This Baby was Saved by Our Milk.

MOTHERS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

The mothers of Italy are appealing to you, the mothers of South Carolina, as did the mothers of Belgium in 1914.

It is the same distressing cry—"Give us milk, that our babies may live!"

With beating heart we went to the succor of the "Bebes of Belgium," what shall our answer be to the desolate mothers of Italy.

The need is urgent. Five hundred thousand babies are suffering from hunger and the hunger diseases.

The whole child life of Italy is endangered, and disaster can only be averted by sending milk in sufficient quantities to tide them over this crisis, and we must ask ourselves this question: are we willing to make the sacrifice to send it?

Milk is the very elixir of life to the baby; but in Italy there is no milk, a milk famine exists, war and disease having left the nation without cattle or milk goats.

Will you help save these babies? Will you interest your neighbor, your club, your church society, the women of your city and community in saving these babies?

It is the work of the good Samaritan.

Your babies have all that a tender mother's love can give them—the same mother's love "Over There" is powerless, there is little to give. It is your privilege now to give for that other mother.

Upon your answer waits the hope of many a sad mother in Italy.

Banking and Backing.

Last week idle rumors were afloat in Columbia reflecting seriously upon the soundness of one of the banks there. A mild run was started on the bank and depositors, mostly small ones and some large, began forming in line to withdraw their funds. Then by reason of the modern way of banking, the suspected bank suddenly became the strongest bank in the state. In addition to being sound of its own resources, the Columbia clearing house association, an organization of the banks in Columbia, investigated the affair of the suspected bank, discovered that the rumors were without foundation, and issued a statement guaranteeing every penny of every deposit. Thus backed by all the other banks in Columbia, the bank under suspicion became as strong as the combined strength of all the banks. It is stated that on the day of the run, deposits exceeded withdrawals, although the bank remained open an extra hour in the afternoon to accommodate those who wished to withdraw their funds.

The action of the Columbia banks shows a fine spirit of co-operation and serves as a sort of sledge hammer blow to people who start idle rumors, which have not the semblance of foundation, but which may do much harm and cause great losses and suffering.

"To peddle this sort of gossip," says the Columbia Record "is quite as bad as to shout the alarm of fire in a crowded theatre."

Since this incident, which is now past, the people of Columbia doubtless have more confidence than ever in that city's banks, and not only in Columbia, but in South Carolina.—Lancaster News.

Waterloo Mill News.

Camden, Dec. 16.—Arrangements for the entertainment to be given at the Waterloo Baptist church on Christmas eve, Friday night, the 24th are fast being completed. The committees in charge promise many interesting features, one of which will be a short sketch in which the Alderman of the village will show how Christmas was received forty years ago, garbed in customary dress of those times, and later will appear in present-day dress and during each appearance will render vocal selections appropriate for the occasion. Many of the boys and girls will give recitations. The smaller children from the Kindergarten will also do their part in making the program interesting. Two trees will be decorated around which will be placed loads of toys and Santa Claus will be on the spot to see that every child in the village receives one. We are looking forward to an evening of real fun and every one is cordially invited to attend.

The playground is now open and many of the boys and girls appear each afternoon and go thru their calisthenic exercises. Two teams of Basketball have been organized among the boys as well as two teams among girls around the ages of twelve to fourteen years. The court has been newly laid off and many practice games have been played. Later on a picked team of each will be made to play outside teams.
