

Morrison Nominated Governor
 Charlotte, N. C., July 4.—Incomplete returns from sixty-five of the one hundred counties in the State, compiled by the Charlotte Observer from official and unofficial reports, give Cameron Morrison a majority of 4,908 over Lieutenant Governor M. Gardner in the Democratic primary of Saturday for the nomination for governor. The tabulation shows a total of more than 73,000 votes.

Tennessee's Woman Bank, the only woman bank president in the country, while attending the Tennessee State Banker's Convention held in Memphis declared she would lend to men in preference to some women, but first-class security was an essential.

ARE VICTIMS OF TURK TREACHERY

American Relief Worker Tells of Slaughter of French Garrison.

HAD PLEDGED SAFE CONDUCT

Colonel Woodward Saw Wounded Men Killed and Frenchmen Shot After Surrendering at Evacuation of Urfa.

Aleppo, Syria.—The slaughter of the little French garrison which evacuated Urfa on a promise of safe conduct by the Turkish nationalist troops after the town had been besieged for 61 days, is described in the diary of General Woodward, accountant for the American Commission for Relief in the Near East, who was an eye witness of the massacre. He escaped and returned to Urfa after several hundred French soldiers had been killed or made prisoners by tribesmen.

The French were ambushed by the tribesmen in violation of an agreement made by Nemik Effendi, who came from Angora as the Turkish nationalist government's representative, the diary says, and promised the Frenchmen safe conduct if they would evacuate. At that time the French had only four days' rations left, and had eaten all their horses and mules, and evacuation was considered inevitable, as the garrison was greatly outnumbered by the enemy.

General Woodward says in his diary that he saw Turks killing the French wounded on the field, and that he and an officer of the gendarmerie saw prisoners killed by the Turks after they had surrendered.

"Namik Effendi agreed to protect the Christian population, provide a guard of gendarmerie and a transport of 60 camels and 30 horses if the French would leave," the diary says. "The garrison evacuated at 1:30 o'clock in the morning.

Attacked From the Rear.
 "We were suddenly attacked from the rear and from both flanks while we were moving as a column spaced at regular intervals. The order was given to deploy, and this was carried out into the hills occupied by the enemy who almost surrounded us.

"The attack lasted for two hours, the Turks having 2,000 irregular troops and one machine gun. They made a special target of our transport, doubtless for plunder. As the firing increased other tribes joined in the attack. Our rear guard was caught in a trap from which few escaped alive.

"With the transport destroyed, the rear guard cut off and our line of defense broken, we could only surrender, and an officer of gendarmerie was sent with a white flag. I accompanied him with an American flag. We were continually fired upon as we approached the enemy, asking for his commander. We were told there was no commander, as the troops were irregular and finally we sent messengers to the flanks and at 10:20 the firing ceased but another party of Kurds arrived almost immediately and the firing was reopened. I asked the chief of the gendarmerie to return to Urfa with me, which we managed to do by a side trail.

"I saw Kurds killing the wounded and saw soldiers killed after they had surrendered. Emir Effendi, an officer of the gendarmerie, also witnessed this, and he had one man marched away as a prisoner. I could not find out what became of him.

Almost Wiped Out.
 "Of the French detachment of 500 only 132 soldiers and one officer returned to Urfa. The remainder presumably were killed."

After the French evacuated Urfa the conditions there were reported greatly improved for the American relief workers, as supplies of water and fuel had been cut off and provisions were nearly exhausted.

The Turks held a general meeting of rejoicing over the departure of the French and declared in favor of "a government of the people, by the people and for the people." They declared they no longer recognized the Ottoman government, promised protection to Armenians, and decided not to disarm them. Miss Mary Caroline Holmes, who speaks the Turkish language, attended the meeting, and at her suggestion the Turks included an Armenian deputy in a delegation selected to go to Angora to report the evacuation of Urfa.

On April 21 a party of American relief workers, including Mrs. Richard Mansfield, was uneventfully escorted by the Turks from Urfa to Aleppo. Miss Margaret Weller of Bloomsburg, Pa., who remained at Urfa, was hit by a spent ball during the siege, but her injury was very slight.

Had to Swap Horses Amid Stream.
 Harrodsburg, Ky.—P. W. Herron had a close call when a horse he was driving through a swollen stream broke loose and left him sitting in the middle of the creek with flood waters rising rapidly. Friends were able to drive out to him before the waters washed the buggy away.

EARTH IS GROWING COLDER

Old-Fashioned Arctic Winters Seem to Be More and More Recognized Institutions.

How do the old-fashioned people account for the fact that this second decade of the twentieth century, now near its close (the decade, not the century) has produced more "old-fashioned winters" than any like recorded period in the past? "The climate is growing milder," some people say. It appears more likely it is growing steadily colder. The oldest inhabitant cannot remember a more Vermontish sort of a winter in Boston than the one which has happily come to an end, remarks the Transcript of that city. One would, indeed, rather expect it to be so. Our moribund earth is constantly radiating its heat into the shivery spaces between the planets. The sun is pumping away into regions far beyond the planets, with a positively inconceivable recklessness of wastefulness, its stores of heat and energy. We are trying to warm up the milky way and are only chilling ourselves in doing it. The process has been going on for a million years and more. Perhaps it is beginning to tell on the weather at Boston. Year by year the old-fashioned winters will be getting more new-fashioned—until at last Gulana and Amazonia will be sending their Arctic expeditions to Massachusetts bay, as we are now sending MacMillan to Baffin's bay.

ABOUT THE LAST ARGUMENT

After That It Was Time for Hubby to Get Busy and Buy Her That Davenport.

What she desired was a new davenport.

She had talked davenport until her husband's soul was tried. She made it her business to be carefully scrutinizing the furniture advertisements every time he caught her reading the newspaper.

She left pictures of davenports lying around on the table. She sent for furniture catalogues and he always found the pages open that contained davenport illustrations.

The other evening he glanced over her shoulder as she was going through her regular evening performance with the newspaper.

"More davenport advertisement, I suppose," he murmured a bit sarcastically.

"No, John, dear," she replied in similar vein. "You would buy me this with far less persuasion."

Then he took a second look at the paper. She was reading a coffin company's advertisement.

Somewhat Humorous "Ad."

Bill Nye, known in his day as a humorist, owned a cow which he wanted to sell, and put an advertisement in the paper which read like this: "Owing to ill-health, I will sell at my residence, in township 19, range 18, according to the government survey, one plush raspberry cow, aged eight years. She is of undoubted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to any one who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth short-horn and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw a double-barrel shot gun, which goes with her. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell her to a non-resident."

Set Aim In Life.

A definitely fixed goal is a challenge to ingenuity. That is especially true for the trail blazer. Haphazard goals are apt to be the avenue to the way of least resistance. Attaining them is merely a matter of finding the easiest short-cut to them. With a ruling purpose it's different. Every possible motive and means is marshaled to gain the end. Oldtime methods are seen to fall when most needed. So the youthful dreamer puts his wits to work to discover new methods to gain the point. And it's surprising what an amount of unrated genius there is waiting to be called forth by a great occasion.—Exchange.

Autumn Leaves.

The infant school is out, and a crowd of tiny children come chasing each other down the road, laughing and calling, running in the wind, their cheeks rosy, their eyes dancing and their hair flying. Just as they reach me a big gust of wind shakes the trees above their heads, and quantities of yellow, brown and golden leaves come swirling down over and around them—and children and leaves all whirl away together. Whereupon I paint a mental picture, all russet and amber and little laughing faces, and call it "Autumn Leaves," for not all our happiest pictures get placed on canvas.—Christian Science Monitor.

Buenos Aires' Rapid Growth.

Buenos Aires is one of the fastest growing cities of the world. The census of 1914 showed 1,575,800 inhabitants, and the population is now estimated to be more than 2,000,000, since immigrants are arriving at the rate of more than 10,000 a week. Until recently the city has retained most of the characteristics of the small Latin-American city.

It couldn't stand the Heat!

So It Vaporized and Went "Blooney!"

Here is this unfortunate motorist, right out in the "sticks," forty miles from nowhere, with his engine hot as blazes, the oil vaporized, and him facing the cold fact that he can't budge another foot until he can get a fresh supply of oil—

If he had had his crank case filled with "GREEN FLAG" he would not now be gazing into his engine in blank helplessness—

Motor Oils of inefficient quality, or insufficient viscosity (body) quickly break down under the terrific temperature generated by the rapidly operating motor—

You'll always "play safe" against these troubles and expenses by using "Green Flag" Motor Oil of the correct grade for YOUR car—
