They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

Only one word—Elegance—can describe this new

CHALMERS

EVERYTHING in this Chalmers is new except the chassis. It has a new bonnet line, new coach line, new windshield, new top, new seat and seat springs.

A volume easily may be written about them, and any one of them may alone tempt you to ownership.

They catch your eye, those lines, though they are marked by a reserve of rare good taste.

But in those multitudes of little details the real elegance is expressed—door handles, square doors, low sitting position, deep tilt of the cushions, the rug on the tonneau floor.

Then when you've had your first ride, when you've felt the influence that Hot Spot and Ram's-horn have on the action of its master engine, when you've noted the utter silence, easy starting, the ready response, the easy effort "up underneath the bonnet" you, too, will say Chalmers is one of the few great cars of the world.
