

Double-Barreled Service

WHEN you buy IHC machines, you also buy the Service that goes with them—the co-operation that exists between us and the International Harvester Company, and which we intend to continue with you. We expect to hold your confidence in the IHC line by furnishing the best implements, machines and farm operating equipment on the market.

We render to you a double-barreled Service in not only supplying you with first-class goods, but in seeing that these goods are kept in perfect running order long after the original sale is forgotten.

Our moral obligation does not stop with the original sale, but you can hardly expect us to assume any responsibility for the successful operation of IHC machines if you buy imitation repairs of inferior quality instead of buying genuine IHC Repairs.

We sell only genuine IHC Repairs made by the Harvester Company, and which are made of the same materials as used for the original machines. No imitation equals the genuine. Play safe!

MANY SUBMIT TO BLACKMAIL

According to Private Detective, it is a Great and Thriving Industry in This Country.

One of the greatest of our private detectives told me the other day that if he were a bright young man and wanted to go into a profitable business he would handle a nice line of blackmail, says a writer in the Boston Globe.

"Believe me," said he, "more money is being paid out in blackmail in this country than on the army and navy. I'm not kidding any. I think that if I had the blackmail payments for two years I could settle our national debt and be money ahead."

Now and then, he admitted, blackmailers find rose leaves in their silken sheets.

A young man was found dead some time ago in a certain Eastern city, a large part of his brains having been wasted by what seems to have been one of the large blue automatics the army and navy wear. He did not work on the case, but he thinks that the dead young man tried to blackmail the wrong person.

He thinks he knows who the person is, but he isn't saying anything. He hopes some other blackmailer will try him on.

A gentleman from Chicago is said to have been asked for $14,000 by a pair of blackmailing crooks. The gentleman from Chicago enlisted the aid of his chauffeur and beat the pair of crooks so that the lady did not get out of a hospital for four weeks. The man is in the hospital yet.

It was not polite or gentlemanly on the part of the Chicago man, but it was effective. The same pair will not try it on him again.

"That is the only way to handle blackmailers," said the detective. "Don't bargain with them—beat them. If you can't do it yourself hire a man. But beat them so they think the next time out you will kill them. If you do not do it you're lost. You will pay all your life. They never let up."

"Do you mean what you say about money payments?"

"It is the biggest business in the country, next to steel."

Fleeing High Cost of Living.

Maybe one of these cool spring days, when the fog hangs heavy over the streets of London and shrouds the Thames in gray, a little bark may put out to sea in quest of Utopia. Others have sought it, of course, but their failures have in no way daunted those who have come after them. And so it happens, remarks the Kansas City Times, that an Englishman is seeking kindred spirits to join him in flight from the cares of life, from depreciated currency and the H. C. of L. to some tropical isle where the sun shines the year around, where man's wants are simple and clothes are useless impediments, where food drops from trees into lazy hands and life flows a placid, unruffled stream.

And, of course, being an Englishman and having an idea, he must pass it along in the classified columns of the London Times. Consequently the following notice recently appeared:

"Who is fed up with continued unrest and sovereign's depreciation, and would join a party of new pilgrims, proposing to colonize any old island where the sun shines, locality not decided? Suggestions welcomed from prospective pilgrims; none but really white people need apply.—Box A 794, the Times."

Gawsworth.

"A wood three miles long and three miles broad" is the description of Gawsworth given in the Domesday Book. The village at the beginning of 1920, when it, along with the rest of the earl of Harrington's Cheshire property, is being sold at the Macclesfield drill hall, preserves its ancient boundaries almost as they were in those by-gone days. Besides the Old Hall, dating back to the fourteenth century, the village boasts of the most perfect tilting ground in England. In the eighteenth century one of Gawsworth's sons earned fame as a dancing master, poet, playwright, musician and actor combined. "Old Maggoty," or "Maggoty Johnson," wrote "Hurliothumbo," a satire on the age, to which he was instigated by the duke of Montague. "Old Maggoty" of Gawsworth was known in society as "Lord Flame," from the character of that name in his work.—Christian Science Monitor.

Women on Juries.

According to the act passed in England in 1919, women must serve on juries as well as men. While this is no new idea in this country it has caused a considerable amount of comment in England, and the idea of a "mixed jury" seems particularly abhorrent, especially if the jury fails to agree and "locking up" is necessary. Then there is the possibility of a woman's being summoned to serve on a jury, depriving her husband and family of children of her company and services.

Language May Become Extinct.

The Chinese educational institutions are being driven to introduce English. At one of the leading institutions which is drawing girls from all parts of the country they find that they cannot understand each other's dialects and the result is that they resort to English, and it was found necessary to introduce its study as a part of the school work.

Arm Work.

"Why so much exercise swinging the Indian clubs?"
"I'm rehearsing for a new job. I'm promised a position as a traffic policeman at a busy crossing."

Beauty is more than Skin Deep

The really lovely women of the world are healthy women. Abundant vitality is the basis of their charm. It exerts a magnetism felt by everyone. Knowing this, the wise woman keeps healthy by close personal attention to certain daily observances, the most important of which is regular elimination of poisonous food waste.

Nujol is the scientific method of treating constipation. It works on an entirely new principle.

Instead of forcing or irritating the system, Nujol simply softens the food waste. This enables the many tiny muscles in the walls of the intestines, contracting and expanding in their normal way, to squeeze the food waste along so that it passes naturally out of the system.

Nujol thus vents constipation because it helps Nature maintain easy, thorough bowel movements at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Nujol is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Try it.

Nujol is sold by all druggists in sealed bottles only, bearing Nujol trade mark. Write Nujol Laboratories, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), 50 Broadway, New York, for booklet, "Thirty Feet of Danger".
