

As A Warning To The Living.

A man died owing a Missouri editor six years unpaid subscription to the paper. The editor did not send any flowers. He attended the funeral and placed a palm-leaf fan and a block of ice on the casket. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Belton Cabaniss, 30, of the Victor mill, died last Tuesday morning of injuries received when a National automobile in which he and three other persons were riding, near Greer, was overturned. John Hunter, also a resident of the Victor mill, had his chest crushed, but will recover.

Harry J. Spannall was acquitted of the charge of having murdered Col. M. C. Butler by a jury in district court at Brownsville, Texas last Saturday after two hours of deliberation. The jury's verdict sustained the defendant's plea that his acquittal in January, 1917, of the charge of murdering his wife, was in effect an acquittal of a like charge in connection with Colonel Butler's death. The jury in the present trial did not, therefore, specifically pass on Spannall's guilt or innocence in connection with the slaying of Butler. Butler and Mrs. Spannall were killed while on an automobile ride with Spannall at Alpine, Texas, July 20, 1916.

The Elongated African.

J. A. Coburn is taking a great deal of pride in telling the public this season that he has secured Charley Vermont known as the Elongated African, as one of his comedians for the season of 1919 and 1920. Mr. Vermont is one of those long dangly loose jointed human beings, whose every movement has a laugh in it, and he has some mighty funny sayings as well as some mighty funny acts. He is doing a specialty this season which he built himself. It is entirely original full of keen negro wit and at the same time includes a whole lot of genuine information. Mr. Vermont is a very literary man and when he is not telling what he knows he is reading what other people know. That is where he gets his fund of talk which he dispenses to his audience nightly. Coburn's Minstrels will appear at the Opera House Saturday night January 31st.

SEEK PHILIP'S GOLD

Effort to Salvage Spanish Galleon Goes Merrily On.

Treasure Seekers Refuse to Give Up Hope of Securing Wealth From Flagship of Commander of "Invincible Armada."

Little did the duke of Medina-Sidonia, admiral in chief of the Invincible Armada, dream, as with high hopes he set sail from the Tagus on May 20, 1588, that his great galleon, the Florencia, would be sunk off Tobernory, on the coast of Scotland, and would be supplying treasure trove to adventurous spirits more than three centuries later in the year of grace 1919.

The Florencia, which was popularly reported to be filled with gold, jewels and silver plate, fled northward with her sister vessels in frantic attempt to get back to Spain by rounding the north of Scotland after the fateful war council had decided to abandon the unequal fight in the narrow seas of the English channel. This was the decision which caused Sir Francis Drake to write jubilantly to Walsingham on July 31: "There was never anything pleased me better than the seeing the enemy flying with a southerly wind to the northward. We have the Spaniards before us, and mind, with the grace of God, to wrestle a pull with them."

The doomed ship had reached Tobernory when MacLean of Morven by a well-directed shot succeeded in setting fire to her powder magazine. The resultant explosion scattered the vessel and her contents far and wide over the sea bed. The immense wealth which she was believed to have on board has from that time to this exercised over many minds as potent a fascination and spell as ever was wielded by dreams of discovering the treasures hidden by the buccaneers who sailed the southern seas.

At length, after several desultory attempts at reaching her, a salvage company was formed in 1905, and operations, begun then, have been continued intermittently ever since. Enough was discovered to encourage perseverance, though not to reward enterprise—blunderbusses, swords, scabbards, a bronze cannon and a few doubloons. Several recent signs, however, indicate that the searchers are at last on the right track and will soon strike the main haul. Then, if ever, should the ship's stronghold yield up its long-lost treasure and add one more to the romances of the deep.

Mixup in Relationships.

Adoption proceedings before Judge Raymond Dobb presented a complex situation that lawyers are trying to figure out, writes a Syracuse (N. Y.) correspondent. James and Lucy Loatwell were born six years ago. Their mother, Mrs. Lucy Loatwell, wife of James Loatwell, died shortly after their birth. Their father married again and then Percy McDonald, brother-in-law of the deceased Mrs. Loatwell, adopted Lucy. Charles Singer, brother of the deceased Mrs. Loatwell, adopted Jimmie.

Lucy must now call her own brother Cousin Jimmie. Her own father becomes Uncle Jim. Her hitherto Uncle Percy now becomes papa. While she will always revere the memory of the departed mother, she must regard her maternal parent as a deceased aunt, at least in the law. Her own cousins, the children of her adoptive parents, become her brothers and sisters, and the same holds true of little Jimmie. Lucy's now legal father becomes uncle to her own brother, while her stepmother she must address as auntie.

Historic Inn to Be Sold.

The famous Saracen's Head Inn at Southwell, Eng., in which many American tourists have found entertainment, is to be sold at auction. Its history as a hotel runs back through 500 years.

In its early days the house was called "The King's Arms." King Charles I, stayed at the inn during the Civil Wars. Charles surrendered himself to the Scottish Commissioners on May 6, 1646, in the coffee room. The bedroom which that monarch used on the night before he gave himself up is still well preserved. Other English kings also stopped at the ancient hotel.

Arts and Crafts in Australia.

Determined to revive interest in arts and crafts work, the executive of the Arts and Crafts Society for Victoria has invited the craft workers of the commonwealth to send exhibits without entrance fees to the annual exhibition in Melbourne in November. The exhibition will include examples of pottery, toy-making, metal work, stained glass, modeling, lace and leather work, engraving and etching, and design of poster work. Designs must be original, and if possible have an Australian motif. The fact that a number of disabled soldiers have taken up arts and crafts work will add additional interest to the exhibition.

Were Built to Last.

The extraordinary tenacity of building materials was what most impressed a British architect visiting the war area. He frequently saw arches with only one abutment still held firmly in position by cohesion, though loaded with heavy walls, and in the Market hall of St. Quentin an iron column with base shot away was still held upright by the superstructure it was designed to support.

Beauty - Strength - Power - Comfort

In The

1920 HAYNES

Powerful, roomy, strikingly handsome, the new 1920 Haynes more than ever comes up to the expectations of the thousands who have waited for it.

The four factors of car character—beauty, strength, power and comfort—are wonderfully combined in each model. Time-tested excellences in motor-strength, the latest appointments—luxuries—all these are presented. From the chassis through to the least detail, the Haynes—America's first car—satisfies its expectant friends.

There are twenty-six years of success behind the Haynes, and this means everything to its owner. He can pin his faith to the organization that builds his car.

J. A. Coburn's Minstrels.

When the J. A. Coburn minstrels, now on their 20th annual tour appear at the Opera House, Saturday Jan. 31st it will be found that a new production has been secured throughout. With a keen appreciation of the requirements of minstrel entertainment, Manager J. A. Coburn, is said to have eclipsed all previous efforts, in this season's offerings. One of the new features will be a new comedy sketch, conceived and produced by Charley Gano, the king of burnt cork artists, on uptodate subjects and handled by the comedian in his most humorous fashion. It is said to be the funniest act Mr. Gano has had in years.

Give It Time.

"Look here, sir," exclaimed the maiden lady. "I want you to take back that parrot you sold me, I find that it swears very badly."
"Well ma'am," replied the dealer, "it's a very young bird; it'll learn to swear more perfectly when it's a bit older."
