay such a price. It would prove a profitable investment, as there is no asset worth more to the nation than the man on the farm. He is the backbone of any country. He will be needed in the reconstruction period, not only as a producer, but as a safety valve and as a protection against these dangerous foreign doctrines."

Out-of-Town Advertisers.

The Chronicle is today carrying a number of advertisements for Columbia and Sumter concerns. We call especial attention to the large advertisement of the F. B. Shackleford Co., dealers in ladies coat suits and dresses. These ads come to The Chronicle wholly unsolicited and shows that these firms know the value of newspaper advertising.
