Accidents Killing Human Kindness.
Individuals are supposed to be very good-natured, always glad to help one in distress and generally inclined to give weary pedestrians a "lift" on the way. But either they are hardened to the joys of motoring or there are some who do not care up to their reputation for courteous complaints are sometimes heard from the woman living near a favorite motor thoroughfare, says that she has always until lately been glad to help automobilists who have had difficulties near her home. But she has begun to feel that her kindness is wasted. A driver came to her house one evening and asked for a pair of pliers. She loaned them readily. The man took them out to his car, repaired the faulty part and drove off with the pliers. Another time an auto party stopped for lack of gasoline. They called upon the woman and asked if she had any. She handed out a large jug containing the necessary gas. In this case gasoline and jug both followed the way of the pliers. The party drove off without even offering to pay for the material they appropriated.

Another party came into her yard for sticks of wood to help in jacking up their car. She allowed them to take cord-wood from a neat pile by her kitchen door. When the repairs were completed the party drove on leaving the sticks scattered over the roadway. Perhaps this woman has been unfortunate in her experiences. Nevertheless these true stories are worth meditating upon. Too many people accept favors without the gratitude and courtesy which are so easy to give and so pleasant to receive.

Nazimova in "The Red Lantern" is showing at the Majestic tonight. A drama that pictures the struggle of a human soul.

STEERED BY SIXTH SENSE

Exploits of Blindfolded Norwegian Have Proved a Puzzle to Expert Danish Scientists.

Scientists in Denmark are puzzled by a Norwegian, one Emil Knudsen, who, although blindfolded and carefully watched, steered a steamer through the intricate channels of the harbor of Copenhagen, keeping a true course and adroitly dodging other vessels. He explains this by claiming the possession of a "sixth sense."

Knudsen is a man of middle age. When he came to Denmark from Christiania, he became at once an object of interest to both scientist and layman. He was put through many experiments by one of the leading nerve specialists of Europe, and as a result the specialist suggested the trip into the harbor. Knudsen said that he could guide himself anywhere without using his eyes, and a steamer was chartered to put him to a supreme test. Knudsen had no knowledge of the harbor. He requested that a person knowing the channel should hold two finger-tips against the side of his head. Professor Fridenreich consented to this, and himself pressed two finger-tips against Knudsen's temples.

The man handled the wheel without a sign of nervousness or uncertainty. It was impossible for him to see, yet he took more than a dozen sharp corners and followed a zigzag course throughout. All the scientists who witnessed the demonstration said that Knudsen possesses a mysterious power that actually may be a sixth sense.

INDIAN KNEW WHERE TO DIG

Red Man's Action and Finds Have Considerably Mystified Residents of Missouri Town.

The region about Caruthersville, Mo., is rich in lore about hidden gold and silver and mounds rich with pottery. Too, there are great, strange caves to be found thereabouts, never ending subjects for speculation and wonderment, say the Kansas City Star.

A few years ago an Indian went to Caruthersville with several skin maps and dug up pottery that was worth several thousand dollars. He offered $1,500 to be allowed to dig into one mound near the town. However, the owner decided that if the mound was worth so much money for exploration purposes he would do the exploring. He did and found nothing.

Some time later the Indian returned to that section, hired a man with a wagon and team and drove out into the country to a spot where three pecan trees grew in a triangle. He dug down and unearthed two boxes, so heavy that a man could not lift one end of either. He had them shipped away and to this day their contents is a much discussed mystery of that locality.

Began Life in Coalpit.

Sir Joseph Cook, the minister of the Australian navy and one of the commonwealth's delegates to the peace conference, began life in a coalpit in Staffordshire, England. While a working miner he sought to improve his education in every way, and in his spare moments in the pit acquired a knowledge of shorthand. At the age of twenty-five he decided to try his luck in Australia and went to New South Wales in 1885. He obtained work in a mine near Sydney and took an active interest in promoting the welfare of his fellow-workers. He then became secretary of the local miners' union and this proved the stepping-stone to political life.

French Train Operation Poor.

The French method of train operation differs sharply from the American. In the United States it is customary to move the trains by means of the block signal system, under the orders of train dispatchers. In France the chef de gare, a sort of sublimated station agent, is supreme. He is in absolute charge of all trains that pass through his station and of the allotment of cars within his district. A through train having reached his station, it cannot leave without his permission. This practice brings about such a condition that fewer trains are operated over a French double-track line than could be handled over an American single-track line equipped with block signals and dispatchers.

Wood for Cotton.

Wood is now being converted by a new process into a substitute for absorbent cotton—a product which is being supplied to the government by one mill at the rate of several tons a day. This absorbent wood is of great value in covering and stanching open wounds.

The wood is ground up and then spun or rolled out into pure white sheets resembling cotton batting, and is so light and bulky that only about 4,000 pounds of it can be packed in an ordinary box car. This substance costs 28 cents a pound.

Sandbag Exercises.

New exercises for home and gymnasium use, which can be employed in place of either dumbbells or Indian clubs, consist of long, slender sandbags of any desired weight, which are made of durable fabric and provided with rope handles at either end. On the sides of the webbing are loops into which the feet can be inserted for leg exercises. Besides serving the purpose of several types of exercisers, it is pointed out that the sandbags are preferable to Indian clubs and dumbbells in that they can be used noiselessly.

FATHER OF 52 CHILDREN

Cherokee Citizen Is Hale and Hearty at Ninety Years.

Gaffney, Aug. 16.—The most remarkable character in Cherokee county, or indeed anywhere in the United States, is John H. Lynch, of Cherokee Falls. The old gentleman will be ninety years of age next April. He came to Gaffney to have a warrant issued for a neighbor who had threatened him, the difficulty having arisen over the fact that the neighbor's calf had been trespassing on the old man's pea patch, which he had himself planted and cultivated.

Mr. Lynch, in spite of his great age, is hale and hearty, and does his daily work in the fields. He has been married four times and is the father of fifty-two children, nearly all of whom are living. His youngest child was born the year that President Wilson was inaugurated, and is named Woodrow.

In his younger days Mr. Lynch was a miner, having worked at many of the prospects in both North and South Carolina. He has the appearance of being not over sixty-five years of age.
